ROLAND'S WIFE KILLED BY FIRE, JURY'S VERDICT

No Signs of Violence Are Found on Body, Says Doctor at Inquest.

HUSBAND CONFESSES HE STARTED FLAMES

Murder Warrant Issued and Man Is Taken to Jail in Marlboro.

Declaring that Mrs. Margaret Hurley Roland was burned to death in Seat Pleasant, Md., in a fire set by her husband, Lyle C. Roland, a coroner's jury last night recommended that Roland be held for the Prince Georges County grand jury on a charge of murder.

Testimony that Mrs. Roland was burned to death was given by Dr. James I. Boyd, of Forestville. Dr. Boyd stated that there was no doubt that she was alive when the flames which swept her home seared her body. There were no signs of violence, Dr. Boyd said.

Roland, a 43-year-old commercial painter, was present at the inquest but did not testify. During the early part of the hearing, which was held in Capitol Heights before Magistrate Oscar Poore, Roland sat with his arms folded and appeared to be uninterested in the proceedings. Later, when a crowd of about 150 persons had learned he was present and had surged forward to surround him and stare at him, he showed signs of nervousness. After the verdict had been read, he trembled while telling friends that he would hire a lawyer to prove his innocence.

Firemen on Jury.

The firemen who found the woman's body when they crashed through a partition into a cubbyhole under the eaves were on the coroner's jury, so no testimony about finding the body was given. Constable Earle Blackwell, who is handling the case, and State Policeman J. C. Gates told of seeing the body later and of arresting Roland.

Mrs. Bertha Grimes, who lives across the road from the house the Rolands rented, said she heard Mrs. Roland screaming "Fire!" and that the woman was then not in the house. She was positive on this point, although closely questioned. Paul Fowler, a Seat Pleasant fireman, testified that when the firemen approached the house, Roland, who was in the yard, told them to leave.

Gotlieb Link, of Capitol Heights, identified a statement made in writing by Roland shortly after the fire.

Trio Steals Truck And $15,000 Cargo

Driver and Assistant From Washington Are Held Up in Brooklyn.

Special to The Washington Post.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Three armed bandits held up a truck driver and his helper in Brooklyn today and escaped with their truck and trailer and a cargo of cigars, cigarettes and drugs. Two of the bandits drove the driver and helper away in an automobile, while the third took charge of the truck. The vehicle and goods were valued at $15,000.

The driver of the truck said he is Robert Brock, of 338 I street, Washington, D. C. The helper described himself as Edward Redd, of 420 Eighth street southwest, also of Washington. The truck was the property of the Powell Transportation Co., of Washington, and had been loaded at the Bush Terminal, Brooklyn.

At Third and Hamilton avenues Brooklyn, the automobile driven by the bandits forced the truck to the curb. The driver and helper say they were put in the automobile and driven to Sixth avenue and Lincoln place, Brooklyn, where they were freed. They reported the robbery to police of the Fifth Avenue Station, Brooklyn, who began immediate investigation.

2 Pilots' Bodies Hunted In San Francisco Bay

San Francisco, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Two Crissy Field fliers, Lieut. Jefferson J. Davis, of Visalia, Calif., and Lieut. Robert W. Merrick, of Portland, Oreg., were believed today to have plunged to their deaths in San Francisco Bay last night.

A wing strut from a plane of the same type as that flown by the missing men was found in the Golden Gate channel today. An intensive search was begun then for other wreckage and the bodies of the fliers.

Metropolitan Opera House, New York, Nov. 22 (U.P.).—There were empty seats in the diamond horseshoe tonight when a fanfare of trumpets opened the opera season of 1932-33, but New York's humbler opera lovers were there en masse.

They were packed to the fourth gallery, lined ten deep behind the orchestra stalls, men and women from the East Side and West Side, Harlem, the Bronx and the suburbs. They had paid their $1.50 standing room fees to hear "Simon Boccanegra," with Lawrence Tibbett him-

With only 53½ hours to go, following yesterday's report meeting, the Chest "army" started forth to raise $1,044,958.65 in order to complete the Chest quota of $2,419,787 by 7 p. m. tomorrow, when the closing meeting is held in the exhibition hall at Wardman Park Hotel.

Yesterday's reports, made at the daily meeting at Willard Hotel brought the number of "black" days crossed off the calendar up to 207. In other words, it provided for Washington's destitute and suffering humanity through July 26, 1933. This still leaves 158 "black" days to be crossed off the calendar, and on the success of the efforts of the Chest "army" today and tomorrow depends the number of those days that will be crossed off by the cheerful red line.

HITLER SPURNS CABINET OFFER AS TOO LIMITED

PRESIDENT TO MAKE HIS ANSWER TODAY

Friends of Von Papen Feel His Chances Are Good for Reappointment.

Berlin, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—After nine years of striving, Adolf Hitler today received a mandate to form a cabinet, but it was under conditions which, immediately at least, he could not accept.

The Nazi leader had a fifteen-minute interview with the aged field marshal in which, a government communique said, he "declared himself most emphatically to the president of the Reich that his party could cooperate only in a government led by himself."

The president handed him a written memorandum setting forth that certain things in the Reich must not be tampered with if the Nazis took over the government, and late tonight Hitler replied with a letter in which, it was understood, he emphasized that the restrictions expressed by President von Hindenburg were too narrow.

Advisers Still Hopeful.

The contents of the Hitler letter were not made public, but it was learned that the Nazi leader did not close the door. The way for an authoritarian presidial cabinet under Hitler leadership still could be established, he said.

The Nazi leader's advisers remain hopeful that President von Hindenburg will consider wholly reasonable their chieftain's demand, as the head of the largest party in Germany, to be invested with the highest political power in the Reich.

One of the conditions set forth in the Von Hindenburg memorandum was a declaration that there must be no tampering with the Reichswehr, the government's emergency decrees, the federal commisionership over Prussia, the foreign policy and article 48 of the constitution, which provides the government with drastic powers to deal with emergencies.

Hindenburg Answer Awaited.

It was Hitler's belief that no statesman with his hands thus bound could assume responsibility. The question, therefore, reverted once again to President von Hindenburg, whose answer to the Hitler letter tomorrow is awaited with greatest interest by all Germany.

In today's interview, the president

Former Danish Attache Seeks Divorce in Nevada

Reno, Nev., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Aksel C. P. Wichfield, former attache of the Danish Legation in Washington, filed suit secretly at Carson City November 10 for a divorce from the former Mabel F. Swift, of Boston, distantly related to the Chicago packing family, the Associated Press learned tonight.

Wichfield, whose name has been linked with that of Josephine "Fifi" Widener, Philadelphia heiress, in connection with a possible romance, charged cruelty in his divorce complaint.

Late G. W. U. Dean's Art Gifts Assailed as Fakes

Wisconsin Professor Doubts That Paintings Charles Noble Gregory Left to State Historical Society Are Work of Old Masters.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—A dispute over the authenticity of a number of works of art bequeathed to the State Historical Society by the late Charles Noble Gregory, of Washington, D. C., was precipitated here today by Laurence Schmeckebier, assistant professor of arts history.

The opinion of Schmeckebier that the paintings credited to Michelangelo, Rubens, Rafael, Tintoretto and others were spurious was disputed by Miss Anne Nunns, assistant superintendent of the society. Miss Nunns said the society possessed correspondence showing the art objects were purchased from reputable London dealers. She added that "there is no one in Madison competent to judge them."

Commenting on an "Anne Boleyn" credited to Hobart, Schmeckebier said "it looks like work of a schoolgirl."

"It was the privilege of Mr. Gregory to buy what he chose, to hang in his home whatever pictures he chose, with whatever names he chose," Schmeckebier added, "but to hang these pictures in a public institution is nothing but blasphemy."

Dr. Joseph Schafer, superintendent of the Historical Society, said he would arrange to have a competent art critic view the pictures and pass judgment on their authenticity.

Gregory was formerly dean of the University of Wisconsin Law School.

Dr. Gregory died here on August 10. From 1911 until 1914 he was dean of the George Washington University Law School.

He was internationally known as an expert on international law and for seventeen years was one of the editors of the American Journal of International Law. He was also the author of legal books and papers.

His home here was at 2114 Bancroft place. He was a member of the Cosmos, Metropolitan and Chevy Chase Clubs.

Secretary Adams of Navy Is Mentioned as Successor.

The name of Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, is being prominently mentioned as a successor to Dr. Lowell. Secretary Adams could not be reached last night to discuss reports that the post is open to him.

The Secretary of the Navy is an alumnus of Harvard and from 1898 to 1929 served as treasurer of the Corporation of Harvard College.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Abbott Lawrence Lowell, one of the world's foremost educators and for the last 23 years president of Harvard University, resigned today.

Lowell found Harvard a comparatively small institution of 3,882 students and an endowment of only $22,716,759 when he took office on May 19, 1909, as twenty-fourth in the line of presidents of this country's oldest college. He will leave it with more than 8,000 students and the largest ndowment of any institution of higher learning in America, $123,415,390.

He leaves it richer, too, because of many revolutionary departures from educational tradition which have made Harvard one of the most widely discussed universities in the civilized world.

HALE MAY BECOME ECONOMY UNIT HEAD

Seen as Successor to Jones; Veterans' Costs Group Meets Shortly.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

An early meeting of the Senate economy committee to pass on vital issues of Federal retrenchment turned yesterday on the appointment of a successor to the late Senator Wesley L. Jones as chairman of the Senate appropriations committee.

Lacking initiative of individual members the initial session of this group may be delayed until the first week of Congress, despite a mass of data awaiting sifting, assembled in the committee's summer canvass of Government departments.

Representative John McDuffie, of Alabama, House Democratic whip, yesterday canceled plans to return to Alabama and fixed December 1 as a tentative date for the first meeting of his joint committee on trimming veterans' costs.

At the same time, Senator L. J. Dickinson, a member of the Senate economy committee and keynoter at the last Republican convention, urged broader presidential leeway to reorganize Government bureaus as the principal pathway to new savings, aside from veterans' expenditures.

Meanwhile, the Budget Bureau, under orders from the President, was pressing to conclusion its plan for placing executive orders carrying out specific Federal consolidations, under the present limited authorization, before Congress next month.

New Parliament Opened By King Zog in Albania

Tirana, Albania, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—A newly elected Parliament, Albania's second since the establishment of the monarchy in 1929, was opened today with a speech by King Zog in which he stressed peaceful relations with neighbor states, particularly with the "great ally," Italy. The king said relations with Italy were "cordial and animated by a spirit of sincerity."

While Ahmed Beg Zog was president of the Albanian republic, for a perfod of four years before he became King Zog, a treaty of friendship and arbitration was signed by Albania and Italy and was followed by a defensive alliance.

ROBINS RECOGNIZES WIFE AT ASHEVILLE

Dry Crusader Greets Her in Overall Jumper; Is on Road to Recovery.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Col. Raymond Robins was reported by his physician to have recovered his memory and recognized his wife and nephew late today.

The prohibition leader, who was apparently suffering from a lapse of memory when he was identified in the Great Smoky Mountains Friday after being missing more than two months, had previously denied knowing Mrs. Robins and John Dreier, the nephew, and insisted he was the victim of mistaken identification.

Mrs. Robins went this afternoon to the hospital where her husband had been placed for medical attention under Dr. Mark A. Griffin, psychiatrist. A short time later Dreier was called into the room. After a few minutes he came out and issued a statement, which he said was authorized by Dr. Griffin.

The statement said that Robins' memory was "apparently restored," and that "he seems well on the way to normal health."

Mrs. Robins spent virtually the entire afternoon with her husband. They ate dinner together in the colonel's hospital room.

Hospital attaches said Robins recognized his wife a few minutes after she entered the room.

"I am overjoyed," Miss Mary Dreier, sister of Mrs. Robins, quoted the latter as saying.

Miss Dreier added that the family considers the recognition a most happy ending to the case.

Early this afternoon a barber was called to the Appalachian hall to shave off the two months' growth of beard which all but hid Col. Robins' features. The noted social worker was clean-shaven when his wife arrived at the hospital to begin her visit. He was wearing his overall jumper suit, however.

Dr. Griffin, who said he was up all of last night, declined to amplify on his original short statement for the present.

SOME LEADERS SEE LONG DELAY IN BEER RETURN

DYER, G. O. P. LEADER, SEES EARLY REPORT

Britten Says Hoover Would Sign Measure, But Joslin Discounts Statement.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Although the antiprohibition boys—and girls, too, for that matter—have been whooping it up with the ear-filling phrase of "beer by Christmas," some of the most astute and experienced men in Congress are convinced it will be a long time after Christmas before the manufacture and sale of real beer will be made legal.

The drive for immediate legalization of beer is becoming increasingly complicated and these observers believe that one or another of the complicating factors, if not the combination, will effectively block the efforts of the rampant wets for an immediate and effective modification of the Volstead law in advance of repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution.

Although neither President Hoover nor President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt made prohibition the major issue of their recent contest, the wets are making all the capital they can out of the election as a national repudiation of prohibition and its accompanying sumptuary legislation.

Constitutionality Question.

But whether the present Congress, which meets in its last session next month, will pass a measure permitting manufacture and sale of real beer is not as completely certain as some of the most ardent wets would like to have everyone believe. But even if Congress does pass such a bill the question of its constitutionality would still remain to be settled.

Undoubtedly the constitutionality of a law modifying the Volstead act to permit beer would be challenged and the question probably would be taken to the United States Supreme Court for decision.

But the efforts of the beer advocates will be further complicated by efforts of domestic wine producers to have the beer bill carry their industry back into the good graces of the law.

Not only the prospective wine makers but others, as well will seek to have the law limit its grace to products made in this country, or at least made with American materials. California interests are reported to have an enormous quantity of wine products already in hand and they are going to raise a loud shout that American industry should not be drowned in a deluge of thousands on

Denver, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—A final recheck today of official and absentee votes in all counties, cast in the election November 8, for the unexpired term of the late Senator Charles W. Waterman, of Colorado, gave Karl C. Schuyler (Republican), a lead of 1,122 over Walter Walker (Democrat).

The Schuyler victory in Colorado makes the seats in the Senate during the coming short session total 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats, 1 Farmer-Labor and 1 vacancy. The vacant seat, that of the late Senator Wesley L. Jones (Republican), of Washington, is to be filled by appointment.

LEAGUE HEARS ORAL DUEL ON MANCHURIA

Lytton Report Airing Begins as Slaughter and Disorder Are Countercharged.

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 21 (A.P.). Examination by the League of Nations council of the Manchurian problem in the light of the Lytton report began today with a sharp duel of debate, in which Japan's spokesman denied that his government had broken any of its international obligations and the representative of China declared that as a result of Japanese invasion "the ruthless slaughter of Chinese citizens and the wanton destruction of Chinese property are still going on."

From special reserved seats the Lytton commissioners heard Yosuke Matsuoka, for Japan, reject their finding that Japan's military action in Manchuria was unjustified, while Dr. Wellington Koo, for China, upheld their conclusion. Gen. Frank McCoy, American member of the commission, sat with his colleagues.

The Japanese spokesman pleaded for patience and for acceptance of Japan's policy. The Chinese delegate appealed for "redress for China's wrongs."

Mr. Matsuoka denounced China as

Officials Fear Plot Aimed at Lives of Cambridge, Mass.' Judges After District Attorney Gets Threatening Letter; Radical Case Blamed.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Fear of a wholesale poison plot swept the Middlesex superior courthouse today with the discovery of a white powder in the water pitchers of four judges and District Attorney Warren L. Bishop.

A custodian made the discovery shortly before court opened and before any of the water in the pitchers in which the powder was found had been drunk. State chemists tonight had made no official announcement of the nature of the powder or whether it was harmful.

Custodian Wilbur T. Downes noticed the powder in one of the pitchers. He immediately examined others in the several courtrooms and found the same kind of powder in each. Court sessions were conducted as usual and the discovery was not made known until tonight.

The judges in whose sessions the powder was found are Thomas J. Hammond, Ernest Hobson, Frederick T Greenhalge and Marcus Morton.

District Attorney Bishop declined to issue any statement, but it was understood in courthouse circles that an investigation would be made regarding threatening letters which he received last week regarding the case of Miss Alice Ward, of Boston, who was charged with inciting a riot.

Miss Ward's case came up today before Judge Hobson. She was found guilty and sentenced to one month in the House of Correction. A member of the Boston unemployment council, Miss Ward was alleged to have led a group engaged in a disturbance at Newton City Hall several weeks ago while demanding to see Mayor Sinclair Weeks.

An extra armed guard was placed about the courthouse tonight.

HOOVER MEETS GOV. ROOSEVELT TODAY ON DEBT

President's Program May Include Revival of Commission.

MILLS WILL AID HIM DURING CONFERENCE

Lincoln Study to Be Scene; President-Elect Due to Arrive at 3:30 P. M.

Prepared for today's momentous debt talk with Franklin D. Roosevelt, President Hoover last night held ready to place upon that conference table a definite program possibly to include recommendations for revival of the war debt commission.

Even as the Chief Executive rounded out his plans in a series of parleys with his seconds and advisers, however, renewed opposition to the re-creation of the debt commission resounded on Capitol Hill.

Meanwhile, also, another twist was added to the already complex debt problem at Czechoslovakia deposited at the State Department—alongside those of Great Britain, France and Belgium—a note asking suspension of its $1,500,000 payment due December 15.

Mills to Assist Hoover.

Secretary Mills, who will assist the President today, conferred twice with him yestrday. Whether Mr. Hoover may abandon his previous sponsorship of reestablishing the debt commission in the face of heavy congressional opposition, the Treasury Secretary would not say. Interrogated by newspapermen, he said, smiling:

"Such an organization would be very helpful right now."

Mills said that, of course, the President has his own definite ideas on this whole debt question and I suppose they will be talked over with Mr. Roosevelt."

"The interesting thing, however," he said, "is what Mr. Roosevelt is going to do, and what his ideas will be."

Mills foresaw three possibilities as arising from today's meeting, a joint program evolved by the President and the President-elect, a program sent to Capitol Hill by Mr. Moover, or suggestions given by Mr. Roosevelt to Democratic leaders and enacted by Congress.

Lincoln Study Scene.

During the day White House aids shifted plans for the reception to the New York Governor. The scene of the meeting was changed from the executive offices, as originally planned, and set instead for the Lincoln study on the second floor of the White House proper.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt, after his train arrives at 3:30 p. m., can drive directly into the south grounds of the

HUNGER MARCHERS FIGHT WITH POLICE

18 Arrested in Minneapolis; Heads Battered and Cut and Disorder Quelled.

Minneapolis, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Two officers were beaten and eighteen arrests made during a clash in front of the city hall today between officers and a group of demonstrators. Police said the demonstration was led by several members of what they termed "the national hunger marchers," here en route to Washington.

Police estimated that more than 1,000 men, mostly unemployed, marched on the courthouse to demand aid. They were met at an entrance by a squad of police.

In the battle that followed heads were battered and cut as the marchers advanced to the attack, swinging signs, fists and blackjacks. Reserve police and all deputy sheriffs in the building streamed from the courthouse doors in answer to a riot call.

A group hemmed in Patrolman Beryl Barker against the wall, and a marcher, police said, whipped out two blackjacks and swung. The officer went down, knocked out.

A wedge of police went into the milling group and took Barker to safety. Police clubs went into action and eight men were led into the courthouse and placed in jail.

The marchers then began to scatter, but some gathered as Herbert A. Paradeau, former captain of detectives, dashed out the door. They rushed and Paradeau reeled.

The marchers picked him up and hurled him into a revolving door that opportunely swung and cut him off.

Police, four abreast, then cleared the area.

The battle came after 80 hunger marchers arrived from all parts of Minnesota. The 1,000 had gathered to welcome them.

Madison, Nebr., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Andrew Dahlsten, leader in a movement for a farmers' march on Washington by truck, today said organization was being carried on in Madison and adjoining counties.

Marchers from other Western States would concentrate here November 28, he said, and would proceed to Sioux City and join other contingents from Minnesota, Iowa, and the Dakotas for the march on Washington. Groups of 25 farmers were eligible to send delegates who must be actual farmers or former farmers dispossessed of their land and now unemployed.

Ten dollars, Dahlsten estimated, should pay a delegate's expenses because farmers along the way have promised food. He said the marchers would be law abiding and orderly.

Woman Loses Her Suit Against Hecht Company

Because she failed to establish negligence on the part of the Hecht Co., Edna C. Longshore, of Kane, Pa., yesterday lost in District Supreme Court a suit for $25,000 damages from the store.

She sued because of a fall in the store in 1930. Through the law firm of Simon, Koenigsberger, Young & Brez, the Hecht Co. obtained a directed verdict in its favor on the basis of the failure to show that the store was negligent.

an), Maine, yesterday was widely viewed as the logical next chairman of the Senate appropriations committee and heir to the economy committee vacancy. Although he now is chairman of the naval affairs committee, it was pointed out that his father formerly held the same post, and gave it up to become appropriations chairman. The Capitol view is that he would prefer to follow in the footsteps of his father.

Predicts Sharp Cuts.

Senator Dickinson, who predicted Congress will make sharp cuts in appropriations, declined any forecasts as to who Jones' successor as Senate economy chairman might be. Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, also a member of the economy group, thinks the new chairman of the appropriations committee will automatically succeed to the economy post. And confirmation of a new appropriations chairman awaits the return of Congress.

Four members of the bipartisan economy committee of six already have returned to Washington, Senators Dickinson, Bingham, Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, and McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee. Both Byrnes and McKellar favor an early meeting, with fresh assaults on expenditures. They have withheld their economy programs pending that meeting.

Recalling pledges of Senators Bingham, McKellar and others that something will be done at this session to lessen hardships inflicted on Government workers by the economy act, Federal employes are looking with interest to this first session of the economy group.

Had Asked Suggestions.

The resolution extending the committee's life empowered members to make needed modifications, while searching for new economies. Senator Jones before his death asked department heads to suggest means of ameliorating many of the burdens.

Senator Dickinson yesterday was outspoken. He said he hoped it will not be necessary to make further inroads on Federal salaries, but thinks the present 8 1-3 per cent cut should be continued until the Nation's fiscal status has materially improved.

While declaring reorganization and veterans' costs the most fertile field for economizing, he expressed doubt that any substantial savings could be effected via the reorganization route until the President's powers are considerably broadened.

Under the present law the President's reorganization proposals must lay before Congress 60 days before they become law. At any time during the 60 days Congress may disapprove them. Divisions of opinion in Congress, he believes, will render it impossible for any major reforms of this nature to go through.

He declared revision of veterans' legislation essential to any material reduction in the Federal budget.

Representative McDuffie, in fixing December 1 as a tentative date for the first meeting of the joint committee on veterans' legislation, said he expects to lay the committee's report before Congress by January 1, the date specified in the resolution creating his committee.

"Congress will be guided by the desire of the people in the country in their veterans' legislation," he said.

PLANS TO COMBAT MARCHERS GUARDED

Action of District Heads Is Likely to Be in Form of Surprise Moves.

Whatever action District authorities take to speed the departure of hunger marchers from the Capital or to maintain order while these or other delegations are here probably will be taken in the form of surprise moves, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, intimated yesterday.

When asked when the District heads intended to make public their plans, as previously indicated, he said they probably would not reveal them at all or not until they were put into effect. He declined to discuss the matter further, however.

For the last week or so Corporation Counsel William W. Bride has devoted almost all of his time to speeding about the city on secret trips or to holding conferences, from which even his secretary has been barred. Some of these trips have been to the Department of Justice and others to the Police Department. In many of the parleys Mr. Bride has been accompanied by his first assistant, Vernon E. West, who as acting corporation counsel last summer sanctioned the Commissioner's order barring all delegations from Washington at the District line unless they could establish their mission as lawful.

About all these conferences and trips, however, there has hovered an atmosphere of the utmost secrecy. Mr. Bride flatly has declined on numerous occasions even to discuss the problems which the approach of the hunger marchers raise.

Dr. Reichelderfer denied yesterday afternoon that the Commissioners had received from Mr. Bride any report setting forth statutes under which leaders of the hunger march and the Thanksgiving Day children's demonstration might be prosecuted. He admitted, though, that the corporation council had been accumulating such list, along with other legal data bearing on the problem.

Among other letters received yesterday by the Commissioners relative to their national plea for cooperation of State and city executives in discouraging marches on Washington this winter was one from Mayor John C. Porter of Los Angeles.

"Our investigation, which is very complete, discloses that this is purely a Communistic movement, and that nothing we can do here will discourage the march to Washington," he wrote.

The letter further stated that there are but a dozen in the delegation from Los Angeles and only about 25 from California.

Governors of Tennessee and Kansas pledged their cooperation to the District heads.

British Beverage Group Will Visit Washington

Returning from the annual convention and exposition of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, held in Cleveland, Ohio, last week, a group of British beverage manufacturers will arrive here today for a three-day visit.

The group includes John W. Kerr, of Birmingham; Clifford H. Wallis, of London; Robert Barr, Glasgow; J. N. Robb, Dundee, Scotland; John Campbell, Perth, Scotland; James Lovett, Leicester, England; H. J. L. Severn and G. H. Burgess, Derby, England.

Red Cross Makes 50,000 Garments

Assistance Also Given to 2,600 Veterans by Unit During October.

A large item in the activities of the District Red Cross during October was the making of approximately 50,000 garments for Washington's unemployed, and needy from Government owned cotton, it was reported yesterday. More than 742 women volunteered their service for the sewing.

Other work of the month was the assistance of 2,600 veterans, the distribution of 2,400 articles of clothing to veterans and their families and the giving of 8,000 hours of welfare work in the wards of Walter Reed and Naval Hospitals.

The chapter also turned over to local welfare agencies for distribution among the needy 2,200 barrels of flour, and has arranged for an additional supply of 7,300 barrels. It has trained 2,000 persons in first aid, water life saving and home hygiene. It has made 225 books for the blind and has prepared 116,000 surgical dressings for local hospitals and visiting nurses.

SPIRIT OF SACRIFICE SHOWN AT MEETING OF CHEST GROUPS

the honorary president of the Girl Scouts of America, received a rising ovation at yesterday's meeting when she was introduced by Chairman Newbold Noyes. She did not make a speech, but she did receive two thrills—the first when the Chest workers welcomed her whole-heartedly, and the second when N. P. Webster, representing the White House, received the day's honor banner for Governmental organizations of less than 50 employes contributing 100 per cent to the Chest. Mrs. Hoover shook hands with Mr. Webster and remarked:

"I congratulate you. You have done remarkably well in getting this banner for the White House."

Other honor guests introduced were Mrs. Ogden Mills, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury; Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, wife of Justice Roberts, of the United States Supreme Court and hostess of the information unit; Mrs. Frederick H. Brooks, past commissioner of the District of Columbia Girl Scouts; Mrs. Benjamin F. Cheatham, Girl Scout commissioner of the District of Columbia, and Mrs. Gerritt S. Miller, retired Girl Scout commissioner of the District. In addition, Mr. Noyes introduced L. P. McLachlen, of the McLachlen Banking Corporation; Charles A. Goldsmith and his son, Ralph, of Lansburgh & Bros., and Charles H. Tompkins, of the Charles H. Tompkins Co.

In addition to the banner awarded to N. P. Webster, of the White House, the following honor banners were awarded yesterday:

Coleman Jennings, for the team with the highest percentage of dollar quota in the special gifts unit; Edward C. Wynne, of the Department of State, for the largest percentage of quota of personnel contributing in a Government department of 100 to 1,000 personnel; Dr. G. M. Hyland, of the Veterans' Administration, for the largest per cent of quota to date of a Government organization of more than 1,000 personnel; Miss Emily Mackall, captain of the honor team of the metropolitan unit; Mrs. Donnel Hewett, chairman of the honor division of the metropolitan unit; William Montgomery, highest percentage of 100 per cent firms of any area in the group solicitation unit; Donald Luxford, highest percentage of 100 per cent firms in any section of the group solicitation unit.

Donovan Is Speaker.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, auditor of the District of Columbia and a member of the office management committee of the Community Chest, made the principal talk of the day, bringing greetings from the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

"They wish me to transmit to you their hearty good wishes for the complete success of this campaign and their personal appreciation of the service which you are so unselfishly rendering for the well being of all of us who are citizens of the National Capital," Maj. Donovan said. "They are watching your work with the keenest interest and look forward to rejoicing with you and with all Washington at your Thanksgiving meeting on Wednesday night, when they sincerely hope you will be able to announce complete success for your endeavors.

"More personally, I speak to you as chairman of the District of Columbia division of the governmental campaign. Our employes, servants of all of you in the administration of the District of Columbia, had the best record, in my opinion, of any large Government department last year. They subscribed then a total of $124,005. They had the best collection record of any Government department, paying over 99½ per cent of their subscriptions. Our solicitation is not yet complete in the current campaign, but we hope to reach and surpass our quota."

A number of stories of unusual gifts marked yesterday's report meeting. A girl stenographer, employed in the Department of Agriculture, announced that she had a Christmas savings fund amounting to $50 that she would give to the Chest.

Truck Driver Gives $50.

The driver of one of the Sanitary Grocery Co.'s trucks, making but $29 a week, was so moved by the picture of distress painted for him by a Chest speaker that he subscribed $50 to be spread over the year.

Another report came from a worker, who found two families living in one house. The woman of the house in one instance was in bed ill, but insisted on giving $1 to the Chest. In the other section of the house, the grandmother, taking care of a child of 5, contributed 40 cents, all she had, and the little boy, listening to the conversation, went to his bank, drew out 25 cents, his sole possession, and presented it to Arthur Wright, the worker.

Out in Foxhall Village, little Betty Wheeler, not yet 8, listened to her father make a radio talk for the Community Chest. That night she got down her bank, drew out her most cherished possession, a silver dollar, and 50 cents more in change, and announced she wished to contribute it to the Chest. Mr. Wheeler added $3.50 to her fund so that she could give $5.

Throughout the report meeting yesterday ran the story of the spirit of sacrifice that is dominating the people of Washington in subscribing to the Chest this year. Almost every worker had a story to tell of some person who, under ordinary circumstances unable to give, still insisted that the need facing Washington this winter was so great that they must contribute their bit, however small, to the cause.

Chairman Noyes, in closing yesterday's meeting, made an impassioned appeal to the workers present to "finish the job."

Firms added to the list of those reporting 100 per cent contributions from employes were:

Associated Charities, Associated Retail Credit Men, Burlington Hotel, Handley Motor Co., Press Musicians Union, Quality Laundry, Super Concrete Co., Thompson Bros., of Anacostia, the Highlands Cafe, Garrison Toy & Novelty Co., Washington Coca Cola Bottling Co., Armour & Co., Herzog's Sea Food Cafe, C. G. Sloane's & Co. Auction House, Rainbow Dyeing & Cleaning Co., Chevy Chase Pure Food Store, Episcopal Home for Children and Ellett & Short.

List of Contributors.

Mrs. Martha Henault's Death Is Held Accident

A verdict of accidental death was issued by the coroner's jury yesterday in the fatal accident at Fifth treet and Rhode Island avenue northwest Saturday night, in which Mrs. Martha Henault, 70, of 517 L street northwest, was killed.

Mrs. Evelyn Mae Woodward, 20, of 3021 Channing street northwest, operator of the striking vehicle, was absolved of blame.

ROOSEVELT RESTS ON EVE OF PARLEY

Pays First Visit to His New Grandchild After Driving to New York City.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—A quiet evening at home, with only the members of his family and a few intimates around him preceded President-elect Roosevelt's entrance tomorrow into international issues that will officially be his problems after the March 4 inauguration. The governor's war debt conference with President Hoover is set for 4 p. m. tomorrow.

The governor motored from his Hyde Park home, where he had spent the week-end. Before going to his Sixty-fifth street residence he stopped at a hospital to see his new grandson and the mother, Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, wife of the second Roosevelt son.

First Visit to Baby.

The baby, his fourth grandchild, was born last week, a few days after Mr. Roosevelt was elected to the Presidency. Mr. Roosevelt had not seen the infant before today.

"Do you think he will be President?" Gov. Roosevelt was asked.

"I don't know; he didn't say," answered the President-elect.

Before dinner, the governor planned to talk with Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who will act as chief executive during Mr. Roosevelt's two weeks' absence in the South. Mr. Lehman, governor-elect, is just back from a vacation. James A. Farley, national chairman, had advised Mr. Roosevelt he intended to drop in for a "chat before bedtime." Farley will accompany Mr. Roosevelt to Warm Springs, Ga.

Silent on Debts Parley.

Mr. Roosevelt has refrained from speculating on the trend that the Tuesday conference with President Hoover will take. He has asserted he will have no official position in a war debt discussion, and that whatever thought he has on the debts can not be publicly discussed.

Prof. Raymond I. Moley, Columbia University economist, will accompany Mr. Roosevelt to the White House conference. Prof. Moley supplied Gov. Roosevelt with all the official and unofficial data on the European debts.

After the Hoover meeting, Mr. Roosevelt will remain in Washington until Wednesday afternoon, conferring with many of the Democratic leaders in Congress. It was considered likely that the President-elect also will talk with Progressive Republican senators who supported him in the campaign.

mansion as he and other State executives did when invited to dinner following the governor's conference in Richmond. An elevator is located near this driveway entrance which would carry the President-elect close to the conference room.

Details Well Guarded.

Details of the Chief Executive's plans for dealing with the foreign debts tangle were as closely guarded as ever during the day as he conferred for more than two hours with Secretary Stimson and even longer with Mills.

"Lots of hard work," Stimson remarked to newspapermen as he left the executive offices late yesterday afternoon, carrying a bulging brief case and accompanied by a secretary. But he would say no more.

It was taken as certain, however, that Mr. Hoover will speak of European disarmament in close connection with his talk of debts. The possibility was voiced unofficially that this might be a counterproposal to foreign debtor requests for relief, involving his own proposal for a one-third slash in world arms.

Monetary Conference.

Still another allied subject probably will be a suggested date for the world monetary and economic conference. The President feels that since this parley will continue into the new administration Mr. Roosevelt should have a hand in arranging American participation. Norman H. Davis and other American experts empowered to make preliminary arrangements for the world conference have not yet reached a conclusion as to a possible date. Premier Ramsay MacDonald has suggested December, but an opening in January or February has been spoken of more frequently in Geneva.

During the day on Capitol Hill the last of the senatorial delegation of six invited to talk debts with the President tomorrow reached town. They were Watson (Republican), Indiana, and King (Democrat), Utah. Virtually all of the six ranking Republican and Democratic members of the House ways and means committee who will join them have returned to the Capital.

Rainey Against Commission.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, ranking member on the ways and means committee, yesterday told newspapermen:

"I do not know what President Hoover has to propose, but if it is the recreation of the War Debt Funding Commission, I shall be opposed to that."

Rainey previously voiced his opposition to cancellation or reduction of the debts and to any extension of the moratorium.

The Czechoslovakian note, asking a suspension of the December 15 payment, was handed to Secretary Stimson yesterday morning by Ferdinand Veverka, minister of that country.

The amount due from Czechoslovakia is all on account of principal, with the total obligation of that country standing at $167,071,[illegible] payments already made of $11[illegible].

The total due next month [illegible] debtor nations is about $125[illegible] of which Great Britain owes $9[illegible]000, France, $19,261,438, and Belgium, $2,125,000.

Extra Police Detailed To Station for Arrival

Arrangements of a police detail to handle the crowds expected to throng the streets to catch a glimpse of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt on his visit to the city today were announced yesterday by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police.

One hundred footmen will be detailed to Union Station to manage the crowd which is expected to gather. Police will be stationed along Pennsylvania avenue to preserve order as Gov. Roosevelt drives to the White House.

A detail of 50 policemen will be present while the governor is entertained at the Press Club. Fifteen motorcycle men will lead and flank the visitor's car in its movements in the city.

PARLIAMENT OPENS WITH REGAL GLORY

War Debts Permanent Issue on Eve of Session at Westminster.

London, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The Anglo-American war debt problem will overshadow every domestic issue when the ninth Parliament in the reign of King George V assembles with regal pomp and ceremony at Westminster tomorrow.

Official spokesmen maintained silence on the debt question tonight, but it was evident that press reports from Washington had somewhat shaken the confidence of a week ago that the December payment of $95,550,000 would be postponed by the American Government.

British correspondents in Washington have warned in their dispatches against any revival of the "Uncle Shylock" campaign.

Default Taboo.

The hope exists that the Hoover-Roosevelt conference tomorrow as well as the leaders of both the American political parties will accept the British proposal for a reexamination of the debts. Nobody in authority here is prepared to discuss the possibility of a British default.

In the current budget no arrangement has been made for the December 15 payment, but the assumption is that it would be met either by a supplementary budget; by a special loan or by gold which the Bank of England has been acquiring recently.

The House of Commons expects to have much to say about the debt problem, but, unlike the American Congress, it does not hold the whip hand over the government in dealing with the immediate situation.

Day of Pageantry.

Tomorrow the broad lines of the parliamentary program will be sketched in the king's speech from the throne, but to the people at large the day is significant mainly for its ceremonial.

The royal crown, escorted by Yeoman of the Guard in scarlet and gold Tudor uniforms, was taken tonight from the jewel house in the Tower of London, where thousands of American tourists view it every year, to the throne room in St. James' Palace. In the morning the crown will be taken to the House of Lords, where the king will wear it at the ceremonial opening.

Through troop-lined streets, the ranks at present arms, but colors lowered, the crown will pass, the first act in a day of colorful pageantry.

Warmer Weather Likely Tomorrow

Milder Temperature Forecast to Follow Cold in Washington.

Washington is in the midst of another cold snap—but it won't last long, according to the Weather Bureau's predictions.

With a temperature of 26 degrees forecast before dawn today, the weather man reported it will probably continue cold throughout the day, but fair and warmer weather is in store for the balance of the week, beginning tomorrow.

A temperature of 34 degrees was registered shortly before midnight last night, and the thermometer was dropping rapidly. This marked a descent of 23 degrees since 2 p. m. yesterday. At that time the highest temperature of the day was recorded.

Wheatley P.-T. A. Plants Tree Today

Comdr. Charles Wheatley to Be Principal Speaker at Ceremony.

Members of the Wheatley School Parent-Teacher Association will hold a Bicentennial tree planting ceremony at 2 p. m. today on the grounds at Montello avenue and Neal street northeast in honor of George Washington and Samuel Wheatley, for whom the institution was named.

The program will open with several selections by the Wheatley School Orchestra, to be followed by the invocation by the Rev. C. F. Abbot, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd.

Commander Charles Wheatley, Samuel Wheatley's son, will be principal speaker and will introduce various members of the Wheatley family. Mrs. Walter C Jones is in charge of arrangements.

DR. LOWELL RESIGNS AS HEAD OF HARVARD

No reason was given for Dr. Lowell's resignation in a tersely worded announcement. Attention was called, however, to the fact that he will be 76 years old within a month and that it has long been known he desired to continue to hold office only until the recently created house plan was in smooth operation.

The fellows of the college and the members of the board of overseers to whom Dr. Lowell submitted his resignation accepted it with regret. They took no action with regard to appointment of a successor and, while the president specified his resignation would be effective when his successor was ready to assume his duties, it was known the president would prefer to continue until near the end of the present academic year.

Lowell has served longer than any other president in the history of Harvard with two exceptions, one of them his immediate predecessor, Charles William Elliot, who headed Harvard for 40 years.

The house plan, which the president is known to have regarded as the capstone of his long career, was the most revolutionary of his administration and was brought to fruition only through the generosity of Edward S. Harkness, New York philanthropist, who gave $11,000,000 to build the necessary houses.

The plan, first outlined in 1926, has realigned existing social life at Harvard by subdividing Harvard College into seven smaller units or houses, an adaptation of continental practice which has stirred American higher educational circles and has already been adopted in principle by Yale University.

Students are grouped in dormitories or houses by cross-sections of interest, other than haphazardly along class lines. House life centers about common rooms and dining halls with every effort made to insure the widest possible cultural, intellectual and geographic distribution of interest among the students of each house.

TWO SAY DELAWARE VOTES WERE BOUGHT

House Body Is Told of Many Negroes Being Carried to Polls and Paid.

(Associated Press.)

Two of its agents told the special House elections committee yesterday they had observed voters in Wilmington, Del., receiving money at polling places.

The witnesses were D. J. Williams and Joseph A. Callahan. The latter testified he saw marked ballots being distributed to Negro voters.

"All the ballots I saw simply were marked with an X above the Republican party," Callahan said.

A third committee agent, W. K. McWilliams, said that at a voting precinct which "Leo Dugan and C. Colburn seemed to be controlling," two automobiles were bringing up loads of Negro voters at regular intervals.

Complaints of Insufficient Pay.

"I followed one of them," McWilliams said. "They took the Negroes back to the city dump, where large numbers were gathered around a fire, and picked up another load."

McWilliams said some of the Negroes at the dump told him they were transients waiting for a train South. Williams identified Dugan as a district leader in a Negro section in Wilmington, across the river.

"I heard voters complaining they were not being paid enough," Williams said.

"I saw Henry Davis, one of Dugan's lieutenants, pay money to seven men."

Alleged "Pay-Off" Man.

Williams testified that in one polling place in Dugan's district "the pay-off place was right next door to the voting precinct and at another place I believe they had liquor."

Callahan said he had seen envelopes distributed to voters at a voting place at Third and Orange streets and had seen money given voters at Second and Oliver streets.

"I understand Don Martin was the big pay-off man," Callahan said. "I contacted him several times at various polls and when I arrived he would drive off. He seemed to be covering the whole city."

Tennessee Hearing Arranged.

The committee yesterday agreed to send a subcommittee to investigate the election in the First Congressional District of Tennessee in which Carroll B. Reece was the victor over Representative Oscar B. Lovette.

Chairman Ragon announced this action after an executive meeting of the committee. He said Representative Nelson (Republican), of Maine, was to leave last night to make the Tennessee inquiry.

Ragon said the investigation would deal only with Reece and Lovette, who ran as an Independent Republican, and that the Democratic candidate was not involved.

HITLER FROWNS ON HINDENBURG OFFER

also insisted that a Hitler cabinet would have to be backed by "a majority, or almost a majority," of the Reichstag.

This demand entailed the question of negotiations with other political parties, as the Nazis, although the strongest party in the Reichstag, are considerably short of a majority.

Declared Already Dead.

"It is obviously impossible for Hitler, who has spent his whole political life in a bitter fight against parliamentary haggling, to try to resurrect a system which already is dead," one of the Nazi leader's closest associates said before Hitler sent his reply to the president.

"It is most likely that he will tell the president that he is still ready to head an authority cabinet, but his reply will be so conciliatory as to leave open all doors to negotiations."

Friends of Franz von Papen, who resigned as chancellor last week, said the day's developments indicated the chances were good for his reappointment.

$15,758 Estate Shown In Bernard Walls' Will

An estate of $15,758 was left by Bernard Walls, merchant, when he died November 6, it was shown in District Supreme Court yesterday when his widow and executrix, Mrs. Margaret Walls, filed a petition for probate of the will. The widow is given a life estate and upon her death, the children, Mary B. Mallette, Bernard E. Walls, Mary T. F. Field, Mary A. L. Walls and John Alvin Walls are to receive the property.

The premises at 1301 East Capitol street comprised most of the estate. Attorney George R. Linkins filed the petition.

HINES BUSY AT WORK ON CASH BONUS PLAN

Bureau Program Would Pay Off at Present Value if It Is Desired.

(Associated Press.)

The Veterans' Administration is attempting to formulate a plan which will permit the payment of the present value of the soldiers' bonus certificates, if that should be desired.

This was made known yesterday by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs. He emphasized that no plan had been evolved as yet and that a number of proposals were under consideration. He declined to give any details.

The administrator is gathering the data and studying the various proposals in anticipation of his appearance soon before the joint committee appointed last session to make a study of veterans' affairs.

Establishment of a sinking fund by means of various economies is one method. It was said this might permit payment of the present value of the certificates at any time to those who were in actual need and desired the money.

The present value of the certificates was given as $1,879,000,000, while the full maturity value in 1945 would be $3,514,000,000.

Gen. Hines has opposed proposals to pay the full face value of the certificates at the present time. Such legislation was passed by the House last session, but was defeated in the Senate.

President Hoover then announced that he had a veto ready if the measure reached him.

Any action toward paying off the bonus before maturity would have to be approved by Congress. At the present time the veterans can borrow 50 per cent of the face value of the certificates.

At present 3,544,251 certificates are in force, having an average maturity value of approximately $990. If paid up at the present value the average would be approximately $580.

RICH MANUFACTURER REVEALS BOMB PLOT

Note Demanded He Produce $2,500 in Small Bills at Road Saloon.

Milwaukee, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Police today revealed a threat by extortionists to kill Frank L. Weyenberg, 49, wealthy shoe manufacturer, and to bomb his palatial home.

The plotters demanded $2,500, and in a letter scribbled on wrapping paper directed that the money be left at a saloon on the Fond du Lac road.

Police have been stationed at the saloon since November 5, and officers of Ozaukee County have guarded the Weyenberg home in suburban Thiensville.

The extortion note read:

"Do as you are being instructed and no harm will come to you. Place $2,500 dollars in $1 and $5 bills in a package. Take it to Neumuller's place at Forty-sixth and Fond du Lac road and tell him it will be called for by Slim and Mike.

"Beware!

"Do not notify police because we will carry a bomb into this place when we call for the money and a machine gun will take care of them. If you fail to obey we will get you or blow up your home. You have until 8 o'clock, November 9, 1932. Notify us by the personal column in the Milwaukee Journal Sunday, November 6, 1932."

The note was signed "Slim and Mike."

Weyenberg did not publish the notice demanded.

Weyenberg is president of plants bearing his name here and at Beaver Dam. He is also president of the Milwaukee Box Manufacturing Co.

Claudel Visits Hoover; Is Now Diplomatic Dean

(Associated Press.)

Paul Claudel, the French Ambassador, yesterday paid a two-minute call upon President Hoover to report himself formally as the new dean of the Diplomatic Corps.

The French diplomat became the ranking member of the corps in point of service through the return to Italy of Nobile Giacomo de Martino, the Italian Ambassador. Smiling as he left the executive offices, M. Claudel circled his tall silk hat with his finger to remark jokingly about "the halo" now worn by him as leader of the corps.

Nine Who Fled Prison Still Free; Probe Begun

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Nine inmates of the Rockingham County Jail, who with Harry E. Whitten, 45, of Lynn, another inmate, escaped yesterday morning, were still at large tonight. Whitten was captured in Lynn yesterday.

While police of New England kept an alert watch for any trace of the prisoners, Attorney General Francis W. Johnston and County Solicitor George R. Scammon, of Rockingham County, investigated circumstances that led to the wholesale delivery.

Missing Flier Reaches Gao, on African Flight

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Victor Smith, 19-year-old flier, who has been missing for several days after starting alone for a flight to England, has arrived safely at Gao, French West Africa, it was learned today.

Amy Johnson, who flew here to a new speed record from England last week, said this morning she would abandon a plan to fly home for a round-trip record, so that her plane could be used in the search for Smith.

WHERE WIFE DIED IN HOUSE FIRED BY MATE

Mrs. Margaret Hurley Roland was burned to death in the cubby-hole in the upper picture in a fire set by her husband (seated, lower picture) at their home in Seat Pleasant, Md., a coroner's jury declared last night. A reporter is seen examining the small aperture through which Mrs. Roland crawled in an effort to avoid the flames. Constable Earle Blackwell is seen standing beside the husband, Lyle C. Roland, after obtaining from him an admission that he set fire to the house.

$2,500 DAMAGE SUIT VERDICT IS SET ASIDE

B. Agee Bowles Wins Appeal in Action Brought by Virginia Woman.

The judgment of $2,500 awarded Mrs. Mae F. May, of near Falls Church, Va., a year ago in Fairfax County Circuit Court in her suit against B. Agee Bowles, vice president of the Potomac Savings Bank, for damages for physical injuries growing out of a verbal assault, has been set aside by the Virginia State Supreme Court, it was learned yesterday. The decision of Judge Edward W. Hudgins reversed the trial jury.

The case was the first of its kind to reach the highest court of Virginia. The original damage suit was brought by Mrs. May for a physical relapse, alleged to have resulted from two visits by Mr. Bowles to her home to protest against alleged gossip concerning him, at which time he is said to have threatened legal action against her. She sued for $10,000 and was awarded $2,500.

Two Washington mental experts testified for Mrs. May at the trial. In commenting on their testimony, Judge Hudgins said that it was not to be considered, as it was based upon her claim that she had suffered a severe fright and they could not say that her breakdown came directly from Bowles' action at her home.

Cab Drivers Are Warned Of Jams in License Rush

Taxicab drivers were warned yesterday by James Martin, executive secretary of the Public Utilities Commission, to make early application for licenses for the new year or else they would be caught in the last-minute rush and be unable to operate the first part of 1933.

Only 235 drivers had applied for licenses up to closing time Saturday, Mr. Martin said. There are about 4,000 cab operators, and facilities at the commission for investigating applications are limited.

CORONER'S JURY HOLDS WOMAN KILLED BY FLAMES IN HOME

Roland's statement said that in a fit of anger he set fire to the house. This, he said, trapped Mrs. Roland, his common-law wife, and she was severely burned. At the time the statement was made he had not been told that she was dead.

Identifies Body of Wife.

Blackwell said that when he arrested Roland he smelled no whisky on his breath, but judged the painter had been drinking beer. He told of taking Roland into the house, which was only partially destroyed by fire, and showing him the body of his wife.

"Is that Margaret?" Blackwell said he asked Roland.

"I suppose it is," Roland mumbled, and turned away, Blackwell said.

After the jury's verdict had been returned last night Roland was taken to the Marlboro Jail. A murder warrant was issued by Magistrate Poore. Before the verdict was returned police had determined to hold him on a charge of setting fire to an occupied dwelling, which carries a death penalty in Maryland. This charge was not placed, however, because of the jury's recommendation.

Denies Striking Wife.

According to Blackwell, Roland confessed just before dawn yesterday that he set fire to the house. He denied striking his wife, however. The confession followed several hours of questioning after the woman's body had been found under the eaves of the blazing building.

As the tragedy was reconstructed by police, the firing of the house came at the end of a day of drinking and quarreling. Early in the evening, according to what Roland told them, they reached an armistice in their disagreement, and the man agreed to his wife's suggestion that he take her driving. She went upstairs to dress, but took so long that Roland protested and the controversy started afresh, he said.

During the heat of the argument, she ran upstairs and hid. Roland searched for her, but was unable to find her, and she did not answer his calls. He admitted that she was afraid of him when he was drinking. Failing to find her, police quote him as saying, he threw a match into a pile of rags at the head of the stairs "to smoke her out." He then went downstairs and fell asleep.

Blaze Blocked Efforts.

Judging from the burns on the woman's face, police believe that she attempted to come down the stairs after the fire was started. The blaze, which was centered at the head of the stairway, blocked her efforts, and accounted for the burns on her face, which was badly scorched. The stair is the only entrance to the half-story in which she was found.

Being unable to find a way out of the building, she crept away from the fire into the corner of the house in which she was found, police believe. Later, firemen fighting the flames found her body lying on its side when they crashed through a partition. In a last desperate effort to avoid the smoke, she had apparently crawled to the side of the building seeking fresh air in the space between the inner and outer walls of the house.

$45,000,000 Relief Is Requested in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The Illinois Emergency Relief Commission today advised the fourth special session of the General Assembly that $45,000,000 would be needed for unemployment relief in the next seven months. The lower house of the Assembly responded by adopting three bills of the proposed relief program.

Four millions of the amount will be obtained from the gasoline tax allotment for relief. The commission stated unemployment in the State includes at the present time between 1,300,000 and 1,400,000, or more than two-fifths of the gainfully employed workers enumerated in the census of 1930.

Woman Walks 1,000 Miles to Free Husband

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—After a 1,000-mile hike from Liberty, Tex., with her 4-year-old daughter, Ollia Nora, Mrs. Lucinda Dunaway obtained an audience with Gov. Ruby Laffoon today and pleaded with him to release from the State Reformatory her husband, Oscar Dunaway.

Gov. Laffoon promised the 22-year-old mother he would investigate the case and see what he could do. Dunaway is serving a year's sentence on a charge of storehouse breaking from Greenup County, Ky., their former home.

GREEN SAYS WANT IS CHIEF PROBLEM

He Urges Jobless Insurance at Cincinnati Opening of A. F. of L. Session.

Cincinnati, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The American Federation of Labor today launched what its president termed its "sternest struggle" against want.

"The eyes of the masses of the people are upon us," President William Green told the delegates in outlining the federation's problems at the opening of the fifty-second annual convention.

Soft-voiced and slightly gray, sturdy and ruddy, he spoke from a marble dias in the luxurious hall of mirrors of a downtown hotel. Before him more than 300 representatives of millions of workers listened from chairs at long tables. Against a background of silver and glass in the balcony 100 more looked on.

"We are here to work for the worker. We hope to make a valuable contribution here toward the reconstruction of our impaired capitalistic structure," he declared.

He said the executive council already had suggested steps looking toward the "improvement of conditions," one of the six-hour day and a five-day week, the other compulsory unemployment insurance. Of the latter he declared:

"We will go out and call upon the Legislatures of the various States to enact proposed unemployment insurance into law."

The plan, the council specified, would be adopted in every State, paid for by employers, and administered by a State commission. Its benefits would not be denied to those out of work because of a trade dispute, or if nonmembership in a labor union was a condition of employment.

Many other subjects were covered in the report. The council expressed the opinion action to legalize "real beer" will be taken at the short session of Congress, convening December 5.

The report voiced opposition to a sales tax; urged a seven-point economic program by the Government to obtain "more equitable distribution of income;" advocated restoration of former wage scales of Government employes; asked modification of the Volstead act, and urged enactment of a child labor amendment.

Woman Badly Injured When Hit by Two Cars

Struck by one car and knocked into the path of another, Miss Stella Scherrod, 23, of 3446 Connecticut avenue, suffered a fractured leg, cuts, bruises and possible internal injuries late yesterday in an accident at Eighteenth and Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Police reported that the woman was tossed into the air by the car of Benjamin Bretzefelder, 25, of 3026 Sixteenth street northwest, and fell in front of a car driven by William Pierce, 27, colored, of 710 Columbia road northwest. She was taken from beneath Pierce's car, and removed to Emergency Hospital.

SPY NOTE OFFERED IN BLACK TOM CASE

Message Submitted as Proof Germans Caused Fires at Munitions Base.

(Associated Press.)

An alleged secret spy message, written across the pages of an old magazine in invisible ink, was presented yesterday to the German-American Claims Commission to support the American charges of German complicity in the destruction of the Black Tom Terminal and Kingsland, N. J., munitions plant.

The terminal and plant were destroyed by fire just before the United States entered the World War. Claims for $40,000,000 against Germany have been pending for years before the commission.

Robert W. Bonynge, American agent, in submitting the secret message, asserted it was conclusive proof that German agents were implicated in the fires.

Authorship Traced.

The message was held by Bonynge to have been sent by Frederick L. Herrmann, a German agent in Mexico City, to Paul Hilken, an agent in the United States. It mentioned by name Michael Kristoff and Theodore Wozniak, whom the United States has claimed were responsible for the Black Tom and Kingsland fires, respectively.

One of the points made by the commission, in a previous decision favorable to Germany in both cases, was that Kristoff had not ben proven to be a German agent.

The Kingsland fire started at Wozniak's bench and the American claim now is that the secret message brands both Kristoff and Wozniak as German agents.

Germany's reply to the new evidence will be made after the American argument is completed and will take the line that the secret message was a forgery.

Mixed Identities.

Another argument advanced by Bonynge was that Frederick Hinsch, an admitted German agent, used the name Graentnor as an alias. Kristoff was known to have associated with Graentnor, but previous testimony had never shown him connected with Hinsch. Bonynge argued that since Hinsch and Graentnor were one and the same, Kristoff's intimate association with admitted German agents was proven.

The Hermann message informed Hilken that he (Herrmann) was being regarded with suspicion among German agents in Mexico City and, to identify himself, he had told them of the Black Tom and Kingsland destruction plans.

Wisconson Takes Both 4-H Prizes

2 Are Picked From Million Boys and Girls Who Labor on Farms.

Chicago, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—From 1,000,000 boys and girls engaged in Four-H work on farms, the national committee seeking the champions of each sex found both of them in Wisconsin.

The boy—Donald N. McDowell, 16, of Montello, Marquette County. The girl—Frances Mae Good, 19, of Monroe, Green County.

Both were leaders in achievements of Four-H Club work, the national committee announced today. On November 29 they will receive the tall silver trophies awarded in the name of President Hoover. In earning his triumph over boys from seventeen States, young McDowell completed 24 projects in live stock, corn and forestry, with a commercial value of $3,409.48. In winning her championship, Miss Good finished 35 projects in cooking, sewing, housekeeping and poultry raising, valued at $2,261.66.

Missing Boy Found Unhurt in Desert

Apache Leads to Child, 4, After Riders, Hounds and Plane Fail.

Gila Bend, Ariz., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Tired, hungry and thirsty, but otherwise apparently none the worse for three days of desert wandering, 4-year-old Bud Fisher, missing since Friday, was found asleep this afternoon in a dry, sandy wash 15 miles from here.

He had wandered Friday from the camp of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fisher, of San Antonio, Tex., when they halted on the outskirts of Gila Bend, en route to Los Angeles.

An Apache Indian tracker picked up the trail after bloodhounds had failed. Sheriff J. R. McFadden, a deputy and two cowboys, spurring ahead in the direction indicated by the scout, found the boy after three days of search, in which range riders from nearby ranches, most of the adult population of Gila Bend and an airplane had aided.

Conscience-Beset Fugitive For 34 Years Gets Pardon

President Clears Man Who Volunteered to Serve 4-Year Sentence for Robbery in 1898, From Which He Escaped by Leaping Off a Moving Train.

Kansas City, Kans., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—William Kirby Robinson, 65, convicted postoffice robber, who sought to ease his conscience and square up a 34-year-old account with the law, is going back to the life of a respectable business man in California with an unconditional pardon from President Hoover.

Robinson had a hard time convincing prison officials of the authenticity of his story when he turned up at the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary in October and offered to serve a 4-year sentence imposed on him at Fort Smith, Ark., in 1898. There were no records of him in Leavenworth, but the Department of Justice finally established that his claim was true.

The Californian, who built up a modest fortune and served at one time as a deputy sheriff, now owns a tourist camp and store at Westmoreland, Calif. His home is at Cabazon.

Robinson was a fugitive from justice from the time he picked the lock of his handcuffs and plunged through the window of a moving passenger train that was taking him to prison in 1898, until he surrendered voluntarily to the surprised prison officials last month.

After leaping from the train in the old Indian Territory, Robinson went to Galveston, Tex., and later to California, where he married, divorced and married again.

The prison sentence weighed upon his conscience. "It was my desire to do right which led me to take the step and return to Leavenworth," he said.

Both his wives knew of the prison sentence and the spectacular escape from the train, Robinson said.

At least twelve persons at Westmoreland knew his secret. Robinson said Senator Shortridge, of California, and Representative Phil Swing knew about his sentence in 1920. Both worked on a pardon for him in the Harding administration but nothing came of it.

Telegraphic notification of the pardon was received today and Robinson was informed he could leave the Wyandotte County Jail any time he chose.

"If the Government and the people are satisfied that I have paid, then I am," he said.

Boastful Youthful Slayer Quickly Indicted in Chicago

Pleads Not Guilty as Relatives Stay Away From Courtroom; Another, Model Boy, Is Formally Charged With Killing Grandmother.

Chicago, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Two 'teen-age boys waited in cells tonight for the punishment of the killer.

The one bold, boastful, conscienceless James "Iggy" Varecha, twice an inmate of a State institution for epileptics and now, at 17, the confessed marauder who shot to death Frank Jordan in a midnight robbery attempt and then abducted and attacked the niece of a deputy police commissioner.

The other slight, mild-mannered, 16-year-old Bert Arnold, self-contained as he admitted hammering to death the grandmother who chided him.

The youth, until last Friday night a carefree high school boy, was formally charged with murder late today by a coroner's jury, and ordered held to the grand jury.

All during the inquest into the death of the grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Saxe, 60, the youth kept his eyes averted as his former school chums, boys and girls with whom he attended a church dance after the slaying, testified to his conduct that night. All said they noticed nothing unusual about his behavior at the dance.

Young Arnold himself took the witness stand only for a moment to tell his name, age and address, then refused to testify on advice of counsel.

Justice moved more swiftly than justice sometimes does in Chicago to put away Varecha, the fugitive from a State hospital.

Indictment for the crimes of murder, assault to kill, shooting and robbery came at noon. Evidence of the alleged attacks upon the girl he kidnaped Wednesday night was withheld, ostensibly because she was not yet able to confront a grand jury with her story.

At 2 p. m. Varecha went before Chief Justice John Prystalski in Criminal Court. Yesterday it had been: "Take my picture lighting a cigaret to show how calm I am." But braggadocio was gone now, and before the judge stood a cringing, drooping lad, hands fidgeting a gray cap, lips mumbling answers to the routine questions of the court. He nodded without glancing up at the call of his name.

"Not guilty," he murmured to the indictment for murder. Had he a lawyer? No, nor relatives in court, although his mother had been notified to come. A brother, Frank, summoned from an anteroom, where he was held under suspicion of helping hide "Iggy's" guilt, said they had no money. The court appointed a public defender. Walker Butler, assistant State's attorney, expressed a wish to try Varecha at once. The boy was led away to his cell. Wednesday he will be arraigned for trial.

Alienists watched for the coroner and the State as young Arnold was brought back from Mount Carroll, Ill., to a broken-hearted father and stepmother, who could scarcely speak the comfort they meant to impart. In their embrace, unreproaching, he sobbed bitterly. It seemed that only then he began to realize the tragedy of which he was the center.

"A superior boy," the Riverside Presbyterian minister had said of him, almost unbelieving the lad had confessed his grandmother's killing. "Superior in purpose and intellect. If he did this dastardly crime, it was in a frenzy."

Bert's own confession, signed at Mount Carroll and made public by the prosecutors, read in part:

"I asked my grandmother, Mrs. Saxe, to use her car and she slapped me. A hammer was lying on the table, and I picked it up and struck her on the ear. I hit her several times, as I had gone mad. She was still breathing, and I stretched her out on the floor. When she stopped breathing and I knew she was dead, I left her. I took the keys to the car and went to call for a friend. Later I went back to the house and my grandmother was still on the floor. I put a rope around her and dragged her out through the kitchen to the cistern. I then dropped her into the cistern. I then got some clothes and tried to eradicate the stains. Then I got in the car and ran away."

Gen. Lytle Brown Talks On Waterway Progress

St. Louis, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The Mississippi Valley Association was urged by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army Engineers, not to take attacks by opponents of waterway development "lying down," in an address before the annual convention of the association here tonight.

Gen. Brown was the principal speaker following a day of addresses by shipping and transportation experts, congressmen and congressmen-elect, business men and civic leaders of the Mississippi Valley, all of whom dwelt on the problems of maintaining waterway improvement in the face of business conditions and attacks by competing transportation interests.

U. S. WINS BIG RADIO ANTITRUST ACT CASE

Westinghouse and G. E. Are Ordered to Cut Ties With R. C. A.; Stocks Fall.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The Government today broke up what it characterized as a combination in restraint of competition in the radio industry.

In a consent decree signed in the United States Court for Delaware, complete divorcement was ordered of the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. from the Radio Corporation of America.

These concerns, the Government charged, prevented competition in the radio and other closely allied fields by means of intercorporate agreements and an involved system of cross-licensing of radio patents.

Stock Sale Ordered.

The decree, terminating more than two years of effort looking toward a settlement of the suit without trial, ordered the General Electric and Westinghouse companies to dispose of one-half of their stock in the radio corporation to their common stockholders within three months and the balance of it within three years.

What effect the decree will have on the management of the concerns involved could not be learned from the attorneys in the case. However, in a statement to stockholders, David Sarnoff, president of Radio Corporation, stated:

"In separating from the General Electric and Westinhouse Electric & Manufacturing Companies, the Radio Corporation, through its established subsidiaries and with their present personnel, will continue to function as heretofore in transoceanic communication, ship-to-shore communication, in the radio manufacturing industry, in broadcasting and in the entertainment field."

No Violation Admitted.

In consenting to the decree, the defendants wanted it understood that they were not admitting they had violated the Federal laws. The Government, in a statement, asserted that facts it alleged were true, and that the defendants had violated the antitrust laws.

The two electric companies were enjoined from acquiring stock in the Radio Corporation in the future. All their representatives of officers on the board of directors or other committees of the Radio Corporation are required to resign within ten days, with the exception of Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric, and Andrew W. Robertson, chairman of the board of Westinghouse. They, the decree stated, may continue to serve for five months.

"The primary object of the suit," Warren Olney, jr., of San Francisco, special assistant to the Attorney General, told the Court, "has from the beginning been to dissolve the relations between the defendants whereby the Government charged that competition between them in the radio and certain closely allied fields was prevented.

Other Suits Dismissed.

"Those relations have been made up of contracts and agreements between them and of the ownership by General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. of large interests, and in recent years, controlling interests in the Radio Corporation of America."

Olney said the General Electric held approximately 4,000,000 shares of the Radio Corporation's common stock and the Westinghouse more than 2,500,000 shares.

The suit against four other companies, also named as defendants in the case, was dismissed at the request of the Government, because, it was stated, "the situation of which the Government complained has been corrected." These four companies are the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the Western Electric Co., Inc.; General Motors Corporation and General Motors Radio Corporation.

One Concern Dissolved.

The last-named concern, the Government was told, has been dissolved.

Disposal of the Radio Corporation stock held by the two electric companies, Olney said, presented a distinct problem.

"It was evident," he said, "that it could not all be thrown on the market in a short time. The Government was not particularly interested in how it was disposed of, so long as it was actually disposed of in such a manner as to make the Radio Corporation wholly independent of the other two companies."

The decree provided that the distribution of the stock to the common stockholders of the two concerns "shall be without any restriction on the full rights of ownership of the several distributees, including the right to dispose of it as they see fit."

Heavy Selling Ensues.

The decree further provided that in any distribution of the stock the two companies must not "knowingly sell or transfer to any one interest in excess of 150,000 shares of the present common stock, or stock which at any time may be equivalent to 150,000 shares of the present common stock in respect to the then existing voting rights."

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Announcement of the consent degree whereby Radio Corporation of America will be divorced from the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric companies today was followed by heavy selling of Radio Corporation stock.

A total of 87,100 shares of Radio, common, was thrown on the market, the day's price breaking from a high point of $7.50 a share to an extreme low point of $5.62. It closed at $6 a share, off $1.37 from Saturday's close.

Preferred Shares Included.

Sales of Radio Corpoartion Class A preferred totaled 500 shares, the price breaking a maximum of $4 a share to $24, but closing at $26, off $2. There were 5,000 shares of the Class B preferred stock pressed on the market, the price breaking $2.50 to $10.50 a share at one time, but closed at $11.75 for a net loss of $1.25.

Sales of all classes of Radio shares totaled 92,000 shares, or about 15 per cent of the total sales of all stocks listed on the Stock Exchange. It was a very dull session and total transfers were only 611,716 shares.

None of the three classes of Radio shares came even close to reaching their 1932 low points.

China Is Likened to Europe In Futile Efforts to Unify

Prof. D. H. Buchanan, of George Washington University, Addresses Academy of World Economics on Manchurian Problem; Many Leaders Attend.

"In territory and population, China corresponds to Europe rather than to any single state and it has been properly stated that so long as Europe is unable to unify, China should not be expected to do so," stated Prof. Daniel Houston Buchanan, of George Washington University, in an address last night before a meeting of the Academy of World Economics at American University, 1901 F street.

"Economic Factors in the Manchurian Situation" was the topic of the conference in which leading Washington educators participated. The session was presided over by Dean William F. Notz, of the school of foreign service of Georgetown University. Participants in the program who spoke briefly in comment on Dr. Buchanan's paper and on the Manchurian situation included Charles K. Moser, chief of the Far Eastern division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce; Dr. Henry Chalmers, of the Department of Commerce; Prof. A. E. Zuecker, of the University of Maryland; Prof. Wesley M. Gewehr, of American University and W. M. W. Splawn. Others who represented their organizations at the meeting including Dean John McDill Fox, of Catholic University; Dr. John Donaldson, of George Washington University, and Dr. Cleona Lewis, of the Brookings Institution. Constantine Brown, internationally known writer on Far Eastern affairs, also commented briefly on the subject of the meeting.

Last night's conference was attended by a large group of economic students and teachers and Government officials interested in the Far East, who came as special guests of the academy.

The academy was established here last April and is affiliated with the American Academy of Political and Social Science, located in Philadelphia. The local group is composed of well-known scholars, teachers and students of economics. Regular round-table meetings are held on subjects of current economic importance.

"Present Trends in the International Economic Policy in the United States," will be the subject of a future meeting of the group.

a land of disorder, and Dr. Koo replied that Japan had consistently interfered with China's efforts toward unification.

Mr. Matsuoka condemned the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods as economic warfare. Dr. Koo said it was legitimate defense against armed aggression.

The Japanese spokesman said that in the Mukden attack of September 18, 1931 (the incident which precipitated the conflict), the Japanese acted justifiably in self-defense. Dr. Koo agreed with the Lytton Commissioners that this was not so.

The establishment of the independent State of Manchukuo to rule Manchuria was a spontaneous movement by the people of Manchuria, Mr. Matsuoka said. Dr. Koo supported the commissions' view that it was entirely the work of the Japanese.

The council adjourned until Wednesday afternoon to permit the members to study the Chinese and Japanese declarations. During Dr. Koo's discourse Joseph Paul-Boncour, French minister, took a short nap and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, a long one.

Both the Oriental champions spoke in EnEnglish. Each of them is a graduate of an American university—Mr. Matsuoka of Oregon, and Dr. Koo of Pennsylvania and Columbia.

Responsibility for the whole Manchurian conflict was laid by the Japanese spokesman upon what he described as a disunited and disorderly China, which, he declared, had provoked trouble by failing to respect Japanese rights and by its inability to give an orderly administration in Manchuria.

Dr. Koo, on the other hand, asserted that "Japan's policy of wanton aggression, expansion and conquest" was at the bottom of the whole question.

Expedition Into Mexico in 1916.

Japan's representative cited the American punitive expedition of 1916 in Mexico as a fair precedent for Japan's attack "in legitimate self-defense" in Mukden in September, 1931.

"We have violated neither the covenant of the league nor the nine-power treaty, nor the pact of Paris," he continued. "I ask of the council a little patience. If the Western World will bestow upon us a fraction of the tolerance it has so generously bestowed upon China it will be gratefully received."

Dr. Koo was severe in his discussion of what he termed Japan's ambition for conquest.

"A double-armed continental policy of expansion, which is the crystallization of several centuries of teaching by Japanese warriors, is aimed at China as the first stage of the conquest of Asia," he said.

Military Party Is Blamed.

"It is the policy which is the real menace to peace in the Far East and is a disturbing factor in the comity of nations. Behind this policy is a dominating, intractable military party, provided with one of the most powerful war machines in existence and ever seeking its full realization by means of the mailed fist. • • •

"Control of Manchuria is but one step in the program of world domination."

Here Dr. Koo quoted a memorial to the throne attribute to Baron Tanaka, former Japanese premier, and containing this sentence: "In the future if we want to control China we must first crush the United States." (The Japanese foreign office has denied the authenticity of the memorial.)

Tokyo Seeks to Coerce Opinion, China Charges

(Associated Press.)

Charges that the Japanese in Manchukuo were attempting to coerce public bodies of the province into contradicting statements in the Lytton report that the present regime there is not in accord with the popular will were contained in a message from the foreign ministry of the Nanking government made public last night by the Chinese Legation.

"Gen. Su Pin-Wen has just stated to the effect that he had been approached by the Japanese six times with telegrams luring for peace, and that he had rejected them all," the communication said.

"Another telegram from Gen. Su said that because the Lytton report states that the establishment of Manchukuo was not due to the popular will of the people of Manchuria, 'the Japanese had dispatched a special commissioner to the province of Heilung-Kiang, compelling the public bodies in the various districts of the province to produce affidavits contradicting the findings of the report.

"Similar action had been taken in the other two provinces of Liaoning and Kirin. These papers had been collected and sent to Geneva to throw dust into the eyes of the members of the league and of the world."

SEATTLE NEIGHBORS CRY AT JONES' BIER

Humble Folk Pay Tribute to Senator Who Took Honors Modestly.

Seattle, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The State and Nation paid final tribute today to the memory of Senator Wesley L. Jones, who had represented Washington in the National Capital more than 30 years. He died Saturday.

Humble folk, unmindful of their tears, passed before the casket as the body lay in state before banks of flowers, the tribute of friends and associates, and mourned the passing of the man, described to them as a "kindly soul, unchanged by his honors in life."

The Rev. Carl Veazie, of Tacoma, who was pastor of the Congregational Church in Seattle when the Senator and Mrs. Jones joined that congregation, conducted the services at the First Methodist Episcopal Church. The crowd filled the large edifice and overflowed to the sidewalk.

An escort, headed by State motorcycle patrolmen and city police, led a funeral procession from the church to a mortuary for cremation. A platoon of Coast Guardsmen acted as a guard of honor.

Federal courts in Seattle and State offices in Olympia were closed as employes and officers could attend the funeral of Jones, who was defeated for reelection by Homer T. Bone, Tacoma Democrat.

Senator C. C. Dill represented a committee of fifteen senators named by Vice President Curtis to represent the Senate at the services, and Ralph A. Horr represented the House.

Argentine Government Imposes Fresh Taxes

Buenos Aires, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Shortly after congress had met in extraordinary session today the minister of finance sent in his 1933 budget, which fixed expenditures at 865,113,494 pesos, the equivalent of $223,000,000, and income at 870,253,590 pesos.

The measure provided for new taxes on wines, beer, phonograph records and arms, and it continued levies on cigarettes and other items imposed a year ago. The budget is 21,000,000 pesos higher than in 1932. The government concedes a 50,000,000 peso deficit in the 1932 budget, but the opposition asserts that 80,000,000 would be more accurate.

Bloodstains Cause Slayer to Confess

Chicago Laborer Tried to Hide Wife's Body in Mojave Desert.

Chicago, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Bloodstains in his automobile brought a confession from Gus Cerney today, police said, that he killed his wife in a frenzy of anger and attempted to hide the body in the Mojave Desert.

Cerney, 27-year-old laborer, was arrested several days ago near a telegraph office awaiting money orders from relations in Los Angeles, where he and his wife, the former Idema Mitchell, lived. They were married there 18 months ago.

At first, Cerney steadfastly denied knowledge of his wife's death, saying it was "news to me." In addition to murder, police had questioned him about charges of bigamy. He has a wife and 6-year-old daughter at Carbondale, Ill., they said. Police Lieutenants J. P. Filkas and W. M. Baggott, of the Los Angeles Police Department, confronted him today with a carpet, bearing bloodstains, from his automobile. He then confessed.

Report Due Today In Fatal Accident

Authorities Will Ask Why Marine Was Sent to Various Hospitals.

A report is expected today from the board of inquest at the Marine Barracks at Quantico, Va., which is investigating the death of Albert Leonard Wainwright, marine private, who died Friday night at Naval Hospital from injuries sustained in a hit-and-run auto accident near Accotink, Va.

The board of inquest is particularly interested in the report that after the accident Wainwright was removed to Fort Humphreys, transferred to Quantico Hospital and then moved again to Naval Hospital.

Marine Corps officials will attempt to determine whether Army authorities at Fort Humphreys were negligent in failing to send the injured man directly to Naval Hospital. It is thought that moving him might have aggravated his condition. He died of a ruptured spleen.

THE WAR WHOOP
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth . . . inspired by the blood-curdling yells of war-mad savages, whose barbaric cruelty held America's early settlers in a constant state of terror. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

MRS. ELLEN CARTER IS DEAD AT SEATTLE

Widow of Montana Senator Had Been in Hospital Since September.

Mrs. Ellen L. Carter, widow of Senator Thomas H. Carter, of Montana, died yesterday in Seattle, Wash., according to an Associated Press report. She was 70 years old.

Mrs. Carter had been confined in a hospital since September, after suffering a fractured hip while visiting her brother, James L. Galen, in Cordova, Alaska. An attack of pneumonia complicaid her injury.

Widely known in Washington for her charitable and educational activities, Mrs. Carter made her home here for many years. She first came here in 1888, when her husband was sent as the last Territorial delegate from Montana. He later became the State's first representative in Congress.

Until her retirement last year, Mrs. Carter was president of the Auxiliary Board of Trinity College. She was a member of the Board of Children's Guardians, the Christ Child Society and the Board of Work for Poor Churches of the Convent of Perpetual Adoration, Fourteenth and V streets northwest.

Surviving Mrs. Carter are two sons, John G. Carter, of 3428 Ashley terrace northwest, and Hugh T. Carter, of Round Hill, Va.; another brother, Judge Albert J. Galen, of Helena, Mont., and a sister, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, of Butte, Mont.

SOME LEADERS SEE LONG DELAY IN BEER

Committee May Be Called.

The eighteenth amendment prohibits intoxicating liquors. The question which must be decided as a matter of legal interpretation is what alcoholic content is in fact intoxicating. The ways and means committee may be called together in advance of the opening of Congress to consider this question and try to come to a sound agreement.

Representative Fred A. Britten (Republican), of Illinois, a leader among the wet Republicans, told newspaper reporters at the White House yesterday that President Hoover would, he believed, sign a bill legalizing 2.75 per cent beer. The Illinoisian made his statement after a 10-minute conference with the President, but later in the afternoon Theodore Joslin, the President's secretary, told reporters the President had declined to discuss the subject with Mr. Britten during their conference. Mr. Britten rejoined that Mr. Joslin wasn't in the room while he was with the President, and consequently Mr. Joslin wasn't in a position to say what was discussed. Obviously, however, the Joslin statement was to be taken as a denial by the President that he had committed himself.

When he left the White House Mr. Britten was confident that the advent of the next year would be celebrated with real beer rather than poor wine. He estimated that a beer bill which would be passed by the next session would yield $35,000,000 a month.

Dyer Sees Resolution.

Representative Leonidas Dyer (Republican), Missouri, ranking member of his party on the House judiciary committee, expressed the belief that that committee promptly would report a resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

The judiciary committee will not handle the beer bill this session, although it has held jurisdiction in the past. Because of its revenue aspects the beer bills will go to the ways and means committee, of which Representative James E. Collier (Democrat), Mississippi, is chairman. Representative Vinson (Democrat), Kentucky, a member of the revenue committee, predicted that a beer bill for revenue would be reported promptly.

Representative James E. Beck (Republican), of Pennsylvania, also took a hand in the discussion. Mr. Beck has a reputation for erudition and knowledge of constitutional law and what he had to say was given careful consideration. He expressed himself in a radio speech broadcast in the National Forum over a Nation-wide hook-up. Legalization of beer of a "nonalcoholic content" he predicted would be one of the first things done in the coming session. He argued that the United States Supreme Court already had accepted the right of Congress to define what is intoxicating and what is nonintoxicating liquor. The court approval was given in its acceptance of the one-half per cent limit fixed in the Volstead law, he said. But, he added, a proviso to his assumed court approval of congressional declaration on the subject. The declaration, he said, must not be plainly arbitrary or otherwise unreasonable. The ultimate objective must be repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Mr. Beck insisted, but agreed that would be a slow and laborious process.

Dry Chiefs Map Plans.

Despite the growing number of declarations in favor of an early vote on modification of the Volstead law, the professional dry leaders are laying plans to hold their lines as well as they may, and there is a militancy in their declarations that the recent elections were not a clear-cut mandate from the electorate to junk prohibition. They are counting on local sentiment in many places throughout the land to defeat the intent of the wet advocates of a beer bill, and evidence of their strength is to be found in the constant reiteration by the wets that they wouldn't even suggest a return of the old-time saloon and are going to offer adequate safeguards for the protection of dry localities.

Meanwhile the prohibition administration is going ahead with its plans to ask for large amounts to provide for prohibition enforcement activities, and Amos W. W. Woodcock, enforcement head, is preparing to tell Congress that his service will require as much if not more money than ever to handle its work if the Volstead law is modified.

Wets are going to attack the demands of the Prohibition Bureau for funds and there are many who believe that it is through such means that the prohibition fight eventually will be settled through nullification brought about by refusal of enforcement funds.

Building Line Row Fades Out Quietly

Meeting at Takoma Park, Md., Fails to Develop Fireworks.

Expected fireworks at the meeting of the Takoma Park Town Council last night in the firehouse failed to materialize. The board of the Citizens Bank of Takoma Park, Md., yesterday capitulated in its demand for a 16-foot frontage in the plans for an addition to the bank and accepted the 20-foot setback proposed by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which is in conformity with the existing building line. The permit was issued yesterday for the bank structure.

The town council last night approved the grade recommended by the county engineer, Harry B. Shaw, for Boston avenue, from Philadelphia to Takoma avenues, in connection with the Fern street underpass project.

Bids for printing the town ordinances in loose leaf form for sale to residents were opened and the contract awarded to John W. Coffman. The council voted to construct a barricade on Chestnut avenue just below Hodges lane. A car several days ago plunged past the end of the street and tore the steps from a house.

REV. T. C. CLARK, 74, BURIAL TO BE TODAY

Noted Presbyterian, Pastor of Takoma Park Church, Was Native of Ohio.

Funeral services for the Rev. Thomas C. Clark, 74, pastor emeritus of Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, who died Sunday at the Washington Sanitarium after a long illness, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Church followed by interment in Rock Creek Cemetery. Five members of the Washington Presbytery, of which the Rev. Mr. Clark had been state clerk for many years, will officiate.

Born at Martins Ferry, Ohio, in 1858, the Rev. Mr. Clark received his bachelor of divinity degree t Union Theological Seminary in 1884. He first came to Washington in 1906 and built the Takoma Park Church up from 100 to 700 members.

In 1904 he was commissioner from the Presbyterian General Assembly to the Pan-Presbyterian Council in Liverpool, England.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Ministers Association of Washington, the Pastors Federation of Washington, the Takoma Park Horticultural Club and the Takoma Park Citizens Association.

Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, Henry C., of Washington, and Isaac C. Clark, of Haddam, Conn., and two sisters, Mrs. Phoebe Cottrell, of Takoma Park, and Mrs. George H. Smith, of Martins Ferry.

MRS. WOOTON DIES AT 88.

Burial of Physician's Widow at Beallsville, Md., Today.

FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR SOCIETY LEADER

Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart's Rites Will Be Held at St. Paul's Church.

Funeral services for Mrs. Henrietta L. McCormick-Goodhart, 75, prominent society leader of Washington and European capitals, who died Sunday at her Maryland estate, Langley Park, near Silver Spring, Md., will be held tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock at St. Paul's Church, followed by interment in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Born in Virginia in 1857, Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart was the daughter of Leander J. McCormick and the former Henrietta Hamilton. Her father was for many years manager of the McCormick harvester works in Chicago. She married Frederick E. Goodhart, an Englishman, in 1883, and for some time resided at his ancestral home, Langley Park, in Kent, England.

They returned to the United States in 1920 and took up their residence in the new Langley Park near the Capital. After the death of her husband she resumed her American citizenship.

While in England she was active in British politics and society and though she dropped politics when she returned here she remained active in social affairs.

She is survived by two sons, Leander, commercial secretary of the British Embassy, and F. Hamilton, also of Washington, and a brother, Hamilton McCormick, of Chicago.

Stolen Mail Back In Federal Hands

Parcels Found in Woods Taken From Office at Catlett, Va.

The packages of mail recovered by Sheriff E. B. Kirby of Fairfax County, Va., Sunday were stolen from the postoffice at Catlett, Va., some time Saturday night, according to postal authorities.

The packages were found in the woods by persons living near Legato, on the Lee highway, about 3 miles west of Fairfax, Va., who notified Sheriff Kirby. The packages were from mail-order houses in Philadelphia, addressed to persons at Catlett. They contained cosmetics and women's wearing apparel valued at about $20. An old suit of men's clothing, an old overcoat and an old pair of shoes were found near the packages, indicating that the thief also had obtained a new outfit in the robbery.

Postal authorities came to Fairfax yesterday and took charge of the recovered goods. Catlett residents said the robbery was discovered Sunday and entrance had been gained by breaking a window. The postoffice safe was untouched.

Girl Who Repudiated Kidnaping Story Jailed

Winchester, Va., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Eula Woofter, of Pickett's, W. Va., was held in jail here today pending arrival of relatives or officers to take her home. No charges were filed against her and Sheriff Luther Pannett said that unless someone arrived soon to take her away she would be released and ordered to leave the county.

Saturday the girl told officers she had been abducted from Jackson, Miss., and criminally assaulted by two young men who left her on the road near here. Later she repudiated the kidnaping story.

Youth Disobeys Mother And Dies While Hunting

Oakland, Md., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—A boy who disobeyed his mother when she told him not to go hunting is dead from the accidental discharge of his gun.

The youth, Henry Halterman, 17, was instantly killed near here when the hammer of the gun struck a rock on which he was attempting to jump. The discharge struck him full in the head.

TORPEDO STATION'S REOPENING SOUGHT

Alexandria Chamber Also Would Start Activity at Shipbuilding Plant.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, has launched a campaign to have the Naval Torpedo Station and the plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, both Government owned, opened to relieve the unemployment situation.

Hollenga has written letters to Senators Claude A. Swanson and Carter Glass and Representative Howard Worth Smith, asking their aid.

The Naval Torpedo Station was completed in 1919 and for some months was conducted as a manufacturing and testing plant for torpedoes, employing approximately 1,200 men. Its activities were later transferred to the Newport plant, the Alexandria station only employing a force of custodians.

The Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation came into existence during the war as one of the Charles W. Morse industries and as such built a number of merchant vessels. It was later used as a storage place for a large number of the wooden vessels built during the war which were sold at auction and dismantled at the Virginia plant.

Dr. Anton Lang, of Oberammergau, Bavaria, the son of Anton Lang, who plays the part of the Christus in the Passion Play, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Alexandria Rotary Club today at the luncheon meeting at George Mason Hotel.

The city council yesterday issued notice that the meeting announced for last night, instead of the regular time, will be held tonight at the regular time after all, as it was found that certain matters that had been advertised must be considered at the time published.

Mrs. Mary Spillman, 77, of 319 Wolfe street, died Sunday night at the Alexandria Hospital after a long illness. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from St. Mary's Catholic Church, and burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. The body is at Demaine's funeral home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice B. Milburn, widow of Stephen C. Milburn, a native of Alexandria, who died on Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Moore, Atlanta, Ga., will be held at 10:30 a. m. today from the Wheatley funeral home, 809 King street. Services will be conducted by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and burial will be in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Record Drum Fish Caught in Virginia

Angler Gets 110-Pounder From Machodoo Creek in Westmoreland.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—When Thomas H. Jenkins yanked hard on his line he didn't pull in a flapping fish—his boat began acting like something possessed.

It was an hour and a half later that Mr. Jenkins gained an introduction to his fish, a black drum weighing 110 pounds or 20 pounds heavier than the world's record for a fish of that species caught with a hook and line. It was 4 feet 10 inches long.

Mr. Jenkins landed the fish in the lower Machodoo Creek, near where it empties into the Potomac River in Westmoreland County. He was using a hand line with a crab for bait. The lucky fisherman today submitted a picture of his catch to a local paper, along with the signatures of six persons who attested the size and weight.

Child Severely Cut by Glass Door.

Playing in her home in Rosslyn, Va., last night, Cleo Johnson, 11 years old, accidentally thrust her arm through a glass door, nearly severing it. The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, was attempting to open the door when her hand slipped. She was brought to Georgetown Hospital.

Five Maryland Counties Rated Class A on Jails

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 21.—Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties are among five of the 23 counties of Maryland whose jails were given a class A rating as the result of the annual inspections recently completed by the State department of welfare, of which Stuart S. Janney, of Baltimore, is director. That is to say, the penal institutions placed in this group were found to measure up to all requirements as to safety, comfort of prisoners, sanitation and general management.

The other three counties that were rated in class A are Allegany, Baltimore and Garrett. The first two are among the largest counties of the State.

COUNTY OIL DEALERS ATTACK D. C. PRICES

Arlington Men, Under Higher Tax, Are Threatened With Ruin; They Organize.

Their business threatened by the failure of oil companies to make price reductions in Arlington County, Va., as in the District, filling station proprietors of the county yesterday met and formed the Suburban Gasoline Dealers Association to fight for an equitable price. Joseph D. McDonnell was elected chairman of the association and Joseph Dove, secretary.

Saturday, oil companies announced a 2-cent price reduction for gasoline in the District, but no cut was made in nearby Virginia. In order to compete in price with District dealers retailers in Arlington County, because of the 6-cent tax there—3 cents more than in Washington—would have to sell at a loss of a third of a cent per gallon.

The association will seek the cooperation of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce as well as of dealers in Alexandria and Fairfax Counties. Friday a conference will be held with Senators Carter Glass and Claude A. Swanson and Representative Howard W. Smith, who will be asked to push the passage of the Mapes bill, which provides for a 4-cent gasoline tax in Washington at the short session of Congress.

William E. Bell, R. A. Boss and F. F. Ruppert were named to a special committee to confer with representatives of the American and Standard Oil Companies today. The next meeting of the association will be Friday in the Rucker Building at Clarendon. Dealers in neighboring counties will be invited.

GRAND JURY PICKED IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Smallest Number of Cases in Years on Docket of Circuit Court.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The November term of the Circuit Court of Fairfax County, Va., opened yesterday with Judge Walter T. McCarthy presiding. A grand jury was summoned from among the bystanders to consider the presentments of Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr. Only seven presentments were made. This is the smallest number of new cases on opening day for many years.

Members of the grand jury sworn in were Robert R. Buckley, foreman; John W. Preston, James Adams, Samuel Sisson, Thomas P. Chapman, Jr., Walter Leeds and B. H. Swart.

Indictments were returned against Everett Lacey, for breaking and entering the house of Alonzo T. King and stealing a shotgun; Oscar Thompson, for felonious wounding of Annie Sampson German, near Oakton, last month; Edwin Martin, for housebreaking and stealing a gun and overcoat from the home of Daisy Davis near Gunston Hall; Lawrence Merryman, possession of a still; Henry Lee and Sherwood Bell, possession of a still; Randolph Morris, possession of a still; William Matthew Barron and John Lacy, the felonious robbery of R. E. Greenleaf near Tysons Crossroads with a dangerous weapon and taking $70 from him; Aubrey Pettit, felonious assault with a knife of Charles Edward Beach.

The presentment against Earl Heatwold for the felonious manslaughter of Virginia Cromwell, of Washington, was returned marked not a true bill. This is the second time that the case has been presented to a grand jury. Heatwold was the driver of a car in a collision near Mount Vernon when Miss Cromwell was killed.

Edwin Martin pleaded guilty to the indictment charging housebreaking and was sentenced to one year in the State penitentiary. Other cases were set to be heard during the term. The cases on the current civil docket were not called.

Arlington Sewerage Survey Up for Study

The board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight in Clarendon. A report from the sanitation committee covering a sewerage survey for the county will be considered.

Monroe H. Stockett, chairman of the road committee, will submit a report on progress for an adequate approach to the Arlington Memorial Bridge.

THE INSIDE STORY OF HEATING WITH OIL

Facts, unknown to millions of home owners, that should be weighed carefully right now

Do oil burners actually cut heating costs? Is one type of oil burner better than another? Can installations be made in cold weather without discomfort? How much is saved on automatic hot water in summer? Do oil burners actually reduce the fire hazard? Will the new automatic boiler-burner units take the place of oil burners? Have oil burner prices hit rock bottom?

These are vital questions to every home owner. Before you decide one way or another, first read these facts:

Do oil burners actually cut heating costs? Oil heat costs less than coal heat in most cases. Petro & Nokol users report savings as high as 50%, though in many districts the average saving is nearer 25%.

Is one type of oil burner better than another? Different types of heating plants require different types of oil burners. Petro & Nokol make all accepted types. Being unbiased, our dealers recommend the type of burner best suited to your particular heating plant.

Can installations be made in winter without discomfort? The change-over to oil can be made so easily and quickly with a Petro & Nokol, you will be enjoying automatic oil heat 2 hours after our experts put out your coal fire.

How much is saved on automatic hot water in summer? The same Petro & Nokol that heats your house in winter also provides for automatic hot water in summer for kitchen, bath and laundry, at a saving of almost ⅔ over other automatic water heaters.

Do oil burners actually reduce the fire hazard? John G. Gamber, former president, Fire Marshals' Association of North America, says, "My thirteen years' experience in Fire Prevention convinces me that oil heat is a genuine public benefaction." Every Fire Engine House in Boston has a Petro & Nokol.

Will the new automatic boiler-burner units take the place of oil burners? Petro & Nokol oil burners were designed for the 10,000,000 good furnaces and boilers already installed in homes. You can enjoy perfect oil heat if you have a good heating plant. The new Arco-Petro Automatic Oil Burning Boiler is recommended for all new houses and where present boilers should be replaced.

Have oil burner prices hit rock bottom? In 1925 the average oil burner cost $725. Today Petro & Nokol sells models for about half that amount, completely installed with storage tank. Commodity prices are now rising. If oil burner prices change it is only logical that it will be upward.

How easy are "Easy Payments"? Under the Petro & Nokol Public Service Plan, no down payment is required. Your small monthly payments may be extended over a period as long as 24 months, and, if desired, may include complete service, all new parts, repairs and labor, for as long as 5 years.

As a public service enterprise, the Petroleum Heat & Power Co. also provides its own oil from its own oil terminals in its own fleets of trucks. In this way its responsibility to you is undivided. You get the right oil burner for your house, and the right oil for your burner. For more complete information, fill in and mail the coupon below.

TODAY'S CONFERENCE.

Because decisions which must be made during this administration will affect the next administration, and because the head of the next administration may give counsel which will have great influence upon present decisions, President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt will hold conference today. The subject of discussion will be the double request of foreign debtors for postponement of debt payments due on Dec. 31, and for reconsideration of the debts.

Bound up in the war debt question is that of revenue, a matter that involves many domestic problems of economy and taxation.

The war debt question is not partisan. It is a question of national policy, which should be determined without regard to domestic politics. If the conversation of the two executives should result in a continuity of American policy the meeting will have accomplished a good purpose.

The temper of Congress is such as to make it probable that the debtors will be required to pay their December installments. The debtors have not advanced any reason for desiring postponement except their desire to be relieved of the debts altogether. This does not appeal to members of Congress as a sufficient reason for postponement.

If President Hoover should favor postponement and should ask Gov. Roosevelt to exert his influence with party colleagues in Congress in that behalf, Gov. Roosevelt could not do so without supporting the movement for reconsideration of the war debts. If he should do this he would run the risk of a serious disagreement with his party leaders.

Now that the two executives are meeting, it seems certain that Congress would not approve a recommendation from President Hoover for postponement of the installments if that recommendation should fail to receive the approbation of the President-elect.

Bearing in mind the fact that Congress had much difficulty in effecting economies aggregating $50,000,000 at the last session, the request for suspension of debt receipts amounting to $123,000,000 comes at an inopportune time. President Hoover gives notice that the administration is determined to present a balanced budget to Congress. Drastic economies must be made if the deficit is to be overcome and heavy increased taxation avoided. How this can be accomplished while foregoing the collection of debt installments, which had been counted upon, is a question that will thrust itself upon the attention of the two executives today. Gov. Roosevelt's administration should not be begun under a heavy handicap on the fiscal side, and President Hoover can have no wish to impose extra burdens upon his successor.

It seems probable that the double request of the foreign debtors will receive two answers: First, that the plea for postponement of installments due next month must be denied; and second, that the plea for reconsideration of the debts must be postponed. These answers may not be made until after Congress has expressed itself, but unless the attitude of Congress should change radically the debtors can not hope for a more favorable reply. Refusal by Congress to consent to postponement of the debt installments would be tantamount to a notice to President Hoover not to reopen the debt question. What a later administration and a new Congress might do would remain for the future to determine.

PRESENT VALUE OF BONUS.

Reports that Gen. Frank T. Hines, Veterans Administrator, is studying a plan whereby Congress might pay the soldiers' bonus before it is due in 1945, ought not to arouse any false hopes that that feat can be accomplished. Gen. Hines has been studying ways and means of paying the bonus for at least two years. His efforts have been supplemented by those of senators, representatives, veterans' organizations, financiers and hundreds of others, but no satisfactory solution has been evolved.

Every plan that is offered runs back into the fundamental difficulty that the Government can not pay the bonus at this time because it does not have the money. Even the Patman bill was a recognition that the Government could not finance this obligation due in 1945 under present conditions. Representative Patman merely asked that the veterans be paid in imitation money. This shortage of funds can not be remedied by anything short of a miracle that would fill the Treasury with real cash.

If the plan of the Veterans' Administration is to pay the present value of the adjusted compensation certificates, it is nothing new. Gen. Hines presented that idea to Congress two years ago when the question of extending the loan privileges under the bonus law was under consideration. It was flatly rejected by every advocate of immediate payment of the bonus. Veterans have already obtained almost the full present value of their certificates through loans. What they are really demanding is the payment now of the future value of endowment policies—that will not mature for thirteen years.

Congress undoubtedly would adopt a measure allowing veterans the present value of their bonus certificates, if the veterans so desired. Under this arrangement veterans would be entitled to only about $1,800,000,000, of which they have already received $1,500,000,000 in the form of loans. It would not be difficult for Congress to make arrangements to pay out all certificates at their actual worth. But when veterans ask that the Government pay them now the present value of their bonus certificates plus interest for the next thirteen years, the request is unreasonable.

It might be well for Congress to make arrangements to cash bonus certificates at their current value, in spite of the fact that this will not satisfy the demands for immediate payment. The comparatively small amount that would be needed for this purpose could easily be sliced from the extravagant benefits paid to veterans who have no war disability.

AMERICAN SHIPPING.

The American merchant marine still makes a considerable showing in coastwise waters and upon the seven seas. No less than 25,156 documented vessels of all types were in service at the close of the fiscal year, according to the report of the Commissioner of Navigation, A. J. Tyrer. These vessels have a gross tonnage of 15,838,655 tons. Those exceeding 1,000 tons number 1,967, representing nearly 10,000,000 tons, a decrease of 31 ships over a year ago, but an increase of 15,000 tons.

American ships engaged in foreign trade now number 928, totalling 5,276,878 tons. The vessels in the coastwise service number 1,289, but their tonnage is slightly less than the smaller number going abroad. The tonnage in foreign trade has declined steadily for more than ten years, having reached its peak in 1921. Since then, the scrapping of large ships by the Shipping Board and transfer to the more favorable business to be secured in coastwise traffic have effected great changes.

During the last year 722 vessels of 212,892 tons were built in American yards for private owners, with 96 still under construction. On June 30 laid-up seagoing tonnage amounted to 2,550,000, comprising 831 vessels. This was an increase of 200 ships over the previous year, but represented an increase of only 50,000 tons. In the sheltered inland waters of the United States the growing use of the small motor boat begins to offer somewhat the same competition to large ships that trucks are presenting for the railroads. No less than 260,000 of these small vessels are numbered and registered in the custom houses, and it is estimated that the number in active use is fully 400,000. The Bureau of Navigation collects about $2,000,000 a year in fees, which is just about enough to make it self-supporting.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

All possibility of the enactment of Federal unemployment insurance legislation has passed with the decision of the American Federation of Labor's executive council to lay the problem before the State legislatures instead of Congress. Leaders of organized labor have carefully studied the situation and decided that efforts to secure a Federal compulsory unemployment insurance law would be wasted. They are to be congratulated on their clear thinking and courageous disregard of a minority demand for a Federal dole.

"It is practically impossible," says the executive council's report, "to enact constitutional Federal legislation adequately providing for unemployment insurance covering employes engaged in work in the different States." It is apparent, however, that constitutional difficulties were not the only reason why the thought of Federal unemployment insurance was abandoned. The council found it inadvisable to frame a model bill for State legislatures because "local conditions of each State vary to such a marked degree." Again it points out that the amount of contributions to unemployment reserve funds "must depend upon the local conditions in each State." The amount of benefits paid should also be regulated to meet local situations. The council is anxious to have all laws on the subject embody the standards which it prescribes, but it emphatically states that the general policy must be adjusted in accordance with the varying circumstances of the different States. Federal legislation could not meet these requirements. Congress might well exempt unemployment reserves from taxation, but the chief objective of any Federal act on this subject will doubtless be to make State laws more effective.

Contrary to the general theory and practice, the labor council recommends that the entire cost of unemployment insurance should be borne by employers. The usual practice is to have both employes and employers contribute. In either event the entire amount comes out of industrial earnings. A provision that employers should furnish the entire sum might result in a reduction of wages by that amount. Furthermore, the psychology of having workmen contribute to their own stability seems to be beneficial. When a part of unemployment reserves comes out of wages, insurance benefits do not take on the aspects of a dole. The attitude of cooperation between industry and labor in a problem that plagues both should produce the best results.

Foremost among the objectives of the Federation of Labor in sponsoring unemployment insurance laws are: The preservation of high wages and suitable working conditions, and the stimulation of more regular employment. Organized labor in this country has often reiterated its desire for work and not doles. It goes so far as to recommend a waiting period between the time a workman loses his job and the time when he becomes eligible for insurance benefits. Labor leaders have wisely avoided proposals that might dull the incentive to work. Their plan will undoubtedly be given careful attention by the State legislatures.

WE MUST NOT FAIL.

Washington is nearing the end of this year's Community Chest campaign, and despite the fact that the need this year is greater and more imperative than ever before, the contributions are lagging.

Washington, the National Capital, is faced by a challenge as stern as a call to arms in battle time. There can be no doubt of the fact that hundreds of citizens can not feed or clothe or house their dependents. It is a desperate situation which is in no way their own making. They are victims of one of the greatest economic upheavals ever visited upon the earth. It is not charity to aid such as these. If civilization means anything it is a duty.

Many have given. Many have given greatly, if their gift is measured in the terms of the sacrifice it entails upon the giver. Those who have withheld, feeling that they can not afford a gift, do not realize the need. When children are faced with hunger is no time to count the cost. They must be fed!

Surely Washington, with its white temples gleaming in the sun, with its libraries, its fine theaters, its luxurious motor cars, its palatial homes, can not afford to send out to the Nation a message that it will not feed and clothe its own!

With the United States as a free wet market, the Virgin Islands may soon revive their fainting spirits.

Congress will now be asked to solve the problem of raising real revenue by taxing bogus beer.

When Europe complains that paying debts is extremely disagreeable the average American knows just how it feels.

Gov. Roosevelt will go to Warm Springs after the conference, but President Hoover will remain in hot water.

In his spare moments Ray Moley might glance over the 300,000-word Lytton report.

SUPREME COURT ON BEER

From the Milwaukee Journal.

Enthusiasts for the return of beer apparently feel that a mere upward revision of that part of the Volstead act which defines intoxicating beverages, made law by passage in both houses and signature of the President, will suffice to make beer definitely legal in the United States.

This is, of course, not true. The Supreme Court would certainly be asked to pass on the validity of the changed definition, and its opinion of the constitutionality of the raised alcoholic content would be final and permanent.

The Supreme Court has, of course, already passed on the ½ of 1 per cent definition. It has found Congress entirely within its power in fixing this low percentage as the line between what is intoxicating and what is not. It has not, if memory serves, definitely stated that a beverage more potent than ½ of 1 per cent is per se intoxicating and illegal. It has, rather, merely stressed the power of Congress to consider what percentage is intoxicating and illegal.

The way is, therefore, open for the court to approve as nonintoxicating in fact beverages of greater potency than ½ of 1 per cent. Within reason, it may do so, but just where it would itself draw the line can not be predicted.

If and when Congress revises the present definition of the Volstead act, and if and when the President signs the new proposal, it is certain that dry forces will at once petition the high court for an opinion as to the constitutionality of the change. Eventually, a decision will be handed down. On that decision and on nothing else will depend whether legalized beer will really return to the people of the country.

The only way an adverse decision by the court could be removed would be removal of the constitutional provision on which it was based—that is, by repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

This is a thing which beer enthusiasts should keep constantly in mind. The two houses of Congress and the President are the first hurdles which beer must pass. The final hurdle is the Supreme Court, against whose adverse decision no power can prevail.

But What Do Johnnie's Folks Think?

POST HASTE

Messrs. Hoover and Roosevelt meet today to exchange unpleasant information.

Twelve congressmen are a bit confused about tomorrow, as they don't know whether they are going into executive session to argue or be told.

Congress, like the unbiased judge, will study the debts impartially until next month, when it will decide against the creditors.

The Lytton report is as accurately in line with established public opinion as the Japanese reply was discounted in advance.

Japan contends that the proclamation of Manchurian independence was "general, spontaneous, popular and natural." That hardly leaves any words to express the widespread, instinctive, native and inevitable opposition now raging.

"We attempt to take care of other business, why not agriculture?" asks innocent young Senator-elect McAdoo. A prize will be awarded if he finds half as many measures favoring any other industry as have been passed to aid the farmer.

If complaint is made that agricultural relief laws have not averted present low prices, it can only be suggested that there are several other directions in which statutory reforms are not quite 100 per cent perfect.

Finnish bootleggers have recovered 40 per cent of the trade. Is it possible to lose the taste for good liquor?

Horrible thought: Suppose, if and when that real reel beer returns, one should discover that one had acquired an ingrowing taste for soda pop—or something!

A wide survey of the Sunday press discloses that entirely too much attention is being given to four billions of Federal expenditure and not enough to eleven billions spent for State and local government.

Ex-Mayor Walker has been offered $50,000 for his memoirs. He is debating whether he can fill out a full chapter on the time he spent in the office.

If the Brooklyn Museum scientists fail to find the pig-headed humans in the wilds of Brazil, they should not be discouraged, but redirect their quest when they return.

What is an overseas content? It is just as easy to decide as why two sips will make one fellow sing and two sups make the other one cry.

FILAMENTS FOR LIGHTS.

Electric lights are so cheap and ubiquitous today that they are taken quite for granted in most of the world. One of the most interesting elements of the bulb, from the viewpoint of manufacture, is the tiny filament from which electric light shines. Most of the world's supply of these filaments is made in the little French town of Trevoux, where most of the population is engaged in their manufacture. The tungsten used in a six-watt lamp is four ten-thousandths of an inch in diameter, one-tenth the thickness of a human hair. After it is coiled 1,390 turns to the linear inch to form the spring-like filament through which the electricity flows, the outside diameter of the coil is less than that of a man's hair.

A bar of tungsten weighing a little over a pound is sufficient to make filaments for 600,000 lamps. The bar passes through 95 progressively smaller apertures known as dies. About two-thirds of these are minute holes drilled through diamonds. A conical hole is drilled exactly half way through the diamond from each side. The microscopic hole resulting from the meeting of the two cones forms the die.

If He Cheats on Mondays and Fridays, Why Trust Him Other Days?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE are two kinds of citizens, one habitually law-abiding and the other habitually criminal.

The ordinary citizen respects and fears the law. He may violate traffic regulations or do business with a bootlegger, but he remains a partisan of law and order.

He is afraid of conflict with the law. He has a reputation to protect, and he dreads arrest and trial almost as much as he would dread conviction.

He may commit a crime. Being desperate and sorely tempted, he may steal from his employer. Being frenzied by fear, rage or jealousy he may kill.

But a guilty conscience makes him a coward. He attempts no defense except concealment or flight. He feels disgraced. And if he is found guilty and sent to prison his one desire is to pay his score and again become a respectable and law-abiding citizen.

He is not a criminal, and his redemption requires no more than another chance.

The other kind of citizen is an outlaw. Whatever the reason may be, whether mental deficiency, early environment or inherent evil, he is a rebel against society.

He hates the law and its officers. He regards all authority as an enemy. He recognizes no rule except that of force. By preference and deliberate purpose he is at war with organized civilization.

He feels no shame. No sense of guilt oppresses or weakens him. A term in prison is not a disgrace, but merely a temporary triumph of his enemy. Arrest and trial mean nothing except inconvenience and expense. He has no good name to protect, for one name serves him as well as another.

He is a criminal to his marrow, and a criminal he will remain until his death.

To pardon or parole him is to give him license to prey on society again.

To talk of reforming him is to confess ignorance of his nature and his kind.

He returns to crime as a bee to its hive the moment he is at liberty.

Major crimes against property, almost without exception, are committed by men with criminal records. Bold criminals are professional criminals.

And society will have no security until it sees the truth and confines these men for life.

It is folly approaching imbecility merely to muzzle a vicious dog for a week each time it bites a new victim.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Big Job in New Hands.
Kansas City Star.

The prospect of an extra session of the new Congress and the possibility of its continuation up to the time of the regular session; and the further possibility that the regular session may continue until the middle of 1934, give the country an illuminating glance at the big job ahead of the new administration. Indeed, the job is so big and involves such complications and difficulties that, were it not for the force of political party attachments, one might ask how any man or any group of men should strive mightily for the privilege of undertaking it.

The extent to which the present administration can dispose of pressing problems will depend largely on the attitude of the old Congress, which soon will begin its last session. It might be possible to provide for a sales tax and make other provisions for increasing the seriously deficient revenues. It might be possible to effect substantial reductions in government expenditures by the speedy adoption of the President's recommendations, which will be based on the between-sessions survey of departments. But it is more likely that both these necessary actions will go over to the new Congress, and along with them the matter of repealing or modifying the eighteenth amendment and abolishing or amending the Volstead act; a farm program in conformance with the Democratic pledges; measures for relief of the unemployed; disposition of the appeal for consideration on war debts; tariff revision; approval or modification of the present set-up for stimulating business recovery.

Another Farmer Revolt.
Detroit, News.

Among the resolutions to be proposed at a meeting of the Farmers' Holiday Association in Omaha, Nebr., are two having far-reaching implications.

First, the farmers are advised to refuse to recognize the legality of foreclosure of mortgages on their farm property and to do all in their power to prevent forcible collection of debts and taxes.

Second, a moratorium of debts and taxes is to be declared until Congress guarantees cost of production of farm products, plus profit.

In view of the established reputation of the American farming population of conservatism and law-abiding conduct, one may question how far the farmers will be willing to follow such leadership. If, in their customary spirit of fairness, the farmers were to consent to grant to business in general the same exemption from payment of debts and taxes which these resolutions would claim for the farmers, breakdown of the entire governmental machinery, together with destruction of the whole civic, industrial and commercial fabric might be threatened.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Old-Fashioned Inaugural Parade Is Favored—Let Fun Abound and Let Party Feeling Be Forgotten.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I hope President-elect Roosevelt will approve of the old-fashioned inaugural parade proposed by Democratic Committeeman John F. Costello in behalf of the citizens of Washington. Notwithstanding anything which may be said in favor of a plain and simple parade, it seems to me that a street demonstration with diversified features is more fitting to celebrate the great gala day of Government by the people. Such a parade, made up of civic organizations from all parts of the continental and outlying United States, as well as Army and Navy contingents, is worth while on account of its educational influence. It will make prouder Americans of the boys and girls and grown-ups who enjoy it. Uncle Sam should wear a smile on Inauguration Day and party feeling be forgotten, and I would not object to some genuine fun-making in the line of march, including the Donkey and the Elephant. That is to say that as an evidence of confidence in the rapid return of good times, "Let joy abound!" should be the day's slogan.

An elaborate old-fashioned inauguration procession, as Mr. Costello says, "not only would be appropriate, but would buoy up the morale of the entire Nation." W. T. T.

Well-Known Mob Leaders Should Be Nabbed Before They Start Riots Among Hunger Marchers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why should the police permit well-known riot breeders to run at large when hunger marchers come here? Especially when they make it no secret that if they don't get what they want they will picket Uncle Sam? Already they are advocating violence in this winter's "hunger" invasion of the National Capital. The chief of police should take them at their word as soon as they cross the District line. Whenever and wherever there is the possibility that the mob spirit may burst out, these riot-minded malcontents should be classed as suspicious characters and, in the name of law and order, treated as such. Talk about their constitutional rights of free speech, peaceable assembly and petition is ridiculous. It may be all right to give the benefit of the doubt to the isolated citizens, but so far as mob leaders who are known enemies of our system of Government are concerned, they should be arrested on sight and held for investigation if they put in an appearance when any discontented groups of marchers visit the Capital.

W. P. JONAS.

Mental Test of Drivers Not So Good, Says Writer—Give Lawbreakers the Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The proposal of one of your correspondents that applicants for automobile-driving licenses should be subjected to a psychological test may look fine to some people, but the view of the average practical citizen is apt to be that it lacks common sense. So far as traffic safety is concerned its good effect would be only slight, if noticeable. Speed regulation and provisions for strict law enforcement are the two most important things to be considered in the study of traffic safety. The great trouble is that too many drivers fail to fully realize the need for regulation in regard to themselves. If they are expert, or think they are expert, they will often make their expertness an excuse for taking chances. The psychoed motorist, no matter how expert, might turn out to be specially unsafe if not law-conscious. What we need is thorough police surveillance and sure punishment of traffic offenders in order to make all motorists law-conscious.

WAKE 'EM UP.

Suggests Postponement of Public Inaugural Celebration Till April or May.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is too bad that steps have not before now been taken to have inaugural festivities take place at some later date than inauguration day itself. There is always an extreme chance that any street display will be spoiled by the worst kind of weather on March 4, involving serious discomfort and sickness. I believe the country at large as well as the citizens of Washington would prefer some date in April or May, when there is always a chance of ideal weather for outdoor ceremonies. C. F. O.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

HERITAGE.

He flung a curse upon his son
For some grave folly he had done.
He cried aloud: "He's fully grown!
The end of this he must have known!
The price of this he must have seen!"
And yet his own hands were unclean.
Upon his breath was heavy still
The flavor which had wrought the ill.

He blamed the boy for being weak
Who had himself a craven streak.
He preached high conduct, but he walked
On lower levels than he talked.
And though it disappointment grim
To find his boy had followed him.
He seemed surprised at last to see
How much like him his boy could be.

Fathers who want fine sons must seek Themselves the higher mountain peak,
And by example day by day
To what is finer lead the way.
Theirs is the burden to be strong,
Wisely to choose twixt right and wrong;
For as the twigs are like the tree,
So like their fathers sons must be.

EVENTS IN CAPITAL SOCIETY

Mrs. Hoover Attends Community Chest Luncheon.

MRS. HOOVER, AS HAS been her custom in the past, attended the luncheon of the Community Chest in the grand ballroom of the Willard yesterday. More than one thousand chest workers were present at this gathering.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Hoover received the new dean of the Diplomatic Corps, the Ambassador of France, M. Paul Claudel, and Mme. Claudel. M. Claudel succeeds the former Ambassador of Italy, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, who sailed last week for Rome.

The Ambassador of Germany, Herr Friedrich von Prittwitz und Gaffron, returned to Washington yesterday from Asheville, N. C., where he spent Sunday as the guest of Mr. Frederick Loring Seely.

While in Asheville the ambassador accepted in behalf of the German nation a memorial boulder inscribed with the names of eighteen German sailors who died while interned in Asheville during the World War.

The Ambassador of Brazil and Mme. de Lima e Silva will have as their guest for some time the latter's sister, Baroness d'Erlanger, wife of Baron Henri d'Erlanger, of England, who will arrive in New York on the Champlain from France.

Baroness d'Erlanger is also the sister of Mme. Nano, wife of the Counselor of the Roumanian Legation, and visited the Nanos in Washington several years ago before her marriage.

M. and Mme. Nano are at present staying with the former's brother-in-law, the Ambassador of Spain, Senor Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas. Senora de Cardenas, sister of Mr. Nano, who has been at their home in Roumania for several months, is expected to return to this country the end of this month.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams entertained at dinner last evening, when their guests were the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, Admiral and Mrs. William V. Pratt, the Comamndant of the Marine Corps and Mrs. Ben H. Fuller, Rear Admiral and Mrs. George R. Marvel, Rear Admiral and Mrs. William A. Moffett, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Frank H. Schofield, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas C. Hart, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Walter R. Gherardi and Capt. and Mrs. A. W. Johnson.

Senator and Mrs. Couzens to Dine Secretary and Mrs. Chapin.

Senator and Mrs. James Couzens have issued invitations for a dinner on December 6 in honor of the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Roy D. Chapin.

Senator and Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg have issued invitations for a dinner on December 17 in honor of the Secretary and Mrs. Chapin.

Senator and Mrs. Vandenberg will be joined December 17 by their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Vandenberg, a student at Rockford College, Rockford, Ill., who will spend the Christmas holidays in the Capital. Senator and Mrs. Vandenberg will give a tea dance for their daughter during the holiday season.

Representative and Mrs. Frank Murphy, of Steubenville, Ohio, have returned to Washington and opened their home at 1734 Poplar lane, Rock Creek Park Estates.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke will be at home this afternoon at the Mayflower from 5 until 7 o'clock to the officers of the Navy and Marine Corps and their wives.

The President-elect of Nicaragua, Senor Don Juan B. Sacasa, will not come to Washington, as he had planned, before his inauguration on January 1. Senora de Sacasa and their daughters will leave Washigton the end of the week for New York, where they will spend a week before sailing on December 8, for Nicaragua.

Miss Mal Sykes, debutante daughter of the Federal Radio Commissioner and Mrs. Eugene O. Sykes, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Joseph Clinton Trilby entertained at luncheon yesterday at the National Woman's Country Club. The guests were Miss Peggy Barker, Miss Marylee Bell, Miss Anne Daingerfield, Miss Madge Ely, Miss Laura Katherine Field, Miss Helene Fortescue, Miss Virginia Hall, Miss Betty Jones, Miss Eleanor Jones, Miss Jean Kingman, Miss Helen Pendleton Manley, Miss Helen Mark, Miss Margaret Nixon, Miss Sarah Preston, Miss Marguerite Prescott, Miss Frances Simonds, Miss Ethel Mae Taylor, Miss Helen Tewksbury, Miss Jane Tewksbury, Miss Ruth Tuckerman, Miss Emma Tompkins, Miss Louise Tompkins and Miss Priscilla Watson.

The table was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Hanson Ely, jr., will entertain at luncheon tomorrow for her sister-in-law, Miss Madge Ely, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Hanson Ely, who is one of the season's debutantes.

Miss Stewart to Marry on Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Avril Stewart, daughter of Col. John Stewart, U. S. A., and Mrs. Stewart, has selected Thanksgiving Day for her marriage to Mr. Stanley Charles Roehr, son of Mr. Henry Roehr, of Louisville, Ky. The wedding will take place in the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, pastor, officiating, at 4 o'clock. An informal reception for members of the two families will follow in the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Stewart will be attended by her sister, Miss Christine Stewart, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be another sister, Miss Margaret Janice Stewart, and Miss Mary Katharine Lutz.

Mr. Roehr will have as his best man Mr. Theodore Neb, of Louisville, and the ushers will be Mr. Frank Stewart, brother of the bride, and Mr. Joseph Wood.

Miss Elizabeth Spaulding, who has been the guest of Mrs. Jack Hayes for two weeks, will return to her home in Atlanta, Ga., tomorrow.

Mrs. Samuel T. Herrick will entertain at the dinner dance at the Shoreham tomorrow evening for Miss Laura Katherine Field, debutante.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Kent Legare will return to their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel the end of the week, after a short absence from the city.

Miss Frances Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brooks, will entertain at luncheon at the Shoreham today.

Mr. Will Irwin, the well-known author, is at the Willard for a few days. Mr. Irwin's best-known book is on the life of his friend, President Hoover. This book was published previous to the presidential campaign of 1928.

Miss Grace L. Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carr, will arrive in Washington tomorrow from Meredith College to spend the Thanksgiving holiday with her parents at their home 5053 Massachusetts avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenwood J. Sherrard and their son, Glenwood Sherrard, jr., of Hamilton, Bedmuda, are at the Willard. Miss Barbara Morse is also a member of the party. Arriving in New York a few days ago, they motored to Washington and plan to continue their journey to Florida in a few days.

The Federal Director of Employment for Maryland and Mrs. Raymond W. Bellamy, of Belmar, Cheverly, Md., entertained over the week-end in honor of Mrs. Bellamy's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. David Starr Martin, and her sisters, Miss Mae Martin and Mrs. Ernest Succup Taylor, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The women's board of St. John's Church Orphanage will hold a donation day at the home, 1922 F street, today when the orphanage will be open for inspection from 10 until 6 o'clock. Visitors are invited to tea at 4:30 o'clock. The committee includes Mrs. William Allan Hayes, Mrs. J. Harry Covington, Miss Abbie McCammon, Mrs. J. Upshur Moorehead, Mrs. James M. Johnston, jr., Mrs. Edward Meigs and Mrs. Albert H. Lucas.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Scully are in Atlantic City.

Dr. Hale Honor Guest at Democratic Club.

Dr. William Hale was the guest of honor and speaker at the weekly forum luncheon which the Woman's National Democratic Club gave yesterday. Mrs. Huston Thompson introduced the speaker. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson gave a large luncheon party, the guests being seated at the speaker's table. In Mr. and Mrs. Thompson's party were the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Rutherford, formerly of Cleveland and now residents of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Briggs, Senator and Mrs. Cordell Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Luke I. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Robertson, Miss Caroline Thompson and Dr. Ernest Mayer, of the staff of the German Embassy.

Mrs. Samuel Herrick entertained a party, her guests including Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr., Mrs. E. G. Nourse, Mrs. Edward Clark, Mrs. George W. Bowerman, Mrs. Charles T. Watson, Mrs. Elwood P. Morey and Mrs. Ernest Bicknell. Others at the luncheon were Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mrs. Thomas W. Page, Mrs. James T. Newton, Mrs. Claude R. Porter, Mrs. C. I. Hendrickson, Miss Mary Connery, Mrs. J. W. Menefee, Mrs. W. G. Orme, Mrs. J. J. McMahon, Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mrs. C. J. Brand, Mrs M. A. J. Markley, Dr. Laura Brenon, Mrs. James Meredith Helm, Mrs. Ogilvie Shumate, Mrs. John Hening, Mrs. Mary Hancock Tighe, Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick Noble, Mrs. K. L. Hill, Miss Mary Riley, Mrs. Pierre M. Bealer, Mr. and Mrs. Van Ness Philip and Mrs. William D. Sterrett.

Mrs. Hoover Invited to Center Dance Recital.

Mrs. Hoover has been invited by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, director of the Community Center Department, and Mrs. E. H. Hunter, of Central Community Center, to be the guest of honor at the autumn recital at Central High School Auditorium, Saturday night by Lisa Gardiner and the Gardiner Dance Group of this city, assisted by Mr. Michael Nicholoff, of New York, formerly of the Pavlowa Ballet. Mrs. Hoover has taken an interest in the community programs planned and presented by the Community Center Department, for the winter, and was honor guest at the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta "H. M. S. Pinafore" in October by the Estelle Wentworth Opera Group.

The Commissioner and Mrs. Luther Halsey Reichelderfer have likewise been invited to be present at this recital, in which eighteen popular Washington dancers will take part, assisted by other dancers and players from outside the city. It is expected that members of the Board of Education will attend the recital, as guests of the Community Center Department.

Mrs. John W. Garrett, wife of the United States Ambassador to Italy, will be the guest of Miss Gardiner on this occasion, and Mr. Andre Oliveroff, also a former member of the famous ballet organized and directed by Mme. Pavlowa, will come to the city for the recital this week. Mr. Oliveroff is the author of a recent book, "The Flight of the Swan," based upon the life and work of Mme. Pavlowa. Mr. Oliveroff was a member of the Pavlowa Ballet upon its last appearance here in 1922.

This will be the first time that any two members of Mme. Pavlowa's Ballet have been seen in a joint recital since her death several years ago.

When Leopold Stokowski conducts the Philadelphia Orchestra this evening many prominent musical persons will be present. Those entertaining box parties are Countess Szechenyi, Miss Mable Boardman, Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, Mrs. Adolph C. Miller, Miss Alice Clapp, Mrs. F. A. Keep, Mrs. Frederick C. Hicks, Mrs. Sarah Stokes Halkett, Mrs. Ralph Worthington, Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mrs. F. A. Delano, Mrs. William Crozier, Mrs. George B. McClellan, Mrs. Oscar Jarecki and Mr. William P. Eno.

Others attending are Miss Laura Harlan, Mrs. Horace Lee Washington, Miss Moira Archbold, Miss L. P. Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lansburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Droop, Mrs. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Truxton Beale, Mrs F. L. Belin, Mrs. Pierce Butler, Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Miss Bessie Kibbey, Mrs. John J. O'Connor, Mrs. George P. Scriven and scores of others.

Wide interest is being shown in the presentation of "The Squall" by Jean Bart, which is to be given by the Drama Guild of Washington at Wardman Park Theater on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Among those who have made reservations are Gen. and Mrs. Mason M. Patrick, Dr. and Mrs. Luther W. Reichelderfer, Col. and Mrs. U. S. Grant 3d, Miss Sybil Baker, Admiral William Ledyard Rodgers, Dr. and Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, Dr. Anna Bartsch-Dunn, Mr. Percy Lee Atherton, Dr. and Mrs. Albert M. Baggs, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Corby, Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Droop, Mrs. H. A. Selthausen, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Peters Judge Mary O'Toole, Commander and Mrs. Luman Morgan, Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, Maj. and Mrs. A. G. Strong, Mr. Peter Rouzitsky, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Graham, Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham, Commander and Mrs. Roy McKenzie, Col. and Mrs. John Otto Johnson, Mrs. Otto Veerhoff and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Proctor.

Additional patrons and patronesses include Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Flemming, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mr. and Mrs. Beale Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Atwood, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Brown and Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong.

St. Thomas Apostle Sodality Plans Party on December 5.

The Sodality of St. Thomas the Apostle Church of which the Rev. Thomas A. Walsh is pastor, has completed plans for its annual card party which will be held at the Shoreham Hotel on Monday, December 5, at 8 o'clock.

Miss Sarah C. Hickey, chairman of the card party, is assisted by Mrs. John Cammack, Miss Mary A. Rover, Miss Katherine T. Rover, Mrs. Robert J. Bourke, Miss Bernadeth L. Dore, Miss Margaret M. Dore, Mrs. M. Frank Ruppert, Mrs. D. J. Callahan, Mrs. Adelaide Rover Cavanagh, Mrs. Joseph A. Hayden, Miss Anna R. Hickey, Mrs. Samuel L. Hoover, Mrs. Joseph P. Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

LAST Saturday we decided to freshen up our wardrobe on Sunday if it rained. And it did, and we did.

But what exactly did we do with our shoes?

Bought a sturdy pair of shoetrees for each and every one, I hope. And the clever little lady with the paint brush gave them a coat of shiney black enamel, let it dry a few days, then painted some dainty little thing on them in bright oil pants—or the clever little seamstress covered them with all kinds of dainty materials from the scrap bag, and did not forget to put sachet inside!

All in "one fell swoop" you can buy buttons, laces and ribbons, new ones for your entire shoe layout. And you can take every shoe that needs a new heel top to straighten it, down to the shoemaker's all all once—and all those that need cleaning, too.

Then your sports shoes, you can clean and polish, or have it done, even though goodness only knows when you will play tennis again. But when you do, they will be all ready. Your patent leathers you can clean yourself, your satin ones require a bit of cotton and gasoline, your silver or gold ones the special paste preparations for them.

But, of course, you know that your metal evening slippers must be wrapped in a soft flannel, preferably blue? Then put them in a separate box, every one, shoe tree and all.

The floor for your shoes? Never! If not a shelf, right under your hat shelf in your closet, then a couple of grocery boxes, one on top of the other! Or an old set of book shelves that you have no other use for—something in which you can stand your shoes, side by side and upright, that keeps them well away from the floor. Then your light-colored ones will go on a separate shelf; your dark ones another, your evening shoes another. And on each shelf have the cleaning materials for each one, and several extra buttons and laces that match each shoe! How much neater you will look as to feet, and how much easier it will be, how much better your shoes will look and how much longer they will last.

Do I do that all myself?

Certainly! (And didn't that fool you!)

We found out how to make the most stunning Christmas cards of real parchment—and all for such a few cents apiece; it's almost silly! Not only that, but card store or a leveler's store wouldn't copy them for you for less, an $1 apiece—'cause we priced 'em. And then we designed some more cards, unusual, amusing, elegant and all quite easily and inexpensively made. Better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the Christmas card leaflet, just to see whether it wouldn't be smart of you to make hand-made Christmas cards this year. Remember, many a friend who had a gift last year understands that you can't make as many gifts this year as you would like—but would be hurt if you simply overlooked her entirely. One of these hand-made cards that we tell you how to make will be the perfect gesture!

• • • •

'Tis most remarkable what one can do with grease spots—not on black frocks or any of very dark color, but on lighter-colored frocks, for instance. Fresh grease spots of any kind—and remember that 'tis the grease that stains in milk and cream—or in the cream in the coffee you spill—should be immediately treated to a good shake of talcum powder, both sides of the frock! French chal' is better, even camphorated chalk if neither of the others are available. Just leave the powder on for 15 minutes or so—shake it off and brush your dress, and voila, no spot!

Au revoir!

Newark Radio Station Loses License Appeal

The broadcasting license of Radio Station WNJ, in Newark, N. J., was properly withdrawn by the Federal Radio Commission, the District Court of Appeals ruled yesterday when it affirmed the commission's action in taking the station off the air.

There were originally four operating stations in the same area, and the commission, to promote better programs and service, allotted three-fourths of the time to WHOM, Jersey City, and the remaining one-fourth to WBMS, Hackensack. The fourth station, WKBO, Jersey City, also was denied a renewal of its license.

And note—

MINK leads in fashion importance

MINK is now exceedingly low priced

These coats are made from the rich, dark brown Eastern mink whose beauty, quality, and wearing qualities are admittedly the best. The inferior grades, often characterized by mink skins of pale yellow tones, are not admitted to our stocks.

The special cutting, manipulation, and matching of the skins in these coats is the work of expert furriers, skilled in handling mink. It takes years to become an expert in the working of mink—and these coats are splendid examples of the best furriers' art.

The annual card party given by the Woman's Army and Navy League for the benefit of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club located at Eleventh and L streets will be held on Wednesday evening, December 7, at 8:15 o'clock in the ballroom of 2400 Sixteenth street. Mrs. Edwin St. John Greble is chairman of the committee in charge of the benefit and is assisted by Mrs. Ben Fuller, Mrs. Archibald Parsons, Mrs. Rufus Lane and Mrs. Anderson Dearing.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Curtiss Parr were the guests in whose honor the Ten o'Clock Club entertained at tea yesterday afternoon following the opening of an exhibition of water colors of Greece, painted by Mr. Parr in 1931. Receiving the guests were Miss Margaret Louise O'Brien, Mrs. Edward S. McDonald and Mr. Parr.

Among the guests were the Minister of Greece and Mrs. Simopoulos, Mrs. Eva Pope, Miss Belle Sherwin, Mr. Samuel Herrick and Dr. and Mrs. G. E. White, parents of Mrs. Parr. Dr. White is the president of Anatolia College in Salonica.

The table was presided over by Mrs. Parr, Miss Beatrice Hubbell Marsh, Miss Janet Jackson and Mrs. Donald Stough.

The Episcopal Church Home for the Aged will have its annual donation day on Saturday, from 9 to 5 o'clock, at 3315 Wisconsin avenue, or 3625 Macomb street. Mrs. J. D. Murdaugh, Mrs. W. M. Sleet, Mrs. R. E. Fisher and Mrs. H. Jones are in charge of the gifts.

Owing to the diocese extending far beyond the District of Columbia, the home, of which Bishop Freeman is the president of the board of governors, is not eligible for the Community Chest.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ATHLETE'S FOOT.

M. T. A. writes: I have an itchy spot on the bottom of one foot. When I scratched it it seemed to be a blister. It was still itchy and was slightly red and dry. Then two more developed. Tell the fellow with bunions to tie them up in slices of lemon. It won't cure them, but it will take out the soreness and inflammation.

REPLY.

This probably is that form of athlete's foot that goes by the name pompholyx. Treatment for ringworm cures it. Wear sandals and no socks, or go barefooted, or somehow prevent friction, keep your feet cool and exposed to air and light as much as possible.

BUERGER'S DISEASE.

F. J. M. writes: I have been told I have Buerger's disease. What does this disease come from? Is there any known cure?

REPLY.

It is due to a decrease in the carrying capacity of the blood vessels, particularly those of the legs. This generally is one of two causes—spasm of the muscles of the walls of the middle-sized vessels and arterio sclerosis and thickening of the walls of the somewhat larger ones. What causes these two blood vessel changes no one knows, although using tobacco is known to be one but not a principal cause.

Some cases are cured; some are kept efficient for years. There are several treatments and new ones are suggested from time to time. This is one of the new diseases and other treatments will be forthcoming.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

THESE relaxation hints are for every woman, not alone for the home builder. The office worker, when she comes home in the evening, the teacher, if she has an hour to herself in the afternoon. Every woman should take time out every day to relax.

First, be sure to take off any tight clothes; off with corset, tight garters, brassieres or anything else that may restrict free breathing and movement. One of the first rules of the woman in the home should be proper clothes for her daily round of duties. High heels have no place on the golf course, tennis court or for housework. A comfortable shoe with a flat or Cuban heel (and be sure the heel is sturdy and not run down) is fine. And for your dress, a smock or crisp house dress or easily laundered tennis frock. Some women work in pajamas (but the bottoms get so soiled, don't they?). Others wear bloomers and blouses, or shorts or skirts. Anything at all that makes you feel happy and at ease, and above all free, will do.

Relaxation Exercises.

Now we get down to the actual relaxation in the form of a few exercises. I mean down. Please try it, all of you. If fewer women thought of this important rest period as "bunk" and more took time out for it, there would be more energy and less cases of "nerves." The woman in the home should rest after each household duty, even if only for a few minutes. Lie down on your back, feet flat, knees bent up, palms of hands down. Breathe slowly and deeply. Feel yourself completely relaxed. Do relax.

Remember, never work or exercise when you feel very tired. That's a slow way to suicide.

When you are seated, merely relax, breathe deeply, close your eyes and try to see black.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 9:10 a. m. to 10:40 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

November 22 influence would indicate that it may be necessary for you to make a decision that will greatly influence the course of your future. It may be in business, at home and it may even have to do with an affair of the heart. Whatever its nature you will probably decide rightly if you approach the problem with reason and judgment. Make your decision fearlessly.

The child born on this November 22 will take little interest in his studies. He will be much more interested in the world and events going on about him. Travel would be most educational for a child of this type. The child will enjoy people, will make friends readily and will be very considerate of all with whom he comes in contact. The child born on this day will be blessed with an active body as well as an active mind.

If November 22 is the date of your birth, you are probably a very quiet, modest and retiring person. You no doubt have a most kind nature and are possessed with a desire to help others at every opportunity. Early in life you were perhaps fired with a desire to accumulate great wealth and you fancied yourself a business magnate, vastly wealthy and wielding great power. Life has probably not treated you too kindly, but it has not embittered you. You are inclined now to sit back quietly, shake your head and wonder just what this life is all about. At the same time you are content in the knowledge that you have kept out of its more strenuous current and that in its more quiet waters you have passed a comfortable existence.

Born on November 22 your most effective work probably would be done in the ministry, as a teacher or in some field of research. There is more than a little of the artistic about you and you would derive much pleasure from having a hobby that would lead you to pursue the study of music or painting. Children delight you and you are happy when with them. Both men and women born on this date make ideal mates. The women take great pride in their homes and spend many hours in beautifying them. They are unusually fond of flowers, and love to garden.

Successful people born on November 22:

James C. Nicoll, artist.
Revere F. Weidner, clergyman.
Herbert A. Howe, astronomer.
Maud Morgan, harpist.
Howard Brockway, pianist and composer.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Washington Stores Are Found to Be Well Stocked With Choice Thanksgiving Day Delicacies at Prices Much Cheaper; Turkeys Larger This Year.

Now that turkey at 25 cents a pound is an astonishing reality, materials for Thanksgiving dinners are being rapidly ordered and assembled. Most housewives who are to prepare the family dinners for Thursday can not remember when turkeys cost so little. A conservative grocer says that not for fifteen years has the cost of a Thanksgiving dinner been so low. The 1932 feast will set back the family pocketbook about one-third less than did the 1931 Thanksgiving menu, while the present prices are only about half those of three years ago.

This lean year 1932 has not kept down the size of the turkeys. Quite the opposite. There is a dearth of small turkeys. The mild weather of the autumn made it possible to fatten turkeys rapidly until the average size is more nearly 15 pounds than the expected 10 or 12 pounds average of other years. Meat departments in certain chain stores have been advised that orders for small turkeys can not be accepted.

Chrysanthemums, always in the background of Thanksgiving, have never been lovelier nor more reasonable. In one big centrally located downtown market, where the "mums" make festive displays, the most costly variety—the long-stemmed, heavy-headed chrysanthemums—are not more than $4 a dozen, a decisive drop from their $5 and $6 prices of other years.

The smallest chrysanthemums, or "button mums," sell in large bunches for $1 or less. Some newer varieties of chrysanthemums have flattened yellow centers and extraordinary colorings, such as shaded rose and amber, white and orchid, and flame and brown.

If roses are favored for the Thanksgiving table rather than chrysanthemums, the centerpiece need cost but little. For $1 a dozen there are many roses to choose from, including the Rosalind, Talisman and Johanna Hill roses so much favored. A handsome red rose known as the Premier, the medium-length stem, is also $1 a dozen. The roses are offered in the same big central market where chrysanthemums sell so cheaply.

Topping the fruit bowl where the choicest of fruits are to be served will be the Belgian hot house grapes. These grapes are startlingly large and perfect, one bunch alone weighing about 1 pound. In one fancy fruit and vegetable stand these imported grapes are selling for 75 cents a pound.

Bright little kumquats are newcomers, too, in the fruit market, and are attractive additions to the holiday fruit bowl. They sell for 20 cents a quart.

Fancy apples from the Pacific Coast selling 4 pounds for 25 cents are lower priced than is usual in November. At 5 cents a pound one can buy large, perfect Jonathan apples.

The lowest priced mince meat noticed on the local market was a one-pound jar in a chain store for 20 cents, or a two-pound jar for 39 cents. A higher grade mince meat, said to contain much rum and sherry, is in a two-pound jar for 59 cents. A standard grade of canned pumpkin costs only 10 cents. The 10-cent canned pumpkin is sufficient for two pies.

Cranberry juice in pint bottles for serving as cocktails or using in combination with other fruit juices is 25 cents. It is sweetened and has its natural bright red, clear color, with no artificial coloring added. An excellent cranberry sauce sells two cans for 29 cents, with interesting printed recipes for using the sauce tucked under the cans' label. The grocer who sells this sauce is explaining to the housewives a method of opening the can so that the firm, jellied sauce will slip out in perfect shape.

If the Thanksgiving breakfast is to include waffles or hot cakes, the fresh, homemade sausage selling in one high-class local meat stand for but 20 cents a pound is an interesting added suggestion for the morning meal. At the same counter old-fashioned corn meal mush, made of yellow meal, is 30 cents for a three-pound can.

Low-priced vegetables for the Thanksgiving dinner are legion. Outstanding values the Meanderer found were Brussels sprouts, 2 quarts for 25 cents; yellow turnips, 3 pounds, 25 cents; savoy cabbage, 10 cents a pound; mustard greens, kale, escarole, watercress and spinach in profusion; choice, mealy Cuban potatoes, 4 pounds for 25 cents; sweet potatoes, 65 cents a bushel, in some markets, and but 30 cents a bushel, if one's desire for sweet potatoes is strong enough to take him to Washington's wharf market; choice white celery, 10 cents a bunch, or 35 cents for six bunches in the wholesale district if celery is that popular in the family, and whole grain corn, canned, for 15 centsea can.

Telephone inquiries about items in the above Thanksgiving marketing column to The Washington Post, National 4645, Extension 52, for worthwhile help in planning your holiday dinner.

An important dress for a busy woman! Twice as clever as it looks, because with the sheer jacket it's a day frock, and without it the sheer lace top with its chartreuse and coral sash makes an informal evening gown. In black, $25

A CUNNING dress for tiny maids with a big boy collar just like older sister is wearing.

To make it very practical, of course, it has matching bloomers to complete it.

The fullness of the dress falls from a brief shoulder yoke giving lots of leg space to romp about.

It's as cute as can be as sketched in French blue linen with white linen trim.

Spotted wool challis—red with tiny blue spots and white pique collar and trim is fetching.

Style No. 3196 is designed for sizes 2, 4 and 6 years.

Culbertson on Bridge

MR. L. M. WOOD, of Toronto, Canada, is known to his intimates as the Canadian Jacoby, according to Mr. John W. Jacobson, of that city. Mr. Wood has long since mastered the art of bewildering his partner, and, striving for new worlds to conquer, has at last realized the dream of all psychic bidders. He had induced the opposition to play the contract in his strongest suit. This is the story of Mr. Wood's achievement, the success of which, however, he modestly attributes to his opponent in the North on the hand below:

East—Dealer.

The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East	South	West	North
1♣ (1)	1♡	Pass	2♣ (2)
2◇ (3)	Pass	Pass	3◇ (4)
4◇	Pass	Pass	5♣ (5)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Thus early, Mr. Wood attempts to set up a bidding defense against his vulnerable opponents.

2—A Small Slam appears absolutely certain to North. His partner's vulnerable Overcall must be based on honor strength in hearts, and possibly the King of spades as well. If so, there is a Grand Slam in the hand.

3—Mr. Wood shows his second strongest suit.

4—Showing no losers in another adversely bid suit.

5—Unfortunately, Mr. Maloney overlooks the fact that he failed at any time to show support for his partner's suit, and Mr. McDonald, knowing of Mr. Wood's psychic proclivities, decides that Mr. Maloney has a very fine club suit.

In the play of the hand, it will be noted that Mr. Maloney ran into a very unfortunate division of the adversely held trumps and succeeded in making only four tricks. Mr. Wood, without a smile, marked up 1,400 points above the line amidst the execrations and mutual recriminations of his victims.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A RECENT front page article in one of the leading theatrical and radio publications, asserting that radio dramatizations of crime and criminal cases have a bad effect on children listening in at the time, is repudiated in a statement by the sponsors of the Lucky Strike programs which now dramatize famous Federal criminal cases based on records in the files of the Department of Justice every Tuesday evening at 10 o'clock over a nation-wide National Broadcasting Co. network.

"In presenting this program," they said, "we feel that, instead of undermining the moral standards of American youth, as we have been charged, we are publicizing the efficiency and effectiveness of the modern police system and crime detection methods and the futility of trying to escape retribution for criminal deeds.

"Years ago parents assumed a similar stand, and with some justification, on the matter of dime novels that tended to glorify the ruthless train robber and bandit, although it is doubtful whether or not these books ever were responsible for modern Dead-Eye Dicks or Jesse James.

"It is purely a matter of treatment. Instead of glorifying any criminal or the criminal element, we have depicted his helplessness in attempting to escape that which completely encircles him. In every single dramatization we have emphasized the fact that the criminal can't win; that retribution is inevitable, and that the minions of the law, through the use of modern science and crime detection methods, are prepared to combat effectively the law-breaker at all times. This has been brought home the more strongly through dramatizations of actual cases from the files of both the New York Police Department in the past, and of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice in Washington, D. C., which are now being presented."

THE roar of Niagara Falls, which was broadcast twice last year, will again be heard as a feature of a program over WABC, New York, and several stations affiliated with the C. B. S. at 9:30 p. m. next Saturday. The broadcast will be handled by Station WKBW, Buffalo.

Lily Matison, young concert violinist, who has been heard in numerous recitals on the West Coast, and Philip Frank, youthful violin virtuoso and pupil of Leopold Auer, will be soloists featured with the Curtis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Fritz Reiner, in an all-French program to be broadcast over WJSV from 4:15 to 5 p. m. today.

Miss Matison will play the solo portions of the first movement, allegro non troppo, from Lalo's "Symphony Espagnole." Selections by the orchestra, with Reiner conducting, will be Berlioz's "Roman Carnival" overture, the tone-poem, "Eros and Psyche," by Cesar Franck, and Saint-Saens' "Bacchanale."

Philip Frank, the 1929 winner of the violin contest conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs, will play Saint-Saens' sardonic symphonic poem, "Danse Macabre."

RADIO JOE will have as his guest of honor Joseph P. Tumulty during the regular half-hour program, beginning at 7:30 p. m., which is the final in a series of four entertainments in behalf of the Community Chest. Bob Hall, rhymester, appearing currently on the stage at Loew's Fox Theater, will head the list of entertainers.

Beginning at 8 o'clock, Radio Joe will be master of ceremonies in a program which Will Osborne and his orchestra, also playing Loew's Fox this week, will dedicate to the Community Chest.

THE arrival of President-elect Roosevelt in Union Station at 3:10 o'clock this afternoon will be broadcast over Station WRC.

The Saturday evening concerts of the Philadelphia Orchestra, under the direction of Leopold Stokowski, will be heard over the radio for the fourth consecutive year under the sponsorship of the manufacturers of Philco radios, beginning next Saturday. Felix Salmond, English cellist, and Mme. Lea Luboshutz, Russian violinist, will be featured soloists in the opening broadcast.

Other dates will be December 17, January 7, March 18 and April 1, from 8:15 to 10 p. m. The regular Friday afternoon Philadelphia Orchestra concerts will be omitted in the weeks the evening programs are broadcast, as the programs of both days are identical.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago Howard Thurston was making a bid to be the world's greatest magician, and one of his appearances took him to Richmond, Va.

During his act it was necessary to call upon some small boy in the audience to volunteer to hold the hat into which he broke the eggs. A curly headed youngster answered his request, dashing up the stage eagerly.

Part of Thurston's chatter was to make the boy seem awkward, and he suddenly found that although it brought laughs from the audience, it didn't go with the boy. As a result of this the newly found assistant walked off the stage, leaving the magician "holding the hat," in this case.

That boy, Freeman F. Gosden, better known as "Amos" of "Amos 'n' Andy," is now one of Thurston's stanchest admirers.

California Melodies, long a Saturday night feature of the air waves, will now be heard from Los Angeles every Tuesday (WJSV, 9:30 o'clock). Sam Coslow, song writer and vocalist, composer of "Just One More Chance," "Was It a Dream" and other hits, will be the guest performer.

Marguerite Cromwell, soprano soloist with Rudolf Schram's Wilkins Coffee Orchestra, will sing "And Still I Care," "Diane" and "A Love Nest" tonight (WRC, 6:30 o'clock).

The St. Cecilia Club, famous choral organization of 125 women's voices, will honor their namesake, the patron saint of music, in a special program (WJZ network, 6 o'clock today). Victor Harris, founder and conductor of the 26-year-old organization, will direct the group.

The program will open with "Invocation to St. Cecilia," written by Mr. Harris. Other selections will be "When the Land Was White With Moonlight" (Nevin); "Moon Marketing" (Weaver); "Serenade" (Strauss); "Der Schmied" (Brahms); "Corals" (Treharne); "Go Down to Kew" (Wendt), and a medley of "Songs of the Sunny South," prepared by Mr. Harris.

IT happened in Connecticut, according to Richard Gordon, "Sherlock Holmes" on the air. The Bridgeport police sent out to every peace officer in the State four photographs showing a wanted criminal in four different poses. They were dumfounded a few days later to receive this wire from a small town chief: "Picked up today three of the desperadoes wanted. Am hot on the trail of the fourth."

U. S. PARLEY STUDIES AGRICULTURE'S LOAD

Chamber of Commerce Aim Is to Restore Equitable Ratio of Prices.

Chicago, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Holding present burdens on agriculture were intolerable and that reductions in farm prices within the last three years totaled eight billions of dollars, representatives of big business and agriculture concluded a one day round table conference tonight by advocating development of a plan to "reestablish an equitable price ratio between farm and industrial prices."

The conference included representatives of the grain trade, manufacturing, milling, financial, transportation, and agricultural interests. A committee is to be appointed to consider plans to extricate the American farmer from his plight. The committee will report its findings to the United States Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the meeting here.

A resolution embracing the conference conclusions was adopted. It said the heavy decreases in farm prices had nearly eliminated the farmers' purchasing power and because of that, factories were closed, unemployment increased and business disorganized generally.

"We recognize that the change in the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation, together with the forces growing out of the World War, has placed an ever-increasing burden on agriculture," the resolution said. "Agriculture has found it particularly difficult to adapt itself to this postwar situation because it has been unable to use effectively such methods of control as the tariff and the corporate form of organization. With farm products' prices at present levels, the burden of agricultural taxes, interest charges and freight rates is intolerable. Farm products today will buy only one-half their normal amount of consumer goods."

"Inasmuch as it will be a slow process to negotiate reciprocal tariff agreements and make governmental debt adjustments in such a way as immediately to increase exports to a material extent," the resolution said, "we advocate the immediate development of a plan which will establish a domestic price level for basic farm products which is far enough above the world level to reestablish an equitable price ratio between farm and industrial prices."

The resolution called upon all groups to cooperate in efforts to restore the purchasing power of the farmer.

THOUSANDS THRONG TO OPERA OPENING

self as first doge of Genoa, sung to a $15,000 gate.

Tonight's Metropolitan opened with depression rates, a $1 cut in the orchestra stalls to a flat $7 price, including tax. The traditional scene of splendor and mirror of fashion saw many paste pendants framing worried faces, many 1929 mink coats and ermines clasped across evening gowns of yesteryear.

But in the upper balcony, hot, humid and scented with perfumes of the orchestra, there under the pink, blue and chubby frescoed Cupids that frolic on the golden dome, the folk who learned their Verdi in Napoli and Venezia, in Siracusa and Milano, gathered tonight with the same excitement. There were barbers and peanut men, jobless violinists and cordial shop keepers, lamp shade makers and subway guards, their eager eyes glued to opera glasses, their tense lips framing the music of the song.

Eight fifteen p. m., and the orchestra violins trembled to the overture, the great darkened house was silent; one could hardly see the empty boxes there in the golden horseshoe.

Slowly the curtain rises, revealing the huge cavern of the stage, dimlit with a sepulchral blue light—a night in Genoa in the fourteenth century, revealing the facade of a great cathedral, two garish figures of men in doublet and hose, singing on the cathedral steps.

They are Paolo, the program will tell you, "gold spinner of Genoa," and "Pietro, Genoese commoner." They conspire together here, in bass and tenor, to place upon the throne of their city the glamorous figure of Simon Boccanegra, "Corsair in the service of the Genoese republic," who is none other than Lawrence Tibbett. His great barytone voice throbbed out his love for Maria, daughter of a proud nobleman who scorned and thwarted his claim.

But opera is opera, even in the Metropolitan, and those unschooled found a more exciting picture at the doorway on Thirty-ninth street, where, at this moment, proud doges of the seaport of Manhattan were arriving. They came by limousine and town car, properly late, to meet the star shells of newspaper photographers' flashlights.

Beyond the glass partition there was another scene where the public, allowed admission as far as the ticket gate, unblushingly pressed spatulated noses against the glass wall to see the celebrities. There was an earnest girl in a leopard-skin coat. There were any number of swarthy young men, possibly musicians, and possibly, the police feared, cat burglars picking out the jewels they plan to steal next week.

Washington Post Offers Prize for Faith Slogan

Wanted—Something new, something different as a slogan for Americans in their battle against depressing conditions in 1933.

Believing the future of America is undimmed, The Washington Post and RKO-Keith's Theater is sponsoring a slogan or creed contest, in connection with the opening today of the photoplay, "The Conquerors," at RKO-Keith's Theater. In this picture a couple face all the problems experienced by householders today, and after 60 years, they find that America is a fine place in which to live.

"You Can't Stop America" is one of the slogans being used in advertising the picture. A similar slogan or creed, one all Americans can follow, is sought in this contest, which is open to all, young and old, school children and grandparents alike. The only persons barred are employes of RKO-Keith's and The Washington Post and their families.

Richard Dix and Ann Harding are the stars of the picture and a brief idea of the theme may be obtained from this paragraph of description used by the producers of the film:

"Down the pathway of the years they went, hand in hand as lovers... their eyes beholding the vision of a dauntless nation as their hearts helped mold it. Wars!...Panics!...Heartaches!...Heartbreaks!...such were the fire that forged the steel for their swords and their plows...for they came with conquerers' blood in their veins and banners of courage flying!"

As prizes in this slogan-creed contest, The Post and RKO-Keith's offer $25 for the best slogan or creed; $15 for the second best, and $10 for the third. In addition, ten other prizes will be given. They will be pairs of tickets at RKO-Keith's.

Contestants have until Sunday midnight to file their slogans or creeds. The Post will carry stories daily until Friday giving hints on how to write slogans and creeds. After you have seen the picture or read the stories, send in your slogan or creed, addressed to The Conquerers Editor, in care of The Washington Post.

Winners of the contest will be announced in The Post the morning of Tuesday, November 29.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

TWO years ago today—by date rather than day of the week—the Earle Theater inaugurated an innovation in the presentation of vaudeville bills in local picture houses. It was on November 22, 1930, which happened to fall on a Saturday, then the universal opening day of new bills in the motion picture theaters, that Maxine Doyle made her bow to Washington as mistress of ceremonies on Thirteenth street.

Maxine Doyle

The feature picture for the week was Marilyn Miller's "Sunny," in which she was supported by Joe Donahue, who also appeared on the Earle stage, in person, as a special added attraction. The headliner of the stage portion of the program was Belle Baker, who took the youthful Miss Doyle figuratively under her wing and did much to smooth out the rough spots of a first week in a new undertaking.

From the outset, Miss Doyle's graceful and ingenuous announcements filled a long-felt want as a means of indentifying otherwise unprogrammed acts and her ingratiating "Tha-a-ank yo-o-ou" became a sort of popular trade-mark of an increasingly popular young woman.

It is two years of conscientious and honorable service that Maxine Doyle has put in at the Earle. Never by action, word or implication has she ever brought the slightest suggestion of reproach to her associates on the stage, the theater or herself. She has introduced a long list of the foremost artists of the legitimate, operatic, concert and vaudeville stages, as well as a considerable procession of the foremost luminaries of the screen. In doing so, she has formed many fast friendships, both before and behind the footlights, and has been a distinct asset to the interests by which she has been employed.

A host of friends today will extend their heartiest congratulations to an unspoiled and charming girl upon the completion of two solid years of mistressing ceremonies upon a local stage—a record that has never been equaled by any other m. c. in the history of Washington theatricals.

And since we have gone that far, it seems an opportune time to run down a few of the persistent rumors that have grouped themselves about the topic of vaudeville these past few weeks.

Prominent among them has been the insistent subterranean rumbling of vast announcements to be made by the Radio-Keith-Orpheum people once their International Music Hall is officially thrown open in Rockefeller Center, New York, next month. This has been looked upon in many informed quarters as the event needed to touch off the much-celebrated renaissance of big-time vaudeville, destined to make the heyday of the gradually obliterated Palace Theater, on Broadway, look like the merest medicine show down on the Court House Square in comparison!

As nearly as can be definitely determined, the establishment of the International Music Hall will be rather a glorification of Roxy than of vaudeville, in its accepted sense, and will have no direct effect one way or the other on the present policy of the RKO-Keith Theater in this city. RKO-Keith's never managed to get out of the red as a picture house until it abandoned vaudeville, and the chances are that it will not now revert to a house policy that so habitually kept it in a financial bog.

The only revision of present vaudeville policy contemplated at Loew's Fox, I am informed by Carter Barron, city manager of the Loew interests in the National Capital, will have to do with a possible improvement in the manner of announcing acts to the audiences. The projection of the names of acts upon the stage drapes is satisfactory only to those seated directly in front of the curtains in the middle of the house. This difficulty, however, has been partially removed by the adoption of a 16-page printed program which covers all three of the Loew houses in the Capital—Loew's Fox, Palace and Columbia.

Nevertheless, a little improvement in the individual announcement of acts, as they appear, wouldn't hurt!

And all this, of course, brings us back to the Earle and Miss Doyle. There has been no evading the recently recurrent rumor that her term of service at the Earle is drawing toward its close.

This, I hasten to add, is wholly without confirmation by the Warner executives in Washington, the theater or Miss Doyle.

Notwithstanding this conspicuous lack of authenticity, the reports have persisted ever since the recent week in New York when the presence on the Earle stage of Fred Bradna's Circus temporarily suspended the necessity of her own presence there. With customary pessimism, born no doubt of the depression, many insist upon interpreting this as a job-hunting expedition.

Then there have been other Doyle rumors, involving schools of expression and dramatic art, radio auditions and whatnot, all predicated upon a vague assumption that the days of Maxine Doyle on Thirteenth street are numbered.

The most significant commentary upon all this, perhaps, is the fact that her second anniversary is being allowed to pass without such official recognition as her first was accorded a year ago, when a considerable stir was made over the occasion, and Maxine was permitted to do a number—"Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries," I think it was—as a special surprise feature of an especially ballyhooed anniversary bill.

This year, silence may be golden, or it may be ominous. Time has a way of telling.

Reverting momentarily to the good Doctor Barron, of Loew's, Inc., he leaves the Capital tonight, or early tomorrow morning, to motor, in as straight a line and at as high a speed as highway engineering and State statutes will permit, to Atlanta, Ga., to enjoy his Thanksgiving turkey with Mrs. Barron, who preceded him South, and the home folks. Mr. Barron will be absent from his official duties for about a week. When he returns, he will be accompanied by Mrs. Barron, completely restored to health after a long and severe illness.

Nice notes, and thoughtful, too. I mean the ones that came in yesterday's mail from Paul Keast, of the "Show Boat" company; Dick Leibert, newly appointed organist at Radio City, and Marge La Marr Lampkin, wife of Phil Lampkin, fork-handed baton swisher at Loew's Fox, speeding West Coastward on a Santa Fe train somewhere 'way out there in those wide open spaces. And before that, the one from "Chic" Barron.

A former Washington favorite returns to view tomorrow night, when the Silver Slipper Supper Club turns a midseason corner under new motive power.

Scott Kolk, whom a greater number of Washingtonians who get about will probably remember as Walter, will be the bright particular star of the first divertissement offered at the smart dining rendezvous, now under the same management as the Paramount Grill and other prominent Broadway resorts of a kindred nature.

Mr. Kolk, who was formerly a young bandsman in town, whose ebullience was infectious, also, it seems to me, was a member of the orchestral group Meyer Davis once sent from the Capital to the Lido in Venice. More recently he has created a bit of a commotion from time to time on the stage and in pictures.

The new Silver Slipper management, by the way, plans all sorts of special "nights"—"Debutantes'," "Theatrical" and the like—and promises a distinguished group of stage, screen, vaudeville, night club and other entertainers in conjunction with floor shows that will consist regularly of at least seven or eight acts.

This first one, they say, is a Kolker!

RKO-Keith's new bill opens today; the Rialto's, tomorrow midnight; the Metropolitan's, Thursday; all the rest, Friday.

GAYETY

"EMPIRE GIRLS." Sam Micals's Empire Burlesque production, featuring Sam Micals, Minor Reed, Virginia Muzzio, Robert Sandberg, Lou Powers and Ruth Bradley. Ann Nichols and Edna Dee, guest stars. Reviewed by George H. Barrows.

Sam Micals easily proves his right to rank among the premier comedians of the burlesque stage in "Empire Girls," current at the Ninth Street Mecca of those who appreciate beauty unadorned. Lou Powers, however, runs him a close race for the applause and laughter, while Robert Sandberg and Minor Reed serve as excellent foils for an unusual number of comedy bits.

"Empire Girls" is one of the fastest-moving shows seen this season and is outstanding for the diversity of its scenes and for a chorus that is both better trained and more eye-pleasing than usual.

The dance team of "Joe and Ernestine" present some splendid numbers and are particularly pleasing in a Dutch number against a scenic background of the dikes and windmills of the land of the Zuyder Zee.

The show is conspicuous for its lack of a bedroom scene, but the old reliable courtroom is shown and gives Sam Micals, as the Judge, an opportunity to indulge in some slap-stick pranks that never fail to gain an audience's approval.

While many of the scenes were lacking in punch, the personality of the performer was in every instance sufficient to carry the show. Virginia Muzzio proved the possessor of an excellent voice in several numbers and teamed up admirably with Lou Powers in a comedy duet.

To your reviewer, the feminine star, Snookie Woods, together with the guest stars, Ann Nichols and Edna Dee, lacked individuality but, nevertheless, were required to answer repeated encores of their specialty numbers.

All in all, Sam Micals and his "Empire Girls" present a show that is considerably above the average.

COAL REVIEW IS SET BY SUPREME COURT

137 Appalachian Producers Appeal in U. S. Ruling on Antitrust Act.

(Associated Press.)

The appeal of thirteen coal producers in Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky, members of the Appalachian Coals, Inc., from the decision of a three-judge Federal court that activities of the corporation would violate the Sherman antitrust act, will be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

Hard hit by the depression, producers of bituminous coal in the States formed a selling agency. They contended it was not their purpose to restrain trade, but to limit production. The trial court, however, held that the plan necessarily limited competition between members of the organization.

The coal producers had contended that some such organization was necessary to the preservation of the bituminous coal industry. The lower court said it sympathized with the plight of those in the industry, but that it was required to enforce laws on the statute books and that the activities outlined by Appalachian Coals would violate antitrust laws.

The action of the court in taking the case up for review does not necessarily mean that the ruling of the three-judge court will be set aside. The verdict may be upheld, but it does indicate there were questions presented in the appeal which the court thought worthy of further study.

PRIEST DENOUNCES TIDE OF PAGANISM

Father Smith Says Religion Best Compass for Man to Use in Life.

Need for a new interpretation of the meaning of worship in a world that is fast being drawn from the stronghold of religion by a tide of paganism was stressed last night by the Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P., of the Dominican House of Studies, at the opening of the weekly Catholic information forum at St. Gabriel's Church.

Addressing a large congregation of both Catholics and Protestants, Father Smith described worship as the debt mankind owes to God. This debt, he showed, can not be paid spasmodically, as the mood strikes men and women, but must come in the form of a constant wave.

"The best equipped to meet misfortune and to survive trials is the man in whose soul religion is the more firmly planted," Father Smith declared. "Religion is the one influence that enables him to evaluate the circumstances of life correctly."

The objects of the Catholic information forum were explained by the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore and pastor of the church, in a greeting to the congregation.

The forum is being conducted under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, in accordance with the expressed wish of Pope Pius for a concerted movement for the advancement of religion and the exposition of the doctrines and practices of the Catholic Church.

By NELSON B. BELL.

The Messrs. Wittgenstein and Gibney, having become fascinated by their joint contemplation of what bewilderment might be produced in the feminine mind by an attempted blending of artistic temperament, the pursuit of an operatic career and a passion for motherhood, sat down and dashed off this mildly perplexing little satire for Miss Barrymore. Mildly perplexing because the play establishes no early premise, leaves its purpose largely conjectural up to as late as the end of the second act and does not explode its amusing point until the final curtain is but a matter of moments.

Out of this slightly indeterminate progression of events, one gathers that the Messrs. Wittgenstein and Gibney had it in mind to poke a deal of fun at the debatable moral code popularly attributed to great artists whose souls are warmed by the fires of genius and are impervious to the chill inhibitions of social convention, as well as at that admirable sisterhood that deems a career and motherhood not only possible, but positively compatible.

To this end, they have created for Miss Barrymore's genial uses a character that can be no man's mistress but any man's wife. A love affair to her is an expensive and well-rounded episode, involving in each case a pair of divorces, a remarriage and the gathering under her maternal wing of all of her own children, all of her stepchildren and all of any other broods that may have accrued to either or any of the contracting or dissolving parties in any or all of their previous matings!

By the middle of the last act, Rosita Morales has been driven to a state of nervous jitters in which she is willing to surrender all three of the impetuous temperaments to which she has been married, intrust her future to the restful and tender solicitude of the American banker, who has contrived to keep her accounts straight all these years, and gamble with fate that at some time she will find leisure enough to catalogue all of her children and learn to recognize at least a few of them by sight!

It would seem that here are the ingredients for a gay and diverting evening in the theater. And here, in truth, they are, but so new is the piece, so insecure in their parts, as yet, are Miss Barrymore and her associates and so uncertain the temper and the tempo of the three acts that it is impossible to estimate at this moment to what valuable account they may at some future time be put.

Last night's was a frankly ragged and unready performance, in which incident that should spring joyously along merely stumbled and speeches that should leap spontaneously from the lips of players immersed in a pungent burlesque either came haltingly or not at all. It is safe to say, in the light of past observation of other of Miss Barrymore's comedies, that when the star and her obviously capable supporting cast have grown into their roles, "Encore" will scarcely be recognizable as the same play that was viewed last night. It is also highly probable that even then it will scarcely be recognized as one of its star's major achievements.

It was, however, a radiant and beautiful Ethel Barrymore who made her first entrance last evening, in a filmy pink gown and sun hat of 1910, to the prolonged and tumultuous applause of the season's most brilliant and stiffly starched audience. It was a return to the boards upon which many of her most substantial successes have been scored of the charming and graciously beautiful actress of "Mid-Channel," "The Lady of the Camellias," "Romeo and Juliet," "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," and last season's splendid revival of "The School for Scandal."

There will be charm, lightness, piquancy and humor in Miss Barrymore's Rosita Morales when the early experimental days of the new comedy once are passed.

Surrounding her are players amply equipped to realize to the fullest such merits as the authors have written into their little charade. Alfred A. Hesse, Rosita's elderly first, model husband; Sebastian Braggiotti, her young and tempestuous artist second; Siegfried Rumann, her egotistical piano-composer third, and Frank Conroy, the comparatively background character, waiting to become No. 4, all play with assurance, a nice sense of contrast and considerable comic effect. Josephine Hull, as the briefly met Frau Hochstein Landenschlager, is an emphatic asset to the spirited movement of the few scenes in which she appears.

Among those in minor parts, Georgie Drew Mendum, Misha Ferenzo, Iris Whitney and Margaret Linck contribute in greatest measure to a play that is at present conspicuously uneven in texture and unsteady in movement. Its future rating as an adequate vehicle for so distinguished an actress as Miss Ethel Barrymore is a matter purely of conjecture, if not grave doubt.

Another Theater For Ninth Street

Application Is Filed for Permit to Construct the Roosevelt.

Another motion picture theater for the Ninth street business section was revealed by the filing yesterday with the Office of District Building Inspector Oehmann of an application for a permit to remodel a five-story, brick building at 508 Ninth street northwest, into a motion picture theater with a seating capacity of 494.

The application was filed by Marcus Notes, who with William Notes, operates the Criterion, Little and Empress theaters, and listed D. E. Nichols as the builder and B. E. Freund, the architect. The building, a fireproof structure, was the former cigar factory of Henry Offterdinger. The first and second stories will be transformed into a theater, the remainder of the building being used for storage purposes.

The plans filed with the application show a lower floor with two side sections of 76 seats and a central one of 144. The seating capacity of the balcony is 198. The estimated cost of the work is given as $14,500. The new theater will be known as The Roosevelt, it has been reported, and will open March 1.

H. W. York, Former D. C. Naval Officer, Dies

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Herbert Waldo York, consulting engineer and retired commander in the New York State naval militia, died in his Park avenue apartment today following upon an illness of several months. York was born 68 years ago in Washington, D. C., a descendant of revolutionary officers.

He went to sea as a youth on the ice breaker Bear, serving as fireman, oiler and machinist. He then was appointed assistant to the consulting engineer in the United States revenue marine service, a post he held from 1882 to 1885. In 1888 he became assistant engineer in the same service.

TUESDAY NOVEMBER 22, 1932 SPORTS

G. W. WARNED OF OKLAHOMA'S VERSATILE BACKS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

JACK SHARKEY as champion is as independable as when he was challenger. When the Boston sailorman was fighting his way up to the world heavyweight title he could always be relied upon to do the unexpected, losing the fights he figured to win, and winning fights he figured to lose, including his dethronement of Max Schmeling.

As a contender, Sharkey haunted the headlines, breaking into print with the greatest show of braggadocio since Kaiser Bill discovered Deutschland couldn't conquer the world. His knockout by Dempsey and his loss to Schmeling on a foul didn't dim his vocal chords in any degree and between his two fights with Schmeling he was the same garrulous gob of his rookie days in the ring.

And now the most loquacious of all the fighters, excepting the immortal John L. Sullivan, continues to do the unexpected. Since his conquest of the title, Sharkey has become the wall flower of the prize ring. No more blatant blasts, no more mouthings by the ring's most famous member of the Three-Eye League, "I-I-I—." Not that the Sharkey outbursts are missed. It's just the unexpected again.

Champion May Be Sidetracked.

The newsprints of the last few days have carried the tip-off on Sharkey as champion. Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, the contender, threatens to boycott Sharkey and stage the next big fight with Max Baer. No other champion has thus been shoved into the background. Every other champion could command the opposition he liked. But not Sharkey, apparently.

The stench of the last Sharkey-Schmeling decision is still familiar to many who were at the ringside. Sharkey might have won the title, but he didn't win the fight. If he had won it, conclusively, Jacobs, the manager of the contender, would not be able to wean Baer away from a shot at the title and match him with Schmeling.

Baer might reason, logically, that there is as much prestige to be gained by fighting Schmeling as Sharkey. A victory over Schmeling certainly would earn him a shot at Sharkey and a defeat by Schmeling might not interfere with a Sharkey battle if the champion continues to sidestep the German, which he appears to be doing.

Baer in Choice Spot.

Baer is in the choicest spot among the three top-ranking heavyweights which comprise himself, Schmeling and Sharkey. The Coast sensation can cast his lot with either and draw a rich gate. Should he choose to meet Schmeling, Sharkey would be forced to the sidelines while Baer and the German collect the big purses, a strange state of affairs for a champion.

The hitch to a third Sharkey-Schmeling fight is the German's cut of the gate. Schmeling forced Sharkey to fight for a mere 12½ per cent when the Bostonian was seeking the German's title and Sharkey is attempting to enforce the same conditions against Schmeling in any future meeting.

But with Schmeling still of the opinion, and rightly, that he was robbed of the decision when his title passed to Sharkey, he is showing no disposition to fight for the 12½ per cent that Sharkey received in that meeting. And with Baer leaning toward a Schmeling bout, Sharkey must rest on his laurels and the interest on the principal.

ELIOT WINS SOCCER TITLE.

Clinton's two goals, both made in the final period of a furiously contested game, enabled the Eliot Junior High School Soccer Team to down Macfarland, 2 to 0, for the Junior High School title. The game, played on the Monument Grounds, was hard fought from start to finish, but Eliot outplayed its rival by a scant margin.

Owen Phelps Wins Over Strickler

District Boy Is Badly Battered in Feature at Portner's.

Davis, Lowry, Koles, Irving Score in Other Bouts.

By DAVE HERMAN.

HIS lip split open, his face smeared with blood and both eyes puffed up, Billy Strickler stumbled to his corner last night at Portner's Arena in Alexandria at the end of the tenth round of the feature battle with Owen Phelps, after taking one of the worst lickings of his pugilistic career.

The Terminal Bulldog refused to surrender in the face of a terrific shelling from a rarin', tearing cowboy from Arizona. Realizing the seriousness of his wound, his seconds pleaded with Strickler not to continue after the eighth, but the old Bulldog turned deaf ears to their appeals.

After getting off to a slow start, Phelps seemed to find himself in the seventh, and battered Strickler so savagely that the Bulldog trotted back to his corner groggy.

Strickler Punished in Late Rounds.

In the eighth, the Arizonan kept up the slaughter, butchering Strickler with rights and lefts that in no way helped to improve his looks. His lip, cut in the eighth, began to swell and the claret flowed freely. He could not hop around as sprightly as in the early rounds, especially in the fourth and fifth, when he flashed his best punching. A knockout was imminent when he went out for the ninth. The Bulldog was practically out, and only his bulldog courage kept him on his feet. The tenth saw Phelps buzzing away with stinging blows that merely added insult to injury.

It was Phelps' second victory of the season over Strickler.

Tenth Victory in Row For Davis.

Roddy Davis, the Capital Limited, gave an exhibition of genuine body and face punching in routing Jimmy Tramberia, 131-pounder, of Baltimore, in the eight-round semiwindup. Davis, winning the decision unanimously, captured seven rounds, shooting enough punches to blow up a ship. Tramberia was no match for Davis, who scored his tenth consecutive victory.

Johnny Koles, of Baltimore, won the opening four-round preliminary from Jesse Belt in a slugging battle. Bob Lowry registered a sensational triumph over Jake Shearers, of Baltimore, former amateur star, in a four, while Henry (Popeye) Irving scored a technical knockout over Whitey Saylor, of Birmingham, Ala., in the fourth after knocking him down for counts four times in the final round.

New Contest Is Offered Grid Fans

BECAUSE of the insistence of many District football fans, The Post begins its sixth football contest today, with the customary 12 teams listed for the fans to work on. Last week's contest, won by Marion Carleton, developed the most intense competition of the entire series of popular contests, and the current contest should maintain that average.

Because many of the games listed below are to be played on Thanksgiving Day, it will be necessary to close the contest on Wednesday night. That leaves you only today and tomorrow to figure out the probable outcomes of the games. All clippings mailed before tomorrow midnight are eligible.

The same old rules apply. Simply jot down the scores by which you think your favorite colleges will win. Don't forget to put down your scores, for only these will be considered. Mail your clippings to the Football Contest Editor of The Post.

Four box seats to the Georgetown-Carnegie game, to be played at Griffith Stadium on December 3, will go to the winner of the current contest. Two grand stand seats are the reward for taking second place, and one grand stand seat the reward for taking third place.

Don't forget that this is a short and snappy contest. All over tomorrow night at midnight.

Rose Bowl Choice Hinges On Big Eastern Contests

Colgate, Brown and Pitt Closely Watched; All-American Selectors to Put Stars Under Microscope; Vidal Gains Favor.

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The half-dozen standout college football games on this week's climax slate, most of them on the Eastern front, in addition to their championship angles, will likely decide the recipient of the much-coveted invitation to the Rose Bowl classic and help settle three or four much-mooted places in the mythical all-American line-up for 1932.

Despite an unexpected intimation that Michigan, Big Ten champion, might be in a receptive mood to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of its conquest over Stanford at Pasadena, Calif., in 1902, the chances are the Rose Bowl nomination will go to the winner of the Brown-Colgate game or to Pittsburgh, if the Panthers overthrow Stanford's Indians Saturday by a decisive margin.

Brown and Colgate, the East's only remaining united and unbeaten arrays, both have been sounded out on the subject of making the long trip to the coast, depending on the outcome of their Eastern title scrap Thanksgiving morning. Naturally, they have declined to jinx themselves by engaging in any preliminary discussion. The same thing goes for Pittsburgh, which is anxious for another crack at Southern California, if it can be arranged.

S. California Faces Huskies.

Meanwhile Southern California must dispose of Washington's huskies, at Seattle, to clinch their place as the West Coast's selection for the New Year's Day classic, besides which the Trojans have Notre Dame to worry about on December 10 in Los Angeles.

Nothing that happens after this week, however, will have any effect on the big scramble for all-America honors. The experts, if they aren't already groggy from this annual furor, will at least be satisfied to let the results stand on what develops in such climax games as Brown-Colgate and Penn-Cornell on Thanksgiving Day; Notre Dame-Army and Pittsburgh-Stanford on Saturday.

Observers, for example, are anxious to find out whether "Pick" Vidal, Army's back field "ball of fire," can continue against the Ramblers the burning pace he has set ever since

COAST GAME BID HOPE OF MICHIGAN

Team and Students Crave Chance at S. California.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—A championship Michigan football team, the minds of its members on gold footballs that signify the victors of the Western Conference, couldn't stop talking about football today—and their thoughts turned to a possible invitation to meet Southern California on New Year's Day at Pasadena.

Although the Michigan student body and the Michigan football team were heartily in favor of the Rose Bowl game for their undefeated eleven, they were willing to admit the pathway to California is strewn with barriers.

Three Barriers in Way Of Trip.

First of all, they haven't had an invitation to the annual tournament. Secondly, there is a firm rule in the Big Ten forbidding post-season football games. And finally, there is the opposition expressed a month ago by Fielding H. Yost, Michigan's director of athletics, to the idea.

Michigan's faculty members say Western Conference alumni on the Pacific Coast began campaigning to bring Michigan to the Tournament of Roses a month ago. Yost at that time opposed the plan. Although he has not definitely expressed himself, the student body believes he is inclined at the present to favor such a trip, if the conference officials will permit it.

Prof. Ralph W. Aigler, chairman of the board of control of athletics and faculty representative in the Western Conference, is believed by the student body to favor the California trip if an invitation is extended. Coach Harry Kipke and members of his team are highly favorable.

Michigan Would Ask Waiver of Rule.

The next meeting of the faculty committee, athletic officials here say, probably will be in Chicago on December 3. If the tournament committee should extend an invitation to Michigan before that time, the officials believe Michigan may ask the Big Ten's permission to play at Pasadena. There is a strong belief on the Michigan campus that the Wolverines will be invited to play in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

Michigan alumni who favor the trip, should the invitation be extended, remember that 30 years ago Yost took a Wolverine football eleven to the coast and trounced Stanford, 49 to 0, in what is regarded as the inaugural game of the Rose Bowl series. They think Kipke's 1932 champions stand a fair chance to repeat that conquest.

JEBY IN VICTORY.

St. Nicholas Rink, New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Ben "Heeby" Jeby, rawhide middleweight from the East Side of New York, won himself a leg on the middleweight championship tonight by soundly thumping Chick Devlin, Los Angeles Irishman, in a 15-round battle that had the title approval of the New York State Athletic Commission.

HOPKINS - MD. RATED EVEN CONTEST

Rivals Play Thursday at Baltimore in 30th Meeting.

A FOOTBALL rivalry that has raged annually since long before the bursar's office took the game away from the players will write itself a new chapter in Baltimore Thanksgiving when Maryland meets Johns Hopkins for the thirtieth year.

Maryland has won thirteen times since 1892, when Johns Hopkins opened athletic relations with the then obscure agricultural college. Hopkins has won eleven times and five times the two have battled to draws. The last Hopkins win was in 1927, by a score of 14-to-13.

Hopkins Has Good Chance.

Hopkins has its best chance of winning since 1927. The Blue Jays have not had a particularly brilliant season, but neither has Maryland. Johns Hopkins beat Washington College and St. John's, just as did Maryland, although not quite as decisively. The Blue Jays also beat Lehigh, Haverford and Hampden-Sydney, losing to Rutgers and Swarthmore.

Maryland is below normal strength this year, and the prospects of a good and even grid battle are bright. Coach Curly Byrd is still experimenting with the Old Liners, even though the team showed evident improvement against Vandy, Navy and W. and L. Earl Widmyer wil receive quite a bit of the kicking duties Thursday.

Yale Gridmen Elect Lassiter 1933 Captain

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 21 (U.P.). Robert Lassiter, jr., star half back, tonight was elected captain of Yale's 1933 football team.

The 20-year-old back-field ace from Charlotte, N. C., was elected unanimously over two other candidates, Victor Malin, center, and Ed Nichols, guard. Lassiter, standing 5 feet 11 inches and weighing 170 pounds, will be a senior next season.

As a sophomore last year, he understudied the famous Albie Booth at left half, and took over the position himself this season after Booth's graduation. He scored Yale's only touchdown in the Princeton game and has been one of the outstanding players all season.

Cutting Is Second U.S.G.A. Head to Die Before Taking Office.

Chicago, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—For the second time in five years, a presidential nominee of the United States Golf Association has been taken by death before assuming office.

Robert Myron Cutting, of Chicago, who was chosen to lead the golf body's program for 1933, died suddenly last night after a heart attack. It was just two weeks ago that he was nominated for the U. S. G. A. presidency. In 1927 Charles O. Pfeil, of Memphis, received the nomination and died two weeks after notification.

Herbert Jacques, of Boston, nominated for the first vice presidency on the 1933 ticket, tonight was expected to be elevated to the presidency, although a report was current that Herbert H. Ramsay, of New York, would be asked to remain at his post for another year. Melvin Traylor, of Chicago, head of the nomination committee, said a meeting of the committee would be held within two weeks to make a choice.

2 Runners-up Recognized By A. A. U.

Metcalfe, Mrs. Hall Ruled Co-Holders of New Marks.

Finished Only Inches Behind Tolan and Miss Didrikson.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The names of Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University sprint star, and Mrs. Evelyn Hall, of Chicago, today were written into the Amateur Athletic Union's record book alongside the names of Eddie Tolan, Olympic 100-meter champion, and Babe Didrikson, of Texas, winner of the 80-meter hurdles.

Because Metcalfe and Mrs. Hall finished in virtual tie with Tolan and Miss Didrikson as the latter two sped to new American marks in their respective events, the A. A. U., following upon a heated discussion led by Gustavus Kirby and A. C. Gilbert, of New Haven, decided the runners should be recognized as coholders of the records. The finish in each event was so close the watches were unable to detect any difference.

Delegates Do About Face In Hill's Case.

Ralph Hill, of Oregon, who finished less than 6 inches behind Lauri Lehtinen in the Finn's record-shattering 5,000-meter run, was first recognized as coholder of the American record for the distance, but later the delegates did a right-about face and voted to list his performance as an "American native record" and under noteworthy performances.

It was pointed out in the discussion that Metcalfe and Tolan and Didrikson and Hall finished so close together that only the electric camera could tell the winner, while Lehtinen finished several inches in front of Hill, although the watches registered the same time for both runners.

An effort to put the control of amateur hockey under a separate organization, responsible to the A. A. U., failed when the delegates concurred with the adverse report of the committee.

The redistricting of the organization left Hudson County, N. J., as a member of the Metropolitan Association and took Oklahoma away from the Western Association and gave it to the Missouri Valley.

Stanislaus Slater, of Detroit, professional heavyweight boxer, tried to get back his amateur standing, but the delegates quickly voted down his application.

Gelbert's Left Leg Shattered by Shot

Baseball Future of Cards' Shortstop Jeopardized, Physician Says.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—With a shattered left leg, the result of a hunting accident, Charlie Gelbert, shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, today was raced 150 miles from Chambersgburg, Pa., to a Philadelphia hospital, where he will undergo an operation.

Doctors said Gelbert's future baseball career depends on the success of the treatment.

Gelbert was accompanied in the ambulance by his mother, Mrs. Charles S. Gelbert, of Ambler, Pa., and his wife, the former Mabel Hafer, of Chambersburg.

Gelbert's condition is more serious than believed at first, attendants explained, and he can not be operated upon for three or four days—until it is known for sure that the wound is septic.

"Although we hope Charley will be all right again in time for the baseball season, his wound is serious, and there is no need of minimizing it," Dr. H. F. Ewing said.

Dr. A. B. Webster added that the shot "came into his leg, smashed the fibula bone, and cut some nerves and a blood vessel."

CELTICS IN DRILL.

St. Mary's Celtics, preparing for the game Sunday at Pennsgrove, N. J., with the Red Devils of that city, will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock, at the Terminal Field.

KID CHOCOLATE WINS.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Kid Chocolate, Havana Negro holder of the junior lightweight championship and recognized in this State as featherweight title holder, won a 10-round decision from Eddie Reilly, of New York, in an overweight bout at the New York Coliseum tonight.

CLOVERS SCRIMMAGE TONIGHT.

All members of the Clover quintet are requested to report at Eastern High School tonight at 8 o'clock for a practice scrimmage with the Shade Shop team. The Clovers open their season Friday, meeting Atonement at Langley Junior High School at 9 o'clock. For games call Atlantic 0216.

HOWARD AND LINCOLN IN 28TH GAME

Colored Classic Here on Thursday May Draw 15,000.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY'S Bisons are priming to keep clean a record of eight years' standing, when they meet the Lions of Lincoln at 1:30 o'clock Thanksgiving Day at the Howard Stadium. During all that time, since the closing days of "Jazz" Byrd's career among the Oxfordians in 1924, no Lincoln player has crossed the Howard goal line.

Last year, in Philadelphia, when Lincoln had tied the count at 6-all, Lamar went in to make the extra point, and succeeded. But he was protested as an ineligible player, and the Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association awarded the game to Howard, 1-0.

Howard Wins, 2 to 0, In 1930.

Howard barely eked out a 2-0 victory the year previous at the Griffith Stadium and won a moral victory in 1929 when, with a green team, defeated in every previous clash, the Lions were held to a scoreless tie.

In a series of 27 games, since 1894, Howard has won ten and Lincoln nine, with eight counted as scoreless ties. During that time Howard has piled up an aggregate score of 200 points as against Lincoln's 118. On the showing of the teams this year they appear evenly matched. About 15,000 are expected to witness the clash on Turkey Day.

McLarnin and Fuller Matched for Garden

New York, Nov. 21 (U.P.).—Jimmy McLarnin, of Vancouver, and Sammy Fuller of Boston, have been matched for a ten-round bout December 16, it was announced by Madison Square Garden today. They will be required to make weight of 147.

The Garden also announced that the featherweight championship bout involving Kid Chocolate, of Cuba, holder of the title, and Fidel La Barba, of Los Angeles, would be held December 9, instead of December 16. La Barba will fly East with his manager, George Blake, from Los Angeles next Sunday.

Georgetown Gridmen Are Given Day of Rest

Resting on the laurels of a 6-6 tie with the favored Bucknell Bisons, Georgetown University's grid squad was given the day off yesterday and will take things compartively easy this week. The Hoyas do not see service again until Saturday, December 3, when Carnegie Tech will be met at Griffith Stadium.

Coach Jack Hagerty and his allies, however, will take no chances on Georgetown's lapsing back into indifference again. Their chief duty, during the two-week interim between games, will be to keep the team in the same dynamic state of mind that permitted it to hold the potentially better Bucknells to a tie.

RICHARD'S COLONIALS WIN.

Richard's Colonials scored an easy 44-10 victory over the Rock Creek Servicenter team last night. The winners are after more games. Teams interested should call Manager Jack Cain at Greenwood 2214.

Defeated Tulsa With Fifty-Yard March by Dunlap.

Fenlon Runs Wild in Scrimmage of G. W. Against Cubs.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

STEVE HINSHAW, George Washington University's Middle-West football agent, arrived in Washington by plane yesterday and brought with him somewhat disquieting news on the general worth, talent and versatility of Oklahoma University's football team, which even now is on its way across the country to meet the Colonials at Griffith Stadium Thursday afternoon.

Hinshaw, who informally digs up considerable football talent for G. W. every season, witnessed the Oklahoma-Nebraska game last Saturday, and his findings, even though Oklahoma yielded by a 5-0 score, are ably backed up by facts and figgers.

Oklahoma has a quintet of quadruple threats in Bob Dunlap, 185-pound quarter back; the Pansze brothers, Bill and Art, hula-hula-hipped half backs; Ab Walker, half-pint reserve quarter back, and Jim Stacy, 200-pound full back. On the shoulders of these hefties Oklahoma has ridden to great football eminence.

Dunlap Prominent In Record.

Dunlap beat Tulsa, on a single-handed march from midfield; Dunlap scored twice and kicked two field goals and Bill Pansze ran 50 yards to a touchdown to beat Kansas; Dunlap kicked a 30-yard field goal and bucked to a touchdown to score 10 points against Texas; Art Pansze, Ab Walker and Dunlap ran 36, 45 and 55 yards to touchdowns, respectively, to beat the Kansas Aggies, while Stacy single-handed stumped Iowa State by running 65 yards after taking a long pass from Dunlap and scoring the other two touchdowns from close in.

Not to be overlooked is the Oklahoma line, which is dominated in the middle by Paul Young, 6-foot-4 center, who looms as a real menace to those low-trajectory G. W. over-the-line passes. Orville Corey, tackle, weighs 225. Henie Haag, his running mate, weighs 204.

The Sooners (named after those impatient first settlers of Oklahoma who dashed across the Government line too soon on the day the United States opened up Indian Territory), are a team capable of any play at any time of the game. Local fans had a taste of this style of play when they saw Tulsa beat G. W. last year at the ball park. The Sooners are one of those pass-on-the-last-down and kick-on-

LOYOLA TEST FOR CARDS IN FINAL

C. U. Favorite, But Respects Saturday Grid Rivals.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY will meet Loyola, of Baltimore, Saturday afternoon at Griffith Stadium, and although the Cardinals pack a more potent punch they will take no chances with Loyola. It will be the final game of the year for the locals.

Loyola will put its full strength into a game for the first time Saturday, injuries having dogged the team since the early part of the season, when the Baltimoreans were beaten up by Boston College and Villanova in succession. Several of the key men of the team have been out all season, or reduced to short stays in ensuing games.

Loyola Boasts Stars.

GILBERT BRINGS KHORASAN HOME IN BOWIE FEATURE AT 9-1

Risque Loses By a Neck In Duel

Winner Comes From Fifth to Beat Out Public Choice.

Gilbert Rides No. 180 to Trail Mills by Two Winners.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

JOHNNY GILBERT stole the show yesterday at Bowie with a pair of winning rides that put him only two victories behind Hank Mills in the race for the national riding honors of 1932. It is an uneven battle, however. Mills is now under suspension until December 1 for rough riding at Pimlico. The present standing is 180 winners for Gilbert to 182 for Mills.

It was only fitting that Gilbert should have the mount on the winner of the day's feature race—the Conowingo, a mile and a sixteenth test—and he did. Khorasan came out of the West to take this purse form Risque in a brilliant stretch drive with Gilbert outriding Steffen. Third money went to Hyman.

Gilbert had previously ridden Brave and Bold home ahead of the field in the third race.

Track Gets Faster as Races Progress.

of 12,000 witnessed the program. The sun was out at post time for the first and the track, heavy in the morning, was slow for the opener and getting faster with each succeeding race.

For a mile of the feature, it appeared that the capabilities of one Hyman, from the Superior Stables, had been grossly overlooked. This fellow, under the management of the apprentice Bellizzi, was whipped into the lead going to the first turn and had a three-length advantage over Morsel as the field swung for the backstretch.

Risque was third, with Khorasan apparently having a hard time to keep from being last. Up the back stretch, Hyman actually opened a wider gap, with no change in the positions recorded; in fact, they ran in order to the stretch. Here Gilbert let Khorasan loose for the first time and the big son of Omar Khayyam now being punished began to slide up on the outside, apparently passing a horse each time Gilbert laid his whip down. Khorasan had ears laid back, mouth open and head high as he crossed the wire a neck in front of Risque.

The winner is operated on the family plan. Mrs. J. Badame is the owner and J. Badame the trainer.

St. Omer Graduates in Opener.

St. Omer, from the Wheatley Stable holdings, graduated from the maiden class in the opener with a fine burst of speed in the stretch run. St. Omer had a length advantage over Chance Meeting, which finished another length in front of Learoyd. Von Sion set the early pace but quit badly while trying to run with Chance Meeting, and the latter slowed from the swift pace when St. Omer, under T. Malley's handling, moved up in the stretch. The winner paid an $8.90 mutuel.

Ilchester, the medium of heavy late play, satisfied his backers with a winning race in the second. The Trueman-trained colt went to the post the favorite and paid a $5.10 mutuel. The race was strictly between three horses. Bohemian Grove set the first pace and finished third. Sky Haven was next in front and was second. Ilchester did his leading at the all-important finish. Robertson gave the winner a rousing ride and the margin was two lengths.

Fingal changed his style but came through with a winning performance in the fifth race. Danny Meade took the Bradley representative to the front and held the lead from start to finish.

AT THE POST

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

Well, boy, I'm keeping my average high at this course. St. Omer and Ilchester slipped down the winning path just as Mrs. Bennings' boy had predicted. I was scratched entirely out of the seventh and three of the four other winners were my second choices. In all, I had 14 of my 17 horses which survived the scratches in the money. Perhaps I could make my record look even better by going further into the technicalities. However, I have neither time nor space. Getting away from the "I's," the Maryland race officials are not through with the Solace case yet. Solace ran a horrible race at Pimlico sandwiched between a pair of wins. Somebody smelled a rat and the rider, M. Calvert, was suspended. Yesterday, they were questioning several persons involved and an announcement is due any minute.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—Again EVERFAIR must break out of the also eligible list to see action. This youngster has been closing fast in sprints and will appreciate the mile-and-70-yard route today. MAHOMET and LOWER TEN appear best of the others.

SECOND RACE—ACAUTAW, which has set some records for bad post acting, was as meek as a lamb under the handling of Robertson the other day. If the Whitney rider is up again, I look for another winning performance, despite the fact that the colt picks up weight. HAPPY ANNE should be second again. Third to OLD FIELD.

THIRD RACE—FAIRBYPAIR appears best in this sprint. SPRINGSTEEL would prefer a route, but I have seen this one perform handsomely at 6 furlongs. Left at the post last time. It's possible that CLOTHO might run to a trial.

FOURTH RACE—CON AMORE should take this, or will it be a lot of excuses again? KINCSEN always has that closing rush to make her a threat. VALENCIENNES for the show.

FIFTH RACE—DYAK comes off a brilliant sprint effort and should go on to take this distance race. Trials have been excellent. WATCH HIM gets weight from the top one and also has worked well. LATE DATE for the show and all of it if the top ones make mistakes.

SIXTH RACE—BLONDISH is probably the most improved filly in this neck of the woods and it looks like Gilbert will have the mount again. Everything was right for a killing that last time, but they missed. MONEL was a beaten favorite the last time. May be a different story on a fast track. RENAISSANCE for show.

SEVENTH RACE—GARLIC is right and the stable is kicking itself for having tossed away that last one by a nose. Get aboard. SOLACE is being watched closely these days and should be second, FORT DEARBORN for the show.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ST. OMER, $8.90, $4.00, $2.70; CHANCE MEETING, $3.00, $2.40; LEAROYD, $2.90.

ST. OMER, taken under steadying restraint while in near pursuit of the pacemakers, went to the front when ready and had something in reserve at the end. CHANCE MEETING, a keen factor from the start, raced VON SION into submission and then continued gamely. LEAROYD responded to urging in the final half mile and made up ground gradually. PRINCE ABBOT was driven wide and finished steadily. ONCE was unable to reach early contention. VON SION stopped fast after a fast half mile. The track is good on the back stretch and heavy through the stretch.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place easily. Went to post at 1:35. Off at 1:42. Winner, H. Bruce's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ILCHESTER, $5.10, $2.90, $2.50; SKY HAVEN, $3.70, $2.60; BOHEMIAN GROVE, $3.10.

ILCHESTER, stoutly ridden and close up, came through on the inside of SKY HAVEN during the stretch run and outfinished the latter under stout pressure. SKY HAVEN raced BOHEMIAN GROVE into defeat in the first five furlongs, was kept out in the firmer footing, but tired fast in the final furlong. BOHEMIAN GROVE was done after five furlongs, but was easily best of the others. CORDOBA could not improve his position in the late stages. ARCHWOOD was held safe. NAHUNTA was outrun. LOUGH PORT stopped utterly.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:11. Off at 2:15. Winner, A. Pons' b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAVE AND BOLD, $7.60, $3.80, $2.80; WARDEN, $4.70, $3.00; PENNATE, $2.50.

BRAVE AND BOLD, alertly handled, and sent into the lead at once, stalled off early contention from KAI-FINN, was strongly urged when drawing into a clear lead and held WAYDEN safe. Latter, strongly handled early to hold a forward position, saved ground wherever possible, but could not threaten the winner. PENNATE, in trouble directly after the start, went to the outside in the final half mile and closed with good courage. KAI-FINN forced a good pace early, but tired in the final drive.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KHORASAN, $19.60, $5.70, $3.80; RISQUE, $3.30, $2.60; HYMAN, $4.00.

KHORASAN, steadied within striking distance of the leaders, came determinedly when placed to punishment and, finishing on the outside, was up in the final fifty yards. RISQUE, urged hard in the early racing, wore the pacemakers down when straightened into the home stretch, and held on stoutly. HYMAN sprinted into a good early lead, saved ground where possible, but faltered fast through the closing furlong. GLASTONBURY, placed close up early, was unable to improve his position while making up ground slowly at the end. MINTON was outrun. MORSEL tired after six furlongs.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FINGAL, $13.30, $6.00, $4.10; CAESAR'S GHOST (field), $4.90, $3.40; MIDSHIPMAN, $6.80.

FINGAL, outran his field to the first turn, was kept out in the firmer footing, responded gamely to severe pressure and, holding on willingly, outstayed CAESAR'S GHOST. Latter, going well placed early, swung to the inside of the winner when straightened into the home stretch and was gradually wearing the winner down. MIDSHIPMAN, a stout factor all the way, fought it out in stubborn fashion. ONE CHANCE, in the thick of contention throughout, was held safe approaching the finish. FELRAP raced well. FAIR IMAGE was outrun. BURNING FEET, crowded back going to the first turn, could never reach the leaders.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:55. Off at 4:05. Winner, Mrs. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STORM, $8.50, $4.60, $3.30; WISHING STAR, $5.70, $3.60; PENCADER, $5.30.

STORM, allowed to settle in his best stride, went to the leaders readily while on the outside, assumed a short lead and outlasted WISHING STAR. Latter, taken wide for the better footing, reached the winner when straightened into the home stretch and was inclined to swerve to the inside all during the stretch run. PENCADER, going steadily improved, was a strong factor the final six furlongs while saving ground. ENGLEWOOD finished fast from a slow beginning. HACKY H. showed a good effort. RACCOON had too much taken out of him trying to get into a forward position.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:35. Off at 4:37. Winner, Mrs. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NIGHT VINTAGE (field), $45.00, $15.00, $5.30; DARK MIST, $8.10, $3.40; GENERAL LEJEUNE, $2.80.

NIGHT VINTAGE, close up from the start, saved ground when entering the home stretch and, closing fast, wore DARK MIST down inside the final furlong. DARK MIST, in hand early, disposed of MEETING PLACE when ready but could not withstand the winner. GENERAL LEJEUNE, racing in the best footing the entire trip, held on well for the final drive. JANE ELLEN was a forward factor all the way. MEETING PLACE went wide around the first turn to take command and had nothing left when put to a drive.

22 CONTESTS FOR CADET QUINTET

Johnnies Must Build New Team; Sixty Seeking Berths.

THE scarlet of St. John's will have a distinctly green hue when the Cadets open a tough, 22-game basket ball schedule at Eastern December 13. A totally new team will be called on to defend the prep school laurels win in the tournament conducted by The Post last season.

Mike Scanlon, the Scheele brothers, Fred and George, "Gabby" Hartnett and Johnny Breen, all regulars or near regulars last year, have marched off to college leaving St. John's very much in need of some experienced basket ball players. Sixty aspirants for the vacated positions, including five returning substitutes, reported to Coach Jack Dunn for the initial practice yesterday.

Joe Parkhill, Paul Skelly, Pearson Stanley, James Dixon, "Hubbie" McConnell and Mike Simone, all of whom saw service at some time in the last campaign, appear to have an inside track for regular berths.

Intraclass League Boomed Game.

Many promising candidates developed in the Intra-Class League at the school last year are out for the team, and Dunn is hopeful of obtaining some dependable reserves, and perhaps a regular or two, from among these.

The Cadets will be called on to meet stern opposition in three of their first four games, all of which are scheduled in December before the Christmas holidays. Eastern, public high school champion, is the first opponent. Tech, Central and Roosevelt follow in rapid order.

The first of the annual brace of games with Gonzaga will be played January 27 at Gonzaga. St. John's will be the scene of the second February 24. The complete schedule is as follows:

December 13, Eastern, away; 16, Tech, home; 19, Central, home; 22, Roosevelt, away; January 3, Central, away; 6, Alexandria, away; 11, Tech, away; 14, Calvert Hall, home; 17, Alexandria, home; 20, Leonard Hall, home; 24, Washington-Lee, away; 27, Gonzaga, away; 31, open. February 3, Leonard Hall, away; 6, Eastern, home; 10, Calvert Hall, away; 14, Landon, away; 17, Georgetown Prep, home; 21, Landon, home; 24, Gonzaga, home; 27, Washington-Lee, home. March 1, Georgetown Prep, away.

Northern Red Birds Claim 140-Lb. Crown

Coached by Leo De Los, former Notre Dame and Georgetown star, the Northern Red Birds have made an enviable record on the gridiron this season and claim the independent 140-pound title. Numbered among the team's victims are the Lyon Park Lions, Ballston and Meridians. Last Sunday the Red Birds tacked a 19-0 defeat on the Janney eleven. For games call Jack Evans at Columbia 3931-W.

Maryland Park Plays Lackey High Socceristes

Maryland Park High School's soccer team will meet Lackey High School, of Charles County, today at 2 o'clock at La Plata, in a secon round game for the State soccer title. Maryland Park defeated Prince Frederick, of Calvert County, in the first round.

The Maryland Park girls field ball team is slated to play Ellicott City's team today at Laurell in the first round of play for the State title.

TITLE WON BY ARMSTRONG GRIDMEN

Dunbar Beaten, 13-6, for Colored High School Crown.

THE Orange and Black eleven of Armstrong High School yesterday at Walker Stadium captured the colored high school city championship title when Dunbar was defeated, for the first time in three years by them, 13 to 6.

Dunbar started off with a rush and had the first quarter all its own way, bringing a crowd of 4,000 to its feet when Green, fast left half, went high into the air and intercepted an Armstrong pass on which he shook a limb for 40 fast yards and a touchdown.

But Armstrong came right back in the next quarter to equal the count when Burrell Williams went over from the 2-yard line after getting down the field on a 25-yard pass. The count was 6 to 6 and Williams failed for the extra point.

In the third quarter Armstrong marched down the field by successive line plunges of Burrell Williams and Turpin, to the Dunbar 41-yard line, when successive 20-yard offtackle dashes by Williams and Turpin placed the ball on the 1-yard line as the quarter ended.

Turpin went offtackle at the beginning of the final period for Armstrong's second touchdown, and Burrell Williams made the extra point by skirting Dunbar's right end. Dunbar threatened to tie the count a few moments later when Matthews threw a 55-yard pass to Jackson for a 40-yard gain, but Turpin intercepted another pass and ran it back 50 yards from Armstrong's 20-yard line. The game ended with the ball on Dunbar's 30-yard line.

6 STANDOUT GAMES SCHEDULED IN EAST

he ran wild against Pittsburgh early in the campaign. Meanwhile the Cadet line, led by Capt. Milt Summerfelt, will test the all-American hopes of stars like Joe Kurth, Notre Dame's fine tackle, and Full Back George Melinkovich.

Vidal has been the sensation of the Eastern season, especially as he leaped into the limelight at West Point unheralded. This is his last season, but he was never beyond the substitute stage until Army's battle with Pittsburgh. Since then he has been unstoppable. To Harvard's and Yale's coaches he looked as good or better than Ray Stecker or Red Cagle.

Viviano Closely Watched.

Cornell's stalwart captain, Bart Viviano, will be closely watched in his last game against Pennsylvania by experts, who rate him the finest blocking and defensive back in the East. His line-plunging for two straight years carried Cornell to victory over the Quakers.

Stanford will offer a decisive test for Joe Skladany, Pitt's all-around end, as well as the back field capabilities of Warren Heller and Mike Sebastian.

Two of Penn's line men, Howard Colehower at tackle and Roy Engle at Center, have been involved in the all-star discussion. In the Brown-Colgate game, outstanding players such as Capt. Bob Smith, Colgate's running guard, and Bob Chase, resourceful Bruin back, will perform before critical eyes.

Meanwhile Michigan's Harry Newman, a vital factor throughout the season in the Wolverines' unbeaten march, appears to have clinched his place as All-America quarter back by as convincing a margin as such predecessors a Benny Friedman, Frank Carideo and Barry Wood.

The close of the Big Ten season also finds the All-Star spotlight burning brightly on players like Paul Moss, Purdue's versatile end; Joe Gallus, Ohio State guard, and Ivan Williamson, Wolverine captain and end. The mantle slipped, however, from the injured figure of "Pug" Rentner, Northwestern's great ball carrier and an outstanding All-America choice of 1931.

Stocks Continue to Decline On Debt-Crippled Dealing

Small Net Loss Recorded as Turnover Sinks to 611,716 Shares.

New Yorok, Noov. 21 (A.P.).—Wall street's crystal gazers today were evidently unable to conjure up any clear-cut pictures of what was likely to happen in the foreign debt situation this week, and security markets were again all but neglected.

Stocks tended to follow the lines laid down last week, that is, a slow downward drift over the course of which a bit of short covering was distributed. Closing averages today represented another small net loss, but with volume far under 1,000,000 shares the market could hardly be said to have departed from its current policy of watchful waiting.

Quiet firmness characterized the first hour. However, any inspiration which leaders might have derived from the recent absence of selling pressure was sidetracked when Radio common began a fairly brisk decline on news of the consent decree. This stock, with a few others, lost more than a point; in general, recessions were measured in fractions. Some issues finished with moderate gains.

Radio's extreme reaction of 2 points was cut to 1¾ net. It was probably assumed by many traders, especially professionals, that a substantial part of the stock to be distributed under the agreement by General Electric and Westinghouse to their shareholders would find its way to market, and pressure against this favorite of rosier days was steady. Radio, in fact, accounted for a liberal percentage of the day's turnover, which aggregated 611,716 shares. The preferred issues were also weak. Westinghouse was up ½ net and General Electric lost ⅜.

American Tobacco "B" lost a couple of points. New York Central, Allied Chemical and Drug were down a point each, as was Santa Fe Railroad, although that carrier reported last week's car loadings as slightly higher than for the previous week. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, Union Carbide, General Motors, Chrysler, Harvester and Woolworth settled back fractionally, while American Can, National Biscuit, Public Service of New Jersey and Pennsylvania finished somewhat higher. Du Pont firmed on declaration of the regular quarterly dividend. Seaboard Oil made a new 1932 high coincident with the revival of brokers' gossip of merger possibilities.

The debt question kept prominently in the foreground, virtually to the exclusion of other market influences, but Wall street's best guessers preferred to be noncommittal, inasmuch as inklings on the probable outcome of the week's Washington conferences were so faint as to be virtually nonexistent. Sterling exchange viewed the prospect pessimistically, sinking to a new low for the year.

Meanwhile, markets mulled over the rather plentiful evidence of seasonal trade recession. The magazine Steel said operations of that industry had slipped 2 points to 19 per cent of capacity, taking by automobile makers being insufficient to absorb slack that had appeared elsewhere. Saturday's carloadings report, showing a good-sized drop, was also fresh in memory, although Santa Fe's small improvement for last week gave hopes that the next compilation might be more encouraging.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Mon.	Sat.
Advances	144	168
Declines	194	71
Unchanged	115	73
Total issues traded	453	312

Stocks.

Puzzled Wall street almost neglected the market, and prices continued the slow downward drift started last week. The average loss was three-tenths of a point, with the turnover slashed to 611,716 shares. Uncertainties over the debt situation were blamed.

Bonds.

Trading sank to the lowest ebb since 1927. The average loss was only one-tenth of a point, but the volume of sales declined to $5,534,000. Irregularly lower levels prevailed in obligations of Great Britain, Finland, Norway and Cuba. United States loans sagged a trifle.

Cuhb.

Animation was lacking and prices closed slightly below Saturday's levels. Utilities staged an early lift, but the rally petered out later and some issues sagged. Advances and declines were about even in industrials. Oils were dormant except in Standard Oil of Indiana, in which there was heavy trading.

Wheat.

Renewed pressure to hasten settlement of December wheat contracts and the decline of British exchange sent prices down. Also a slash in Buenos Aires wheat of 1 cent, indicating competition between Argentina and North American grain, contributed to losses.

Corn and oats were unchanged to lower. December wheat sold at 42¾, 50, 42⅞ cents.

Cotton.

The market was generally lower in comparatively narrow trading. March contracts closed at 6.21, compared with 6.29 on Saturday. Quotation averages were down 5 to 8 points. Evening-up sales got blame for the decline. Liverpool reported quiet dealing, influenced by war-debt uncertainties, notwithstanding a fair demand in cotton goods at Manchester.

BOND MARKET SAGS IN LOW-EBB TRADING

Cautious Bids and Offers Cut Volume of Dealing to $5,534,000.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The vitality content of the bond market, either "by weight or volume," was at its lowest in several years today and price movements generally were meaningless.

Few traders or investors ventured from the safety sidelines and bids and offers were so far apart in many instances that transactions could not be negotiated. The sales total dropped to $5,534,000, par value. This was the smallest aggregate for a full day, according to one statistical record, since February 1, 1927. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans was off one-tenth of a point.

Irregularly lower levels prevailed in obligations of Great Britain, Finland, Norway and Cuba, while bonds of Germany were moderately easy and those of Australia were heavy. Some of the Canadians were off a point and the Argentines were down from 1 to 2 points. French loans improved.

Most high-grade domestic corporation issues maintained a fairly firm front while losses and gains among the secondary groups were about evenly divided. Among the railroads, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1933 lost 1¼ points and an easier tone was shown by some liens of Illinois Central, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania, Texas & Pacific and others. Missouri Pacific loans advanced. Most price changes among the industrials and utilities were unimportant.

United States Government obligations sagged a trifle in dull trading.

Raw Silk Closes Firm.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Raw silk futures closed firm; sales 120 bales. December, 1.42@1.44; March, 1.41; May, 1.43@1.44. Open market quotations (60-day basis), Shanghai steam extra B, 1.60; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, 1.20; Japanese crack, double extra, 1.65.

Visible Supply of Grain.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The visible supply of American grain shows the foNowing changes in buahels: Wheat decreased 1,788,000; corn decreased 500,000; oats decreased 542,000; rye decreased 103,000; barley decreased 42,000.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—A miniature boom in West African mining shares was experienced on the Stock Exchange today and liberal buying improved prices. Oil shares and transatlantic issues were firm, but gilt-edged securities declined one-half to two points on realising, owing to the obscure outlook and decline in sterling through the war debt uncertainty. The closing was irregular.

Paris—Prices on the bourse showed a good reaction to the better tone of foreign markets and French and international shares showed gains. French rentes also improved and the closing tone was firm.

Berlin—A quiet, but cheerful tendency prevailed on the bourse throughout the session and continued after official closing hours.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for November 18 were $6,649,302.17; expenditures, $15,705,728.29; balance, $437,735,359.70. Customs duties for eighteen days of November were $16,458,607.97.

Oil Industry Breaks Chains Of Stagnation During 1932

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Although it is still faced with difficulties, the oil industry can look back upon 1932 as a year of definite progress.

Leading oil companies were among the few industrial classifications to make a relatively better showing this year than last.

The industry is now scanning the field in the hope that gasoline price advances, which were originally posted in New York and New England, will be followed by similar action in other sections. This is essential, its proponents hold, in order to prevent any undermining of the price structure.

In addition, the industry has succeeded in marking up crude oil quotations, twelve of the country's leading midcontinent producers having stepped up prices on October 15 with a 15-cent a barrel increase.

Although the industry has been handicapped by reduced sales, and it currently is entering the period when gasoline consumption normally declines, the record shows considerable improvement.

Stocks of gasoline are estimated by the American Petroleum Institute at 48,321,000 barrels against the 1932 peak last June of 67,000,000, a decline of nearly 20,000,000 barrels. This has been accomplished, although consumption this year is about 8 per cent under last year's level. The industry had anticipated sustained buying this year, and in the first half had greatly increased its storage of gasoline.

Meanwhile the Nation's holding of crude supplies has likewise been reduced through the cooperation of the principal oil producing statements in a program of curtailment. The daily average production of crude in the first nine months of this year was 2,172,000 barrels against 2,311,000 in the corresponding 1931 period.

CURB DRIFTS LOWER IN NARROW MARKET

Slight Gain in Utility Issues to Save Sinking List; Some Oil Activity.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—There was no sign of animation in the curb market today and the narrow swing of prices reflected the low state of trading interest.

There was a slight lift in the utility division in the early trading, but as buying interest petered out, prices slipped to levels slightly below the previous finals. Electric Bond & Share, as usual, supplied a considerable part of the dealings in this group. Associated Gas & Electric A slipped back slightly, but there was no great activity in the issue, in spite of the application for a receivership for the company filed on Saturday. Niagara-Hudson Power, which in preceding session showed considerable strength, held close to its best levels.

Small advances and declines were about even in the industrial group. Deere & Co. worked slightly higher on a small turnover. United Shoe Machinery was a shade lower. Oils were dormant with the exception of Standard of Indiana, in which the volume was unusually heavy. Several blocks of 1,000 shares or more changed hands, with the price showing a mild upward trend from a slightly lower opening.

Harvester Plants to Add 4,000 Part-Time Men

Chicago, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—International Harvester Co. will add about 4,000 part-time employes in its plants during the winter and early spring months, half of these in the Chicago plants.

"Our purpose in increasing factory operating forces," said George A. Ranney, vice president, in making the announcement today, "is to provide supplies of goods which we hope and expect will be required during the coming year. In order to spread the work as far as possible we will not increase the working time of those now employed, but will call back longer service men who have been out of work for some time." The additional workers will be added gradually, he said.

B. & O. President Sees Road's Early Recovery

Baltimore, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—In his statement at the annual stockholders' meeting here today Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, asserted he has "the firm conviction that the condition of growth and expansion which has obtained in the past will be restored in large measure, if not completely, in the not distant future."

He pointed out, however, that "because of the greatly reduced volume of business which the Baltimore & Ohio company is handling during the present year it unfortunately has been necessary to discontinue temporarily all payments upon our capital stock, and we probably will fail to earn our fixed charges during the period by $4,000,000 or $5,000,000, but I have no doubt, through arrangements to be made, that we will be able to meet satisfactorily all our financial obligations.'

Silver Production Down in Canada

October Yield Declines to 1,853,000 Ounces Despite September Boost.

Toronto, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Canada's silver production for October, 1,853,000 ounces, showed a slight decrease compared with the October, 1931, figures of 1,987,000 ounces. There was a sharp increase over the September, 1932, figure, however. That month production was 1,500,000 ounces. In the first ten months of 1932 Canadian production aggregated 14,447,000 ounces as against 15,974,000 ounces in the same period last year.

Silver output of the United States for October was 1,918,000 ounces lower than the output of 2,181,000 ounces for the corresponding month of 1931. September production across the line was 1,778,000 ounces. Output for ten months amounted to 19,511,000 ounces, against 27,098,000 ounces for the first ten months of 1931, a decrease of 7,587,000 ounces.

Loan Irregularity Is Charged in Suit

Applicant for Receivership in Continental Shares Accuses Eaton.

Baltimore, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The hearing of the receivership suit against Continental Shares, Inc., was resumed today in Circuit Court before Judge H. Arthur Stump.

George L. Gugle, of Columbus, Ohio, who has asked that the investment company, formerly controlled by Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, be declared bankrupt, testified the minutes of the directors' meetings showed no authorization of loans of $37,500,000 to Foreign Utilities, Ltd., and $500,000 to Otis & Co., in 1930.

The two companies were said to be part of Eaton's interest. When the trial was started several weeks ago Mr. Gugle testified that Mr. Eaton had "wrecked" the company.

COTTON SINKS AGAIN ON EVENING-UP SALE

March Closes at 6.21 as General Market Drops 5 to 8 Points.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Cotton was generally lower in a comparatively narrow market today. March contracts sold off from 6.26 to 6.20 and closed at 6.21, compared with 6.29 Saturday. Near-month evening up in preparation for possible notices next Friday was again one of the chief trading features, but prices held fairly steady after the early decline and the close was steady at net losses of 5 to 8 points.

Opening declines of 1 to 3 points reflected continued December liquidation and scattered selling, a little of which came through some of the houses with foreign connections. Pressure from such sources was limited, but offerings increased after the call, when liquidation appeared to be promoted by larger ginning figures than expected. There was also a little selling from the South.

December Breaks Again.

December broke to 6.04 and May to 6.30, making net losses of about 8 to 10 points, but Liverpool bought on the wider differences, which, with covering and trade buying, was sufficient to absorb offerings. Fluctuations later were small, but slight rallies met increased offerings, and closing prices were at or within a point of the lowest.

December liquidation continued in considerable volume. Trade interests bought that position against sales of later months. There was also further switching from December into later deliveries, including exchanges for March at 17 and 16 points and July at 37 to 36 points. Nothing was heard of any change in the Southern spot situation, and except for some early offerings there seemed to be very little Southern selling or hedging here during the day.

The report of the Census Bureau, showing 10,532,745 bales ginned prior to November 14, was somewhat above expectations and according to calculations made in the trade here represented over 89 per cent of the November 1 crop indication reduced to running bales on the basis of five-year average bales weight.

Liverpool cables reported a quiet market there, influenced by war debt uncertainties, but said there was a fair business in cotton goods at Manchester. A disposition to await further developments in the general situation, including the international debt negotiations, also was reported in the local market. Exports today, 28,110, making 4,719,864 so far this season. U. S. port receipts, 42,677. U. S. port stocks, 4,719,564.

WHEAT VALUES DROP ON DECEMBER LISTS

Settlements and Sterling Cut Depress Market; Other Grains Decline.

Chicago, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Renewed pressure to hasten settlement of December wheat contracts, and avoid unwanted big deliveries of grain piled up in elevators, pulled prices down afresh today.

Wheat values dropped as a result to within half a cent of the all-time record low point. Chicago December contracts aggregating more than 50,000,000 bushels are awaiting settlement, and there was continued liquidation today on the part of holders anxious to let go. The open interest in December wheat here was asserted to be the largest amount ever known at this time of year so close to delivery day.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅜ to ¾ under Saturday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅜ lower; oats, unchanged to ¼ off, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a shade advance.

Causes of Weakness.

Contributing to weakness of wheat prices was a further tumble in British exchange, emphasizing that since about a year ago the pound sterling equivalent in United States money has fallen from $4.86 to below $3.28. A-cent-a-bushel slash in Buenos Aires wheat quotations today indicating sharper competition between Argentina and North America, was an additional bearish influence. On the other hand, an unexpectedly large decrease of 1,768,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply failed to act as much of an offset.

Helping somewhat, however, as a steadying factor on price downturns was persistent drought over big sections of domestic winter wheat territory. In consequence, traders generally were looking for a heavier reduction of acreage than has recently been estimated, various forecasts now pointing to 10 per cent curtailment. Sentiment was not altogether one-sided regarding December liquidation, some observers contending that most of the December wheat sold was replaced in deferred positions at 5¼ cents difference.

Corn and oats sagged with wheat, and on account of fine weather for field work in the corn belt.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Nov. 21.—Wall street is estimating, on the basis of car loadings and preliminary computations, that Reading company's October financial statement will make the best showing in net operating income and possibly in gross revenue for any month this year. The road's October loadings reached a new 1932 high, and with further economies in effect it is estimated net operating income will approximate $1,600,000, against $1,-119,291 in September and $1,856,673 in October, 1931.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s insolvency index for the first half of November is 134.2, against 140.1 last year, thus continuing, the agency points out, to move in the right direction, "as it has for the past two months." The index for this month so far is below that of each preceding month for over a year, with the single exception of last September. Ordinarily at this season the trend of business defaults is in the other direction.

The date for the international copper conference was shifted today from November 28 to November 29.

Revenues of manufactured and natural gas utilities totaled $44,048,-759 in September compared with $46,947,307 for September, 1931, the American Gas Association reported today.

As part of a plan for reducing the "occupancy" costs of Gimbel Bros. department stores, holders of the $5,-500,000 Saks Realty Corporation leasehold mortgage 6 per cent serial bonds have been asked to accept for each $30 interest coupon payable on April 1 and October 1, 1933, $20 in cash and $12.50 in noninterest bearing scrip, payable in 10 years or less, and to agree to a postponement of each maturity. The bonds mature in increasing amounts up to 1946. The Saks Corporation is a Gimbel subsidiary.

"Business has been receding at a somewhat more than the normal seasonal rate," says the weekly summary of Standard Statistics, "and the possibility of a general forward movement, as long as current trends prevail, should now apparently be ruled out of calculation."

JOINT LAND BANKERS SEE AID FOR FARMER

Congress Will Be Asked to Pass Laws Providing Help for Equity Owners.

Special to The Washington Post.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 21.—"The coming Congress will be asked to enact legislation giving farmers with any equity left a fighting chance to save their farms and homes," said Frank W. Blair, of Detroit, in commenting on the meeting of the Joint Stock Land Bankers Association, which held a session recently in Washington.

"An acute problem before Congress, and one that can not be delayed, is the revamping of the farm loan structure so as to provide for a unification of the system, the reduction of interest charges and to enable the banks to extend greater leniency to their borrowers," said Mr. Blair.

"It was unfortunate that much misrepresentation had gotten abroad during the campaign about what Joint Stock Land Banks are doing for their farmer borrowers.

Proof of Leniency.

The joint stock land bankers say the best proof of leniency of the banks toward their borrowers is found in the fact that with $454,291,-236.96 of loans outstanding as of September 30, 1932, $200,829,711.85, or 44.2 per cent, were being carried with installments of interest and principal past due.

In addition to this, nearly $1,500,-000 has been advanced to borrowers to pay insurance premiums and taxes. Less than one out of every ten of these farms on which loans are past due are being foreclosed on, and these foreclosures are the result of abandonment of the farm, lack of attention by nonresident owner, or loss by the borrower of operating equipment through the foreclosure of chattel and second mortgages owned by parties other than the bank."

Plight of Agriculture.

In his opening address to the Joint Stock Land Bankers Association, President Blair stated that "the sad plight of agriculture was largely due to excessive taxation and extremely low prices of commodities." He said, "During each of the last two years, property taxes were approximately 266 per cent of those for 1914. Contrast that with the 60 per cent of the prices which the farmer is receiving for the products of his farm.

"In 1931, taxes took 11 per cent of the farmer's gross income. This year they will take at least 17 per cent. So great an increase in debts and taxes, accompanied by an even greater decrease in farm commodity prices, can have but one result, namely, wholesale defaults in the payment of interest and taxes accompanied by a heartbreaking lowering of morale in rural communities."

LESS NET REPORTED BY NORTH AMERICAN

Utilities Company's Income Given as $17,172,217; Du Pont Is Regular.

New York, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The North American Co. and subsidiaries report for the twelve months ended September 30 net income after all deductions, including preferred dividends, or $17,172,217, equal to $2.42 a share on the common stock. This compares with $23,390,187 or $3.64 a share for the twelve months ended September 30, 1931. Gross earnings totaled $109,416,318 compared with $120,684,597 for the twelve months ended September 30, 1931.

In their letter to the stockholders, F. L. Dame, chairman of the board, and Edwin Gruhl, president, stated that the company's electric output for the third quarter was 14½ per cent below the third quarter of 1931, but that the improvement in the latter weeks of September had continued, reducing the decline in fourth quarter output up to the middle of November to 9 per cent compared with the corresponding period of 1931. There was a progressive increase in volume of electric output of the company's subsidiaries for each week from Labor Day up to election week.

The consolidated balance sheet shows no bank loans on September 30 compared with $5,524,258 on September 30, 1931.

National Power & Light Co., of the Electric Bond & Share group, reports for the twelve months ended September 30, balance applicable to common stock of $7,432,961, equal to $1.36 a share, compared with $9,352,355, or $1.71 a share for the twelve months ended September 30, 1931.

The September 30 balance sheet shows total current assets of $19,-351,021, including $10,397,401 cash. Current liabilities were $852,811.

Nevada Consolidated Copper Co. and subsidiaries had third quarter loss of $751,019 after ordinary taxes and inventory adjustments, but before depletion and depreciation, compared with loss of $1,323,564 a year ago. For the first nine months of this year there was a loss of $1,909,-186, against a $947,733 loss in the corresponding 1931 period.

St. Louis, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The Brown Shoe Co. today reported net profits of $1,061,299 for its fiscal year which ended October 31. The earnings figure $3.28 a share on common stock outstanding, after preferred dividends and deduction of all charges and taxes, John A. Bush, president of the company, announced. The regular annual dividend rate has been $3.

The earnings compare with $1,356,-488 in 1931.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—E. I. Dupont de Nemours Co. today declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on its $20 par value common stock. This is the same as the last dividend, and is payable December 15 to stockholders of record November 30.

The regular 1¼ per cent ($1.50) on the company's debenture stock was declared payable January 25, to stockholders of record January 10.

CURING OF MALARIA SHOWING PROGRESS

Gorgas Institute Meeting Is Told of Tropical Methods by Dr. H. C. Clark

Treatment of human carriers as a means of controlling tropical malaria was explained to the directors and officers of the Gorgas Memorial Institute at their annual meeting here yesterday by Dr. Herbert C. Clark, director of the Gorgas Memorial Research Laboratory in Panama.

The treatment of humans, Dr. Clark said, was confined to five villages on the banks of a river in an area without local medical or sanitary facilities. In this region, 54.6 per cent of the population were found to be infected with malaria, the director said. At the close of the second year's treatment with free quinine, the rate fell to 21.6, and with improved methods later decreased to 16.8 per cent, Dr. Clark reported.

Dr. Clark pointed to these results as more than an indication that business organizations with personnel in the tropics can count on a low infection rate, provided proper preventives are supplied.

Dr. Clark also told of the progress in research in combating murrina, a destructive disease of horses and mules. This disease is spread chiefly by the vampire bat and house fly, he said. Infection has been reduced by correct stabling conditions, segregation of horses and mules from cattle during the night.

The meeting was presided over by Admiral Cary T. Grayson, president of the institute. A business statement for the year was presented by Robert V. Fleming and A. M. Nevius, treasurer and assistant treasurer, respectively, of the institute.

Hitting the Headpin

INTERNAL REVENUE'S representatives in the Federal Men's League worked overtime at Arcadia last night, but their efforts were well rewarded when the team went back into first place by sweeping its double-header with Navy Yard and Patent Office.

In so doing the Revenue men battered the bottles for a new all-time set record of 1,832, just one pin above the mark established two weeks ago. Included in the set was a 624 game.

Gene Hargett and Jim Jolliff were the outstanding individual performers of the match. Hargett scored high game, 160, and came within an ace of equaling Jolliff's 411 set. Herb Kaschub was high for Patent Office with a 406 effort. Patent Office also rolled a 1,820 set.

When Herb McProuty is in form, it means a tough evening for the pin boys and the maples. Herb was in rare form last night, amassing a score of 391 to lead the District Government Leaguers in high sets, and 151 for the high game of the evening. Fire Department had high team game, 623, and Highway rolled the highest team set, 1,731.

King's All-Star quintet, of Baltimore, will invade Lucky Strike Saturday night for the final block of its 10-game match with Howard Campbell's All-Stars. The Baltimoreans obtained a 7-pin advantage in the first block rolled at Baltimore and have high hopes of adding to this advantage in the last five games.

Miss Vogel's 131 game and 331 total for the three enabled her to lead the Ladies' Eastern Star League last night at Lucky Strike. Washington Centennial No. 1 rolled home ahead of the teams with a high game of 506 and 1,450 set.

"Sweet" Bliss' 151 game and Eddie Keith's 491 set topped the individual performances in the Petroleum loop at Columbia. Griffith-Consumers quintet was high among the teams by virtue of a 582 game and 1,685 set.

The Shamrocks hung up a new high set record for the season, 1,633, and relieved the Bee Bees of three games in a Washington Ladies' League match at Columbia. The winners numbered a 566 game among their three scores. Jessie Hoffman's 129 game and 357 set were high.

Lansburgh No. 1 rolled 1,653 and Broadway Delicatessen knocked out a 569 game to gain the laurels in the King Pin Business Men's League. Hardy, with a 369 set, and Tompos, with his 146 game, topped the individual scoring.

Team honors in Section I, North of Washington League, were accorded the Wolfe Motor Co. bowlers at Silver Spring. The team rolled 578 and 1,673. McDonald's 406 set and Shanklin's 143 game accounted for the individual prizes.

Bill Clampitt's splendid work in the second game, wherein he counted 143, saved Petworth from a shutout in its District League match with the champion Northeast Temple quintet on the latter's drives last night. George Honey was high for Temple with a 154 game and even 400 set.

Washington, D. C.

Trustee's Sale of the Valuable Nine Story and Basement Brick and Limestone Building, Known as the Smith Building, Located at 815-817 Fifteenth Street Northwest, Suitable for Banking and Office Purposes.

Because of default in the terms and conditions of and by virtue of a certain deed of trust executed by The F. H. Smith Building, Inc., a Delaware Corporation (formerly The F. H. Smith Building Corporation), dated April 14, 1927, recorded among the land records of the District of Columbia in Liber 6076 at folio 37 et seq., and at the request of over twenty-five per centum of the holders of the bonds secured thereby, the undersigned substituted trustee, by appointment of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in Equity Cause No. 52487, will offer for sale at public auction, in front of the premises, on WEDNESDAY, THE THIRTIETH DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. D. 1932, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia:

Lot 53 in The F. H. Smith Building Corporation's combination in Square 220, as per plat recorded in Liber No. 41, folio 44, of the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia; Also, part of Lot 28 in A. P. Brown's subdivision of lots in said square, as per plat recorded in Liber R. W., folio 136 of the aforesaid surveyor's office records; said part of lot being described as follows: Beginning for the same on the north side of a 20-foot wide alley, 20 feet west of the southeast corner of said lot and running thence north 39.33 feet, thence west 3 feet to a 10-foot wide alley, thence south along said last mentioned alley 34.33 feet to an angle therein, thence southeasterly 7.07 feet to the place of beginning; together with the improvements, consisting of "The Smith Building," and all furnishings, fittings and fixtures which the said substituted trustee under said deed of trust is authorized to sell and convey.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase price to be paid in cash on or before the 31st day of December, 1932, balance in two equal installments, payable on or before one and two years from date of sale, respectively, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from day of sale, said interest payable semiannually, and to be secured by first deed of trust on the property sold; or all cash at the option of the purchaser. The said trustee will receive no bid from any one offering to bid who shall not at or before the hour of sale, or any adjournment thereof, deposit with said trustee, as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid in case it is accepted, a deposit of $15,000, either in cash or certified check on a local bank or trust company, made or indorsed payable to the undersigned trustee, or in lieu thereof bonds of the par value of $30,000, in form transferable by delivery, secured by said deed of trust, said bonds to have all unpaid coupons attached thereto. The deposit of any unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him immediately after the sale. In case any successful bidder shall fail to complete his purchase by December 31, 1932, in accordance with the said terms of sale, said deposit may be forfeited at the option of the said trustee. Said trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids and withdraw the property from sale. Adjustments with respect to taxes, assessments, insurance, rentals, interest from operation of property, interests and all other adjustments shall be made as of the date of sale. The trustee, however, will continue to manage and operate said property and collect the income therefrom from date of sale to date of transfer upon existing terms as set forth in said deed of trust. The settlement of sale said trustee will not be responsible for any bills of expenses incurred in the management or operation of said property. All conveyancing, recording, examination of title, and notarial fees at the cost of the purchaser. Terms of sale to be complied with by the 31st day of December, 1932, otherwise the trustee reserves the right to resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser, upon the foregoing terms, after advertisement of such resale to be published three times per week for two successive weeks in two newspapers published in Washington, D. C.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

AVERAGING 4,000 miles a year on a bicycle for 50 years is the notable record set by Noble O. Tarbell, Kenosha., Wis., cycling fan. He began riding a bicycle when he was 5 years old, and this year is in his fiftieth year of riding. During that time he has kept track of 202,855 miles—not counting the hundreds of miles he rode before he started to keep a mileage record.

Mr. Tarbell rides only during his spare time. He has made only two long trips—both of less than 600 miles—and before there were paved roads. He has used six bicycles during his riding career, but says none of them was worn out. His oldest wheel is still in the family and is ridden by his son.

The effect of smoke on a hive of bees is more than suffocation—it is fear. The bees fear destruction of their home and instinctively eat all the honey they can hold, even to gorging themselves into a state of helplessness.

Turkey Boy, a pet gobbler owned by Mrs. Brown, of Los Angeles, needs the strains of rythmic music to start his "turkey trot." Mrs. Brown taught the bird to dance. In addition to his value as a home entertainer, Turkey Boy earns his keep by playing watchdog, according to Mrs. Brown. He gobbles a loud warning at the approach of a stranger.

HANGING THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Pa—Where's the hammer and screwdriver?

Ma—Whatcher gonna do now?

Pa—Take down Hoover and hang up Roosevelt.

Ma—I wouldn't do that yet. Roosevelt don't become President until March.

Pa—We got the rotogravure picture of Roosevelt and we might as well frame it.

Ma—I'd wait until Hoover's out. I can put the Roosevelt picture away where it will be all right to frame when he goes in.

Pa—Nothing doing. You'd forget where you put it like you did Harding.

Ma—What about Harding?

Pa—You said you'd put it away and when Wilson went out you just couldn't locate Harding at all.

Ma—I found him last year when we moved. He was in the bottom of a bureau drawer.

Pa—That's just what would become of Roosevelt. Where's the hammer?

Pa—Well, Herbie, old boy, I've gotta take you down.

Ma—It don't seem more'n a year since we put him up, pa.

Pa—Four years ago! You sure was a hero then, Herbie. Nobody ever thought you'd have such a rough trip. I reckoned we'd keep you on the wall for eight years, anyhow.

* * * * *

Ma (as he take the picture out of the frame)—Whatcher gonna do with him?

Pa—I dunno. Where's Roosevelt? I cut him out of the rotogravure and put him on the table there. What became of him?

Ma—I never saw him. Are you sure you cut him out?

Pa (highly excited)—Of course I am. I put him right on the table with the scissors on top of him.

Ma (to one of the kids)—Etta, did you see Mr. Roosevelt's picture?

Etta—Nope.

Pa (to another)—Eddie, did you take that picture of Roosevelt off the table?

Eddie—What Roosevelt off what table?

Pa (dramatically)—Now, look here, some took Roosevelt off the table and * * *

Pa—What?

Ma (pointing to 1-year-old Otis on the floor)—Look! The baby has Mr. Roosevelt!

Baby (punching holes in Mr. Roosevelt with a spoon)—Ga-ga! Oogy-oggy-ga-ga.

Pa (grabbing the ruined President-elect and gazing at it sadly)—This is a fine country!

Lincoln Park Citizens Protest Burning Dump

Charging that the burning of trash and decayed vegetables on a vacant lot at Twelfth and D streets southeast was a nuisance, the Lincoln Park Citizens Association last night decided to protest to the superintendent of police against its continuance.

A new committee on auditing was created, with Joseph Carroll, James Cronston and Lafayette Bevhler as members. The executive and other committee assignments also were made.

Commissioners Upheld In Refusal of Permit

A decision of District Supreme Court upholding the right of the District Commissioners to refuse to permit erection of a gasoline station in an area partially controlled by them was confirmed by the District Court of Appeals yesterday.

A group of persons sought a permit to build a station at 701 North Capitol street. They needed the permission of the Federal Government because there was some government property in the 200-foot radius. The consent of the Government, by law, is placed in the hands of the Commissioners, and they refused to assent.

Dog Gone

Boy's Father Asks Post to Aid in Search for Missing Pet.

Fritzie is gone, and 4-year-old LeRoy Hager is inconsolable. He wants his Fritzie back.

Unable to find Fritzie, and unable to get LeRoy's mind off of Fritzie, the boy's father, Bernard Hager, of 733 Tenth street northeast, last night appealed to The Post for assistance in his search for the dog.

While the mother had the boy and his dog out for a walk Saturday afternoon, the dog disappeared, almost from before their eyes, the father said. The dog is described as a Spitz with straight white hair, 7 inches high and 2½ years old.

POLICE-FIRE CLINIC TO BE OPENED SOON IN NEW STRUCTURE

Commissioners Today Will Accept Engine House on 13th Near K.

What is reported to be the finest police and firemen's clinic in the country, established in a model fire engine house, will be opened shortly at the new station on Thirteenth street, just above K.

H. W. Baker, director of District construction, yesterday approved the completed building, and the Commissioners today will accept the structure. Fire Department officials said that No. 16 Engine Company and No. 3 Truck Company, together with the water tower, will be started moving from their present quarters on Fourteenth street, near B steet, at once.

Constructed at a cost of $152,000 by the W. P. Rose Co., of Goldsboro, N. C., the fire engine house is of three-story brick construction and is handsomely designed. The site cost an additional $120,000. Because of the strategic location of the house, Deputy Fire Chiefs C. E. Schrom and John Carrington will make their headquarters there. At present they are at No. 2 Engine House.

Occupies Third Floor.

The entire third floor of the building is devoted to the clinic. Practically a complete hospital, the clinic will contain complete dental and medical equipment, an operating room, physicians' offices, and eye, ear, nose and throat examination room, and other facilities of the most modern hospital.

The dental equipment is already in use, but the medical equipment, which will cost close to $7,000, is to be purchased. A nurse will be kept at the clinic full time, and four physicians and two surgeons will be on the staff.

Longest Lineage in City.

For many years the police and firemen's clinic has been shunted from pillar to post with no established quarters in which the two departments could take pride. Recently it has been conducted at Emergency Hospital.

No. 16 Engine Company has the longest lineage in the city. It was originally the Franklin Company and was established in 1827. Together with No. 3 Truck Company it now comprises 40 men and officers, half of whom are always on duty.

When these companies abandon their present quarters, the final obstacle to clearing the western section of the Federal triangle for new construction will be removed.

The new engine house is expected to be in operation by December 15 and the clinic by January 15.

Patrick Henry's Plea For Liberty Wins Judge

Patrick Henry, colored, yesterday gained his freedom in Police Court when he told Judge Ralph Given that his liberty was sweet and that he didn't want to lose it. He was given another chance when the judge took his case under advisement.

However, Robert E. Lee, also colored, did not meet with much success in the story he told as to why he was intoxicated. Lee told the judge he had been robbed and beaten. He said that was why he was unsteady on his feet. He was fined $15.

Helper Saves Life As Scaffold Falls

Hands of Colored Worker Are Seared by Rope; Superior Hurt.

Seriously injured, Peter Pronxl, 42, of 308 H street northwest, was saved from almost certain death by the quick action of his colored helper, who, although painfully hurt, clung to the rope that controlled the falling scaffold from which Pronxl was suspended 85 feet from the ground at the Westchester Apartments yesterday afternoon.

Pronxl, a brick mason, was pointing up brickwork on the upper storys of the north side of the main buildings of the apartment group when the rope holding the scaffold slipped and he and the support started falling to the ground. James Mack, his colored helper, of 3510 Garfield street northwest, grabbed the rope, and although it burned the flesh to the bone, he held it, breaking the man's fall.

The brick mason was taken to Georgetown Hospital, where he was treated for head injuries and a fracture of the pelvis. His condition is considered serious.

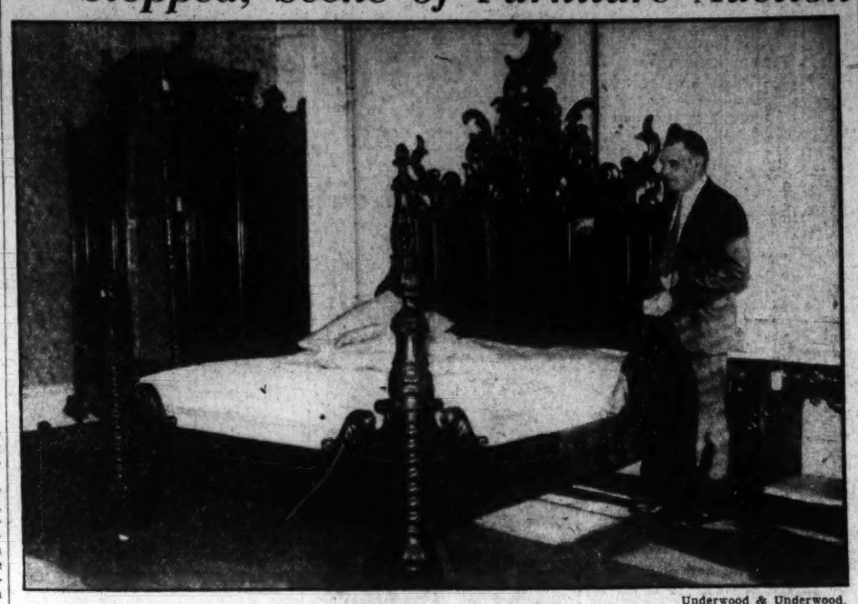
Old Metropolitan, Where Abe Lincoln Stopped, Scene of Furniture Auction



Underwood & Underwood.

This antique bed, never used since President Lincoln occupied it, will go on the auction block today with other furnishings at the historic old Metropolitan Hotel, last of the Pennsylvania avenue hostelries of the past. F. J. Fletcher will auction it off.

GEORGETOWN GROUP PICKS MRS. FORREST

Progressive Citizens Seek to Honor Hugh Taggart in Naming School.

Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest was elected president of the Progressive Citizens Association of Georgetown at a meeting last night, during which the association voted to ask the Board of Education to name a school for Hugh T. Taggart. Mr. Taggart, a former corporation counsel and Assistant Attorney General, was instrumental in having Potomac Park acquired by the Government.

Other new officers selected last night at the meeting in the Curtis School at Wisconsin avenue and O street were: Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan, first vice president; Miss Mary Hendrick, second vice president; Mrs. Charles H. Wagner, third vice president; Mrs. Lillian Offutt, treasurer; Mrs. William Roach, jr., recording secretary; Miss Helen S. Whitton, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Whitton, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

The association authorized its secretary to complain about the use of tar and pebbles for patching holes in Georgetown sidewalks, and against the tacking of police signs on trees in Washington Circle. They also asked a traffic stop sign on Prospect avenue at Thirty-fourth street and also on N street at Thirty-fourth. The association will also request traffic lights at Wisconsin avenue and N street and at Thirty-first and M streets. It will work for the elimination of parking on N street between Thirty-first street and Potomac street.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a special meeting of the association in honor of Mrs. Sullivan, vice president of the federation, who is the first woman ever to be elected to a federation post.

Fireman, Fighting Blaze, Victim of Heart Attack

Lieut. Thomas D. Lyon, 51, of the Fourteenth Fire Engine Company, was stricken with a heart attack late yesterday while assisting in the extinguishing of a trash fire on Eighth street near E street northwest.

He fainted as he was scaling a fence in the rear of a store. He was treated at Emergency Hospital. Lieut. Lyon lives at 1135 Fourth street northeast.

Boy Severely Burned When Gun Discharges

He was treated at Garfield Hospital.

Last Hotel Landmark in Lower Avenue Sells Relics for Song.

The lingering death of a landmark of the past was speeded yesterday by the rap of the auctioneer's hammer.

Long past the climax of its glory, dimmed behind the dusty, dingy eclipse of retrogression and change, the Metropolitan Hotel in lower Pennsylvania avenue took another step toward the grave.

The furnishings of its once proud rooms were on the auction block. Beds in which once slept the Nation's greatest during the past century, chairs in which they sat and other bits of furniture all went for a song.

Some things, valued as antiques, brought prices of more than a few dollars, but most of the furnishings of the once famous hostelry, where President Lincoln was a guest, were sold at ridiculous prices.

The last of the Avenue's famous old hotels, the Metropolitan will be torn down to make way for a new bus terminal to be erected at Sixth street. All its companions have already disappeared in the destruction of old buildings for the Municipal Center and the triangle building program.

Today a bed, "extra long," in which President Lincoln slept, will go on the block. The great mahogany bar, in which a steam table was placed after the dry amendment, also will be for sale. The auction is being conducted by Adam A. Weschler & Sons, Inc.

Policeman Is Held For Jury in Death

Coroner Is Told Patrolman Admitted Driving Car That Hit Woman.

Policeman William T. Schlosser, of the Ninth Precinct, was held for the action of the grand jury by a coroner's jury yesterday after an inquest in which it was testified that the officer admitted driving one of the cars which struck Mrs. Mathilda King, 60, in the 2900 block of Massachusetts avenue, last Friday night.

A witness to the fatal accident told the jury that a second car ran over the woman's body and left the scene of the collision without stopping. Private Schlosser was said to have admitted, 24 hours after the accident, being involved in the collision. After finishing a shift on duty Saturday, he made a report to his superior officer at the precinct.

Detective Sergt. Walter S. Beck testified at the inquest that Schlosser said he swerved his automobile when he saw Mrs. King in the street, but that he became excited and did not stop when his mother, a passenger in his car, fainted. The policeman posted bond for his appearance in court.

Clocks Stop

Caretaker's Death Leaves Timepieces Unwound at Civil Service.

Death stilled the ticking of 50 clocks at the Civil Service Commission yesterday.

Sunday Frederick W. Busey died of a heart attack at his home at Greater Capitol Heights, Md.

He did not wind the clocks—his Sunday task for the last ten years. They were silent yesterday. Two eight-day timepieces continued to go.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Crowded thoroughfares require increased vigilance to reduce the number of accidents. Wind, snow and rain are a menace to traffic safety. Safeguard yourself and fellow citizens by checking the safety devices on your car.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, has ordered all police cars to be equipped with double windshield wipers and tests to be made of brakes on vehicular police equipment in order to insure an additional measure of safety to his men and citizens of the city. It is an example which everyone should follow.

To date there have been 44 more deaths and 236 more injuries than during the corresponding period of 1931, the number of accidents have been decreased by 408. The figures are:

	1931.	1932.
Deaths	69	113
Injuries	3,174	3,410
Accidents	7,410	7,002

"Be Careful!"

SENATOR KING SHIES AT CAPITAL JOB, TOO

Utah Man, Like Copeland, Is Not Seeking Chair on District Committee.

Posibility that the Senate District committee may become a party football when committee chairmanships are passed about by the reorganized Senate developed yesterday when another prospective chairman indicated his unwillingness to accept the post.

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, ranking Democrat on the Senate District committee, said that if it was a matter of personal preference, he would not be disposed to accept the chairmanship.

Senator King said that while he has been interested in matters affecting the District for more than 20 years, he would hesitate to take over a job with such a vast amount of work involved. It would necessarily impose on his other activities, he said.

Previously Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, had indicated his unwillingness to accept the chairmanship for substantially the same reason. Both said, however, they would abide by their party's judgment in the matter. Senator King said his mind was not closed on the subject.

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), Virginia, outranks Senator Copeland on the Senate District committee, but the opinion is he would preferably take either the Senate appropriations committee or the banking and currency committee. Lacking reorganization of the Senate before March 4, Senators Capper (Republican), Kansas, will continue chairman until that time.

Thug Attacks Woman, Then Ransacks Home

Roy M. Smith, 1414 V street northwest, reported to police last night that his wife had been attacked and robbed of jewelry and cash amounting to $80.

Smith gave a detailed description of the man who, he said, called at their home yesterday afternoon, and asked Mrs. Smith if her husband was at home. When she answered that he was not at home, the man is said to have forced his way through the door, attacked the woman and ransacked the house.

Body Injuries Suffered By Pedestrian Car Hit

Aubrey Burns, 26, 615 Otis street northwest, suffered a possible fracture of ribs, lacerations and bruises late yesterday when struck by the car of John A. Aurin, 55, 1247 Kearney street northeast, at the intersection of New Hampshire and Georgia avenues northwest.

He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES DIRECTOR STRESSES OLD AGE INSURANCE

Bill to Be Offered Shortly to Congress Is Read to Monday Evening Club.

Stressing the great need in the District for some form of old-age insurance or pension, Dr. John O'Grady, director of the Catholic Charities, spoke before some 100-odd members of the Monday Evening Club at a meeting held last night in Willard Hotel.

A bill to provide for such cases was read to the assembled members of the club by James F. Duhamel, legislative chairman of the permanent committee on old-age security. This bill is to be presented to Congress this year in order that it may be acted upon as soon as possible.

Movement Proves Popular.

The movement for old-age pensions has proved popular since it first started some years ago. At present there are seventeen States which have laws providing for a certain amount of financial aid to those persons who have lost the capacity to make their own livings.

Dr. O'Grady said: "According to the 1930 census, there are in the District of Columbia 27,253 persons 65 years of age and over of which 22,962 are whites. In institutions of a private character there are 1,442 old people and at Blue Plains, the public institution for the indigent aged in the District, there are 610 persons. This is almost double normal capacity.

Cites Numerous Funds.

"The situation in the District is such that we could anticipate a much smaller number in proportion to our population, which in total figures would not be more than 1,000 or 1,500."

He explained that this small figure is "due to the fact that Washington is nonindustrial and that the great bulk of our aged population is taken care of by Federal pensions, Policemen's and Firemen's Assistance Funds and others of the same character."

"Therefore," Dr. O'Grady said, "the District of Columbia should have an old-age security act which would make it possible for its worthy aged indigents to know the blessings of security without having to endure the degradation of Blue Plains."

Woman Struck by Car Suffers Cuts on Face

Struck by the car of Dudley M. Moch, of New York, at Seventh and F streets northwest, Miss Carrie Caston, 305 Adams street northeast, yesterday suffered deep cuts about her face. She was treated by a private physician.

Moch was held in a $100 bond in connection with the accident.

Theft Series Loot Is Valued at $500

Articles Are Stolen From 2 Parked Cars and Apartment.

Loot amounting to about $500 in value was obtained in a series of thefts and housebreakings reported to police yesterday and last night.

Women's coats, valued at $30, were stolen from the car of Sidney Roseur, of Baltimore, while parked at 810 Seventh street northwest. The door of the car was forced open. Ernest Schumaker, 752 Maryland avenue northeast, also reported the loss of sample surgical instruments, valued at $62, from his car parked at Seventh and Q streets northwest.

Clothing and jewelry, valued at $145, were stolen from the apartment of Edward Goodings, 501 Twelfth street northeast. Thieves who broke the glass in a rear window of a new house at 2908 New Mexico avenue are said to have stolen a tool chest valued at $200.

$1,706 Judgment Granted.

A verdict of $1,706.25 was given Irving Goodman, of New York City, in District Supreme Court yesterday. Goodman, through Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer, sued the International Publishing Corporation of America because he claimed he had exchanged and sold stock for the company under a verbal agreement with Napoleon Hill, president of the company.

Alien Flags

Miniature U. S. Emblems on Sale Here Made Only in Japan.

It would be thought that "Old Glory" would be an exclusive American product; that all flags of the Nation would be made in the United States, and that foreign competition would not be felt in this particular case.

This is not so—at least in Washington, the Capital of these United States—because here it is impossible to buy a certain type of flag which does not bear the mark of origin, "made in Japan."

The flags in question are tiny emblems—1¼ by 1 inch in dimensions—to be used usually for table decoration.

That no other than foreign-made flags of this type were available in Washington was brought to the attention of The Post by the chairman of an entertainment committee of a civic group.

He wanted to obtain the little banners to decorate a banquet table. He visited several merchants handling novelties only to find that the article he wished was in each case the product of a foreign land.

In the end he was forced to buy the Japanese product. It has the prescribed 13 stripes but only 18 stars. Following the banquet he made a practically complete survey of stores in the city and found none that carried an American-made American flag of this size.

It seems that if one wishes tiny American flags of American manufacture there is only one way to get them—make them oneself.

The Post learned that three years ago a leading patriotic organization determined to correct the situation and enlisted the aid of numerous governmental agencies. Evidence indicates that its efforts were not successful.

D. C. HEADS DECIDE SOON ON AID PLEAS

Figure Agreed Upon Will Not Be Made Public Until Congress Meets.

The amount of money to be asked of Congress for emergency unemployment relief at the approaching session will be determined by the District Commissioners within the next few days after a conference with officials of the Board of Public Welfare, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, said yesterday.

Whatever figure is agreed upon will not be made known, however, until Congress convenes. The Budget Bureau, moreover, will have to approve the request before it is transmitted by President Hoover.

Leroy A. Halbert, director of emergency relief, several weeks ago reported to the Commissioners that $100,000 a month would be needed to care for Washington's unemployed during the winter. The present organization which he heads is expending about $25,000 a week on the expectation that the Community Chest will donate $100,000 so that the relief work may be carried on into the first week in January.

The Commissioners probably will ask Congress only for enough money to carry on the relief work through the 1933 calendar year, Dr. Reichelderfer said, rather than for the last half of the present fiscal year and the whole of the next. By the time Congress convenes in December, 1933, District authorities will be better able to estimate the needs for the subsequent winter.

While the Commissioners and welfare officials have agreed upon the best method of presenting the request for an immediate appropriation to Congress, they will leave to Congress the question of deciding what form the appropriations shall take, that is, whether it shall be in a deficiency bill or by joint resolution.

The special committee on emergency unemployment relief early in the fall submitted a report to the Commissioners in which it warned that starvation faced some Washingtonians unless additional relief funds are forthcoming from Congress.

200 TRADE LEADERS LAUNCH SOUTHWEST IMPROVEMENT DRIVE

Restoration of Old Precinct and Building of New School Sought.

A movement to advance the development of Southwest Washington was inaugurated last night by the Southwest Washington Business Men's Association at an oyster roast and barbecue at Auth's Provision Co., attended by 200 business men from various parts of the city.

Speakers who addressed the gathering agreed that Southwest Washington has been neglected to such an extent that it is fast reaching the status of "being the forgotten section of the Capital."

Odell S. Smith, chairman of the public order committee of the Washington Board of Trade, declared that the chief needs of the Southwest at present are restoration of the old Fourth Precinct, building of the new Jefferson Junior High School, ground for which has been purchased, improvement of Water street and erection of a branch public library.

Advantages Are Outlined.

Advantages of the Southwest section were outlined by George M. Yeatman, president of the Southwest Business Men's Association. He referred to lower prices, recreation and convenience for Government workers. The name of Water street, he declared, should be changed to Riverside street.

Plans for the widening and paving of Water street and Twelfth street and other street improvements for the Southwest section were revealed by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of public highways. These improvements, he said, should be carried out in the next two years.

A welcome was extended by Arthur C. Smith, president of the Federation of Business Men's Associations of the District, after the Southwest association voted to unite with the federation.

Police Chief Is Lauded.

A resolution was adopted protesting against unlicensed owners and operators of boats at the Municipal Fish Wharves.

These operators, it was charged, are selling to the merchants for one price in wholesale lots and then selling the general public in retail lots at the same price in pound lots. They are not required to maintain the same sanitary conditions and health requirements as the regular dealers, it was charged.

Another resolution was adopted commending Maj. Ernest W. Brown, chief of police, for his steps toward insuring proper police protection. Francis H. Austell spoke on the Community Chest drive. Entertainment was presented with Bernard Fitzgerald as master of ceremonies.

Robbers of Street Car Sought for Other Thefts

Two colored bandits who held up the operator of a one-man street car at Sumner road and Nichols avenue southeast early yesterday, escaping with $79, are suspected by police of being the two who have terrorized the southern section of Washington by holding up a number of merchants and taxicabs.

Kelly Holmes, of 531 M street southeast, operator of the trolley, reported to police that the men boarded his car and after he had closed the door, drew a revolver and robbed him. Forcing him to open the door, they escaped.

Car Operator Who Hit And Injured Boy Freed

Three-year-old Robert Burke, of 1700 Sixteenth street southeast, was seriously injured yesterday when he ran across the intersection at Nichols avenue and S street southeast and was struck by an automobile operated by William S. Graw, 52, of Aurora Hills, Va.

The child was taken to Casualty Hospital and treated for a possible fracture of the skull. His condition is undetermined. Police released Graw after testing the brakes of his car.

Coat Sweaters

McGregor has taken the common coat sweater, and really done something with it. They've improved its appearance by brushing it slightly. They've made it fit better by improved weaving. It can be worn for sports, or under a coat for street wear or as a jacket for house wear. Blue, grey, tan and brown. Sizes 36 to 46.
